“WILLIAM WITHER ESQUIRE
died Oct: 31 1789 aged 86.

. . . . .
On his death, all the male issue
Of an ancient and well respected family,
Who had resided at Manydown
During the space of four centuries
Became extinct.”

“Four centuries” in 1789, that takes one back (he said to himself) to the reign of Richard II. I wonder what the succession of the Withers of Manydown was, and what sort of life a country squire lived in those days. Visions of the manorial system; of the estate divided into two portions, that in demesne and that held by the villagers in villenage; of the manorial courts and of the lord dispensing justice—rose before him. “Some day I will write a history of the family and of the manor.”

Time passed. After Oxford came residence abroad. Then Holy Orders with exacting ministerial work. At length, through an enforced winter's rest, came the opportunity of putting into shape materials that had for years been collected for a history of the Withers of Manydown and of their offshoots at Oakley Hall, Theddon Grange, and other parts of Hampshire, and of prefixing to it a sketch of the origin of the family in Lancashire and, in the nature of an appendix, to add some particulars of its ramifications in other parts of England and of America.

The result is the present volume.

The title Materials for a History of the Wither Family is an admission of incompleteness. It is hardly possible in the lifetime of a busy man to collect and adjust all available facts concerning an ancient family, that dates back to the twelfth century, and then to weave them into a history proper. As it is, the search for ancient records in the Public offices, the examination of old family deeds, of wills at Somerset House and elsewhere, of Church registers all over the country, has taken up already too much time in a life set apart for more important occupations. The writer, however, is confident that the information here presented will interest many who bear the family name, and many members of allied families: moreover he is assured that it will usefully serve the wider purpose of illustrating the history of his own county of Hampshire.

The Wither family may not have produced any, or many, world-famous men and women; but it is not without just pride that its representatives to-day look back to forbears of distinction in all branches of Church and State, of literature, law and commerce; and especially to a long succession of country "squires" living on their estates, "good old English gentlemen," serving their country as magistrates, their parish as benefactors, honoured by their neighbours, and beloved by the poor.

As the sheets were going through the press the author of this family history experienced an irreparable loss in the death, at the early age of eighteen, at Winchester College, of his only surviving son. This fact may be a sufficient excuse for some errors in correcting proofs.

It remains for the author to thank those relatives and friends who have helped him in his congenial task. To his cousin, Mrs. Norsworthy, whose skilled pen has drawn the coats of arms from which the heraldic illustrations are printed, his thanks are especially due; also to Mr. Frank Sidgwick, of the publishing firm of Bullen & Co., for great help in connection with the life of George Wither, the poet, and for the admirable bibliography attached. The author is grateful also to Mrs. Beach and to Mrs. Ellice Hicks Beach for help in the history of the Withers of Oakley Hall, and to Mr. Gathorne Wood for those of Theddon Grange; to the Rev. F. T. Madge for researches in Winchester Cathedral Library, and to Miss Trice Martin for the same at the Record Office; to the many clergy who have readily supplied him with information from the Registers in their charge; to the Rev. C. S. Ward, of Wootton St. Lawrence, and the Rev. George Horner, of Wimbledon, who, with the Dean of Durham, Messrs. F. J. Baigent and W. H. Jacob, of Winchester, and Dr. Andrews, of Basingstoke, have from time to time given him valuable help and information on antiquarian and literary matters connected with this work; and not least is his gratitude due to Messrs. Warren, of Winchester, for the admirable way in which the book is printed and the facsimiles and illustrations prepared.

EPIGRAM BY GEORGE WITHER, THE POET, ON THE WITHER ARMS AND CREST.

(of Manydown), A.D. 1620.

“IF that the Standards of the House bewray
What Fortunes to the owners may betide ;
Or if their Destinies, as some men say,
Be in the names of any signified,
’Tis so in thine ; for that faire antique Shield
Borne by thy Predecessors long ago,
Depainted with a clear pure Argent field,
The innocence of thy line did shew.
Three sable Crescents with a Chevron gul’d
Tells that black fates obscured our houses light ;
Because the Planet that our fortunes rul’d
Lost her own lustre, and was darkened quite :
And, as indeed our Adversaries say,
The very name of Wither shows decay.
And yet despair not, keep thy White sustained,
And then it skills not what thy Crescents be.
What though the Moon be now increased, now waned ?
Learn thence to know thy life’s inconstancy ;
Be careful as thou hitherto hast been,
To shun th’ Abuses Man is tax’t for here :
And then thy soul that’s now eclipsed with sin,
When Moon and Sun are darkened, shall look clear ;
And what so’er thy English name may threat,
The Harvest’s son the Greeks entitle thee.
Ere thou shalt want, thy Hare will bring thee meat,
And to kill care, herself thy make-sport be :
Yea, yet (though Ennu’s mists do make them dull)
I hope to see the wanéd Orbs at full.”

NOTE BY G. W.—For the better understanding of this Epigram, note that his Arms are in a Field Argent, a Chevron Gules, betwixt three Crescents Sable. His name according to the Greeks is ὄρεπος (ōrēpos, son ; thēpos, summer or harvest). His Crest a Hare with three Wheat Ears in her mouth.

THE NAME "WITHER."

IN the opinion of such learned authorities as Dr. Skeat of Cambridge, and Professor Napier and Dr. Sweet of Oxford, the origin and derivation of the name WITHER is unknown.

That given by the poet George Wither in his Epigram quoted above, must be deemed purely fanciful; hardly less so is the suggestion of Mr. Barber in his British Family Names, namely, that Wither is a personal name with the root wið = "against," cf., the English "withstand," hence one who opposes or a "warrior"; nor once more can Professor Mayhew's view hold, namely, that in connection with the Icelandic viðr (pronounced Wither) a wood, the word is allied with the old English "widu" "wudu," our wood, and so that the name means a "woodman." That the Icelandic "Viðarr" is the correspondent Norse name is likely, and that it is allied to the Icelandic "viðr" is possible; but the old English name for wood, "widu," would rather give Wider.

What we clearly do know is that WITHER is a genuine old English name of great antiquity. It appears in various Anglo-Saxon documents, e.g., in a charter of Æthelred, dated A.D. 1005, one of the witnesses signs his name as "Ego Wiðer minister," where ð is the symbol for "th."<sup>1</sup>

The name also occurs in the Domesday record (1086) as a tenant prior to that census.<sup>2</sup> It constantly appears in the "Hundred Rolls," and always without prefix, suggesting that its origin is personal. It does not seem to be the name of a place, though it occurs apparently as the first element of the place names "Witheridge" (Devon), "Witherby" (Leicestershire), "Withersdale," "Withersfield" (Suffolk), "Witherslack" (Westmoreland), "Witherstone" (Dorset).

The forms "Wyther" and "Wither" are used interchangeably, e.g., "Sir Thomas Wyther (circa 1320), father of Thomas Wither,"<sup>3</sup> "Otho Wither, son of Richard Wyther," baptised 1568.<sup>4</sup> In 1613, "Wyther" and "Wither" are the same person.<sup>5</sup> After the first quarter of the seventeenth century the form "Wyther" is no longer found.

With the possessive sign "s" the name becomes "Wythers" or "Withers," denoting of course son of "Wyther" or "Wither." The forms with and without the "s" are also used interchangeably, e.g., in the House of Commons (7th August, 1646) the poet George Wither is called in the same speech "Mr. Wither" and "Mr. Withers": see also the Parish Registers of Wootton St. Lawrence, Kingsclere, and Romsey,<sup>6</sup> "Foster's Alumni Oxonienses," and the "Feet of Fines" (passim). At the present day the tendency of strangers to the name is to add the "s." It thus seems probable that all persons bearing the name Withers in England and America are descended from some original Wither or Wyther.

Sporadic forms of the name are "Wether" and "Wethar," both on several of the Manydown Court and Compotus Rolls. "Wethers" and "Whethers" are found in Foster's Alumni Oxonienses; "Whither" and "Whithers" in several Parish Registers; "Wethur" in the Subsidy Rolls; "Wythere" in the Basingstoke Rental Rolls; "Weethers" in the Alton Registers; and "Wother" in those of Basing. In the Magdalen College, Oxford, Register, "John Wythyrs" is Fellow in 1485. In the Eton College Registers "William Whither" is elected Fellow in 1477 and is sometimes mentioned as "Master Wyther." There are still other variations of the name.

CHAPTER I.

WITHER OF LANCASHIRE.

(1189—1389.)

ALTHOUGH isolated instances of Withers are found in the Domesday Survey (A.D. 1086)<sup>1</sup> and elsewhere, no certain record of any family descent is to be found earlier than the time of Henry II (1154-1189). At this period we have definite information. The Pedigree of the Cotgreave family, executed by Randles Holme (one of a family of heralds), of Chester, in 1672, from documents compiled by William Camden in 1598, affords (if correct) a definite and distinct starting point for all Wither Pedigrees.

It gives three generations of Withers, their marriages, and their armorial bearings: the Wither Arms of that Pedigree being identical with those now and without question for more than 500 years borne by the Wither family, namely, "Argent, a chevron gules between three crescents sable."

The Wither family as it can be traced is clearly (as it is by tradition) of Lancashire origin. The Pedigree opposite this Chapter is taken as to the first three names from the Cotgreave Pedigree, and the date fixed within the ten years (1179-1189), when Roger de Lucy was Constable of Chester, temp. Henry II. His Constablership lasted till 12 John (1211).

The following is the statement of one of the documents attached to the Cotgreave Pedigree, attested by Lady Harriet Cotgreave 19 November, 1841 :—

“Hugh Cotgreave, Esq., living y<sup>e</sup> 10 & 16 Ed. I (1282–1288), Lord of Hargreave, Tarvin, & Guilder-Sutton in y<sup>e</sup> Countie Palatine of Chester, married Ellinor daughter of Robert del Holme, Lord of Tranmere, and had issue Ralph his heir and Ursula who married Thomas Wyther or Wither, Esq., son and heir of Reginald Wyther, Esq., of Pendleton, Lancashire, by his wife Isabel, daughter of Sir Thomas Winstanleye, of Winstanleye in y<sup>e</sup> last named shire, which Reginald was son and heir of Sir Robert Wyther, Knt., of Pendleton, Lancashire, and Halton, Cheshire, Seneschal to Roger de Lucy, Constable of Chester and Baron of Halton, temp. Henry II (1179–1189). Y<sup>e</sup> above named Sir Robert married Joan dg<sup>t</sup>. of Sir Adam de Bostock, Knt., in y<sup>e</sup> last named countie.”

1ST SHIELD.

Quarterly, 1st, argent, a chevron, gules between 3 crescents sable; for Wyther.

2nd, azure a chief, 3 chevronells in base, or; for Fitz Hugh, Baron of Malpas.

3rd, quarterly or and gules, a bend sable; for Malban, Baron of Nantwich.

4th, azure, a lion rampant, argent; for Eustace Crewe de Montalt, Lord of Hawarden, Flintshire.

Impaling, gules, a fess indented, ermine between 3 bugle horns, or, stringed argent; for Cotgreave.

2ND SHIELD.

Wyther, quartering the arms as above. Impaling, or, 2 bars azure, in chief 3 crosses patée gules; for Winstanleye.

3RD SHIELD.

Wyther, quartering the arms as before. Impaling, sable, a fess humetté argent; for Bostock.

The issue of Thomas Wyther and Ursula Cotgreave is uncertain. Three generations from Sir Robert Wyther (1189) would, according to the ordinary reckoning, bring us to A.D. 1279, thus the son of Robert and Ursula may well have been that

Sir William Wyther, knight and judge, of whom we hear repeatedly between 1279-1307 through the Patent and Close Rolls of the time of Edward I, and of whom it is said in Foss' Lives of the Judges<sup>1</sup>: "His descendants removed from Lancashire to Manydown in Hampshire, where the family settled in the reign of Edward III."

SIR WILLM. WYTHER

SIR WILLIAM WYTHER was evidently in the confidence of Edmund, first Earl of Lancaster, brother of King Edward I, by whom Sir William Wyther was appointed (1287), at the request of the Earl, itinerant justice for pleas in Edmund's forest property in Lancashire, Derbyshire, Staffordshire, and Yorkshire.<sup>2 3 4</sup> He had also other judicial powers, as when, e.g., he was appointed in 1306 one of the Commissioners to decide a cause in North Wales between the Earl of Arundel and Richard de la Chambre.<sup>5</sup> He was also one of the executors of Edmund's will.<sup>6</sup> His descendants (as will be seen) remained closely connected with the Lancaster family. Sir W. Wyther married (1294) Agnes, widow of William de Ipstones,<sup>7 8</sup> but there is no authenticated pedigree of his issue.

SIR THOMAS WYTHER
(1323-1328).

We next hear (1323) of a Sir Thomas Wyther, knight, who, as he inherited property, z.e., the manor of Kimbolton, and land in Calton and Onemastmathfeld, county Hereford, from William de Ipstones,<sup>9</sup> is probably the son of Sir William Wyther the judge. He also married an Agnes, to whom the property passed in 1329, "as Thomas is now dead."<sup>10</sup> All evidence points to the probability that this Sir Thomas Wyther is the man from whom begins the Elizabethan Pedigree made in 1576, confirmed by the College of Arms and various Heralds Visitations. The original of this pedigree with its crabbed Elizabethan writing has long been in the possession of the Withers of Manydown. It begins as follows :—

ELIZABETHAN PEDIGREE, 1576.

“Sir Thomas Wyther, kgt, in the countie of Lancaster, who was servantt and counsolor to Henry, 1st duke of Lancaster, and also to Thomas, Erle of Lancaster, etc., and from whom are descended these gentlemen underwritten. Colected anno 1576. Hee killed one Syr Robarte de Hollande, kgt., and was Bannysshed for a tyme out of England, etc. After called home, etc.”

This incident as related by Dugdale<sup>1</sup> occurred in 1328 (the year before Sir Thomas Wyther's death), and redounded to the credit rather than otherwise of Sir Thomas Wyther :—

“Baron de Holland, who was in the wars in Scotland, owed his advancement to his becoming Secretary to Thomas Earl of Lancaster. In 1st Ed. II (1307) he (Lord H.) obtained large territorial grants from the Crown. In 8th Ed. II he was first summoned to Parliament as Baron. Upon the insurrection of his old master, Thomas Earl of Lancaster, 15 Ed. II (1321), having promised that nobleman all aid in his favour, and failing to fulfil his engagement, Lancaster was forced to fly northwards, and was finally taken prisoner at Boroughbridge [he was attainted and put to death, 1322], when Lord Holand rendered himself to the King at Derby . . . . for which duplicity he became so odious to the people that . . . being taken prisoner in a wood near Henly Park towards Windsor, he was beheaded on the nones (7th) October, Anno 1328, and his head sent to Henry Earl of Lancaster [brother of the late Earl Thomas], then at Waltham Cross, in the co. of Essex, by Sir Thomas Wyther, a Kgt., and some other private friends.”

The only difficulty in the above statement is that Henry 4th Earl of Lancaster was not created Duke until 6th March, 1351, but he was living in 1328, and it is evident that Sir Thomas Wyther was in the confidence of two generations of the Lancaster family, as his father Sir William had been in the confidence of and exor. of Edmund the 1st Earl. (See note below on the Lancaster Family.)

According to the Elizabethan Pedigree (1576) above mentioned and to the Essex Visitation (1634) Sir Thomas Wyther, knight, who was dead in 1329, was succeeded by his son and heir Thomas Wyther, Esq., county Lancaster, who married and had issue (three sons):—

THOMAS WITHER
(1329-1389).

- (1) Thomas, of Whalley, Lancashire.
- (2) Richard, of Hunstanton, parish of Wynburg, Cheshire.
- (3) Robert, who came to Manydown, Hampshire, and was the progenitor of the Withers of Manydown, Oakley Hall, and of Bentworth and Theddon Grange.

With Thomas Wyther and his three sons Thomas, Richard, and Robert, we hear the last of the Withers of Lancashire. It will not be difficult, with the aid of the Elizabethan Pedigree and various Heralds Visitations and Inquisitions Post Mortem, to trace the descendants of the three brothers who settled in various parts of England, especially in Essex, London, Somersetshire, and Hampshire. With the latter this book is especially concerned, but the London, Essex, and Somersetshire Withers, who seem to have sprung from the two elder brothers, Thomas and Richard, also demand notice, and a short chapter must be devoted to them before we tell the tale of the Withers of Hampshire.

In order not to overload this statement of the Wither origins I have relegated to the appendix a number of scattered references (taken from ancient documents in the Record Office and elsewhere) to individuals of the name of Wither or Wyther who had property in, or were connected with, various parts of England other than Lancashire and Hampshire prior to the reign of Henry IV (1412), from which time there is continued evidence of the settlement of the descendants of Robert Wither at Manydown and in Hampshire. I note here briefly that the student of a family history must observe with great interest that a continuous series of references in ancient charters of the time of Henry III, Edwards I and II, and Richard III, i.e., of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, confirm privileges "which their ancestors had had" to various members of the family Wyther in the Forest of Dene (Gloucestershire), and especially in the manor of St. Briavel's.<sup>1</sup> There are also many early references to Wither families in Staffordshire and Herefordshire, from some of which pedigrees could be made. I have resisted the temptation to link on these disconnected pedigrees with the main line of the Withers of Hampshire as descended from the Wythers of Lancashire, though the Wythers of Ilum, "sometimes called Ipstonesland," Staffordshire,<sup>2</sup> are almost certainly (through the Ipstones family) connected with the Sir William Wyther, the executor of Edmund, first Earl of Lancaster, and with Sir Thomas Wyther, the counsellor or chancellor of his son and grandson, Thomas, the second Earl, and Henry, the first Duke of Lancaster. The title of this work is "Materials for a History of the Wither Family." I must leave it to my descendants, who may have more leisure and greater opportunities, to link together these and future researches and discoveries into a more connected history of the origins of the Wither family, and of their settlement in other parts of England than Hampshire.

CHAPTER II.

OF

THOMAS WYTHYER, ESQ.

LIVING CIRCA 1363,

OF PENDLETON HALL, NR. CLITHEROE, LANCASHIRE.

THIS chapter is necessarily very fragmentary. The facts recorded are based mainly on the statements of the Elizabethan pedigree which faces the chapter, supplemented by (1) the Heralds' Visitations for Essex in 1558, 1634, and 1672; (2) Inquisitions post mortem and Chancery proceedings at various dates in the sixteenth century; and (3) Wills at Somerset House.

Thomas Wyther (living circa 1363), of Pendleton Hall, Lancashire, had three sons—(1) Thomas, (2) Richard, (3) Robert.

Robert, the youngest, came to Manydown, and his descendants and their history are fully recorded under Wyther of Hampshire. I proceed to state briefly what is known of the two elder sons and their descendants.

Of Thomas, the eldest, there is this note on the Elizabethan pedigree:—

"Thomas Wyther Esquyer: servant and steward to the Abbot of Whalley in the countie of Lancaster. Hee slew one Robert Worsley K<sup>g</sup>t and for that deed hee with his brethren fled into Cheshire and served the Abbot of the Vale Royall<sup>1</sup> in the countie of Cheshire."

Careful researches among the archives of the Worsley family have failed to discover any particulars or confirmation of this deed,

CHAPTER II.

OF

THOMAS WYTHYER, ESQ.

LIVING CIRCA 1363,

OF PENDLETON HALL, NR. CLITHEROE, LANCASHIRE.

THIS chapter is necessarily very fragmentary. The facts recorded are based mainly on the statements of the Elizabethan pedigree which faces the chapter, supplemented by (1) the Heralds' Visitations for Essex in 1558, 1634, and 1672; (2) Inquisitions post mortem and Chancery proceedings at various dates in the sixteenth century; and (3) Wills at Somerset House.

Thomas Wyther (living circa 1363), of Pendleton Hall, Lancashire, had three sons—(1) Thomas, (2) Richard, (3) Robert.

Robert, the youngest, came to Manydown, and his descendants and their history are fully recorded under Wyther of Hampshire. I proceed to state briefly what is known of the two elder sons and their descendants.

Of Thomas, the eldest, there is this note on the Elizabethan pedigree:—

"Thomas Wyther Esquyer: servant and steward to the Abbot of Whalley in the countie of Lancaster. Hee slew one Robert Worsley Kg<sup>t</sup> and for that deed hee with his brethren fled into Cheshire and served the Abbot of the Vale Royall<sup>1</sup> in the countie of Cheshire."

Careful researches among the archives of the Worsley family have failed to discover any particulars or confirmation of this deed, though there were several Sir Robert Worsleys in succession at the end of fourteenth and beginning of the fifteenth centuries. Nor has anything been discovered of Thomas Wyther's descendants, except their names to the fourth generation, where they apparently end in three monks: one was Abbot of Combermere, co. Cheshire; another, Daniel, was Prior of the Vale Royall; and a third, Richard was a monk of Chester. (See Pedigree.)

RICHARD WYTHYER
of Hunstanton

Richard Wyther, the second son of Thomas of Pendleton Hall, "came to Hunstanton in the parish of Wynbury in the Countie of Cheshire, and married the daughter of Lea or Lee in the same parish." (See Pedigree.)

His grandson, Robert Wyther of Wynbury, was "Bayley" or "Receptor" for the Earl of Shrewsbury (circa 1450), and married Emery, daughter of Whiteacre of Nantwich, Esquire. Their descendants seemed mainly to have engaged in business in London, and some of them settled in Essex and Somersetshire.

Robert Wyther's eldest son Lawrence, an alderman of London, made a good marriage with Elizabeth, daughter of George Standish, Esq. (son of Sir Robert Standish of Standish, co. Lancaster, Knight), by his marriage with S. Stanley, fourth brother of the Earl of Derby. He bought the manor and park of Ilbrewers, near Taunton, Somersetshire, with 1640 acres of land.<sup>1</sup> He died 1574.

GEORGE WYTHYER
(Archdeacon of Colchester), of Danbury, Essex.

The issue of this marriage was Fabian (died 1548), a noted goldsmith of London, who lent money to Queen Elizabeth, and wrote books on astrology which may be seen at the British Museum, and George (born 1525), who took Holy Orders and became Rector of Danbury, Essex, and Archdeacon of Colchester and D. D. 1562. The Archdeacon evidently had Protestant tendencies, for he objected to wearing the "cornered cappe" ordered by Archbishop Parker, and was in consequence suspended from preaching; but yielded at the urgent request of the people of Bury [St. Edmonds]<sup>1</sup>. In 1582, he had some correspondence with Burleigh (Queen Elizabeth's minister), in which he tenders his "thanks for the good friendship and favour which he and others his brethren the ministers of Essex had found at Burleigh's hands in their late suits."<sup>2</sup> He was the author of A view of the Marginal Notes of the Popish Testament translated into English by the English fugitive residents at Rhemes, in France, published 1588. By his letters<sup>3</sup> to the Prince Elector Palatine, he seems to have taken a leading part on the Puritan side in the ecclesiastic controversies of the early years of Queen Elizabeth's reign. He died November 17th, 1605, aged 80.

Thomas Wyther, younger brother of Robert Wyther of Wynbury, came to Glastonbury, Somersetshire, and had a son William of Bridgwater. Another brother, John, seems to have settled at Dunster, in that county. A tombstone in Dunster Church, dated 1487, bears the following inscription:—

"Of yo<sup>r</sup> charitie pray for the soules of John Wyther and Agnes his wif, and John Wyther their eldest son, whose bodys
Resteth under this stone anno d'ni Mill'mo
CCCCCCCVII penultimo die Septe'bris Expectando generalem resurrect'onem mortuor' et vita' eterna. Amen."

JOHN WYTHIER
of Dunster.

This inscription confirms the pedigree in the Herald's Visitation of London, 1633-35, which also bears the correct crest and arms of Wither.<sup>1</sup> From this branch of the family came in direct descent Sir William Wither, Lord Mayor of London (1707).

<sup>1</sup> B.M. Harleian, vol. 17, p. 360.

of London, Salter.

Another son of Robert Wyther of Wynbury, Richard Wyther, born at Newport, co. Salop, died in London 1521, was a citizen and salter in London. Pedigrees and wills show that at least five generations of London Withers were members of the Salters' Guild. The interesting will<sup>2</sup> of Richard Wyther, with its early sixteenth century arrangement of obits, shows that he was an important member of the "coialtie of salters," to whom he bequeathed "a standing cup with cover gilt hanging in the knop there of iii saltes weying xxix unc. Di." He also bequeathed a considerable sum towards "the gildying of the Altar of Corpus Xti in the Salters chappell." The Secretary to the Salters' Company tells me that the "standing cup" and other gifts mentioned in the will, were lost in the fire which destroyed the old Salters' Hall.

See Appendix 3.

For the purpose of the pedigree, I have consulted the wills of numerous London Withers engaged in "business" between 1492-1721, and have placed in the Appendix a list of some thirty of the principal ones, with references to the Somerset House calendars, for the benefit of those who wish to consult them further. Needless to say the family spread widely in London and were engaged in various trades, and at the present day there are at least three families engaged in business in London who bear the Wither arms, but add an s to the name. One of the old London Withers, William Wither, "citizen and merchant taylor," who died 1592, was a grandson of John Wither of Manydown, who died 1506; but most of them seem to have sprung from Richard Wither of Hunstanton in Wynbury.

The earliest will<sup>1</sup> examined, dated 30th August, 1492, proved 5th November, 1492, is that of Richard Wether (siz) of the "fellowship of haberdashers," and is of such an interesting character that I append large extracts from it. The bequests to the poor of Hereford in addition to those of London, look as if this Richard was a descendant of Sir William Wyther, the judge, and connected with the Withers of Staffordshire and Herefordshire.

The latest<sup>2</sup> of the London wills I have consulted is that of Sir William Wither, Kgt., 1721, who was son of a linen draper in Cheapside. The pedigree at the head of this chapter shows his descent from John Wyther of Dunster. He bore the Wither arms. He was knighted at Kensington,<sup>3</sup> when Alderman of London, 20th October, 1699, and was made Lord Mayor in 1707. He died at his country house at Fulham (1721), leaving various gifts to the poor of Fulham (and other parishes) "as are or have been housekeepers of the Communion of the Church of England." Sir William Wither's uncle, John, who married Mary, daughter of Sir Thomas Morton, Kgt., was called "King of Ham. He was very like King Charles II." The Lord Mayor's descendants were living at Fulham in 1768.

WITHER OF MANYDOWN, 1389—1789.

“ROBERT WYTH<sup>ER</sup> 3rd sonne of Thomas Wyther, <sup>1389—1484</sup> Esquyre of Lancashire came to Hampshire to a place called Manydowne, where hee married a wyfe, and by her had yssue.” This statement of the Elizabethan Pedigree (1575) is confirmed by an old tradition in the family, which again is based on a statement contained in a document once among Mr. Wither Bramston’s papers at Oakley Hall, now destroyed—“that the above Robert was the nephew and godson of Prior Robert Rudborne (1384—1394), of the Convent of St. Swithun’s, Winchester, who made him ‘firmarius’ of the desmesne lands of the manor of Manydown.”

Nothing more is known of this Robert, unless he is the same as the Robert Wyther of Hatfield, who was “Keeper of the Victuals” at Carisbrooke Castle, I.W., in 1344.<sup>1</sup>

That there were Withers in Hampshire in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries is clear from the Lay Subsidy and Exchequer Rolls, and from the Obedientiary Rolls of the Priory of St. Swithun, Winchester. e.g., In 1338, John Wythere is mentioned as renting a house from the Monks of St. Swithun in Southgate Street, Winchester, and again in 1352.<sup>2</sup> In 1378 John Wether

WITHER OF MANYDOWN, 1389—1789.

“ROBERT WYTH<sup>ER</sup> 3rd sonne of Thomas Wyther, <sup>1389—1484</sup> Esquyre of Lancashire came to Hampshire to a place called Manydowne, where hee married a wyfe, and by her had yssue.” This statement of the Elizabethan Pedigree (1575) is confirmed by an old tradition in the family, which again is based on a statement contained in a document once among Mr. Wither Bramston’s papers at Oakley Hall, now destroyed—“that the above Robert was the nephew and godson of Prior Robert Rudborne (1384—1394), of the Convent of St. Swithun’s, Winchester, who made him ‘firmarius’ of the desmesne lands of the manor of Manydown.”

and his wife and Richard Wyther and his wife are taxed in the villat. of Whitwell and Rookley, I.W.<sup>1</sup> In following year we find Hugh Wyther in the retinue of the Sieur de Audelegh at the muster at Southampton.<sup>2</sup> In 1402 we get nearer Manydown. John Chase, the zealous Chapter Clerk (1623—1646) of Winchester Cathedral in his notes on documents belonging to the Chapter, records under the head of Wotton Manor a feoffment of lands and buildings in Nately Scures and Newnham, near Basingstoke, made to William Wither, 3 Henry IV (1402).<sup>3</sup> In 1412 Richard Wyther acts as attorney in a suit brought at Basingstoke by Hugh Kingsmill; and in the earliest rental roll (1400—1428) the same name is found paying rent to Basingstoke Manor.<sup>4</sup> In 1431—36 John Wythere holds lands in Co. Southampton and tenements in burgage in Winchester.<sup>5</sup> In 1414 John Wyther and Amice, his wife, sell a messuage, rents, and homage in Winchester and Otterborne.<sup>6</sup> At the inquisition for alien subsidies taken at Winchester 1453, John Wither is one of the jurors.<sup>7</sup>

The above note of John Chase, showing that in 1402 a Wither was recorded as possessing property under the Manor of Wootton, is most interesting and significant as bearing on our history. It is to be remembered that Wootton and not Manydown is the name of the Manor until 1430. "Unluckily," says Dean Kitchin in his interesting and detailed history of the great Manor of Manydown, compiled for the Hampshire Record Society in 1895, "we have no Roll extant between 1423 and 1430, so that the exact year of the change, and perhaps also the reason for it, is not to be discovered. All we know is that in 1423 the Manor is Wottone; while in 1430 it is Manidoune."<sup>8</sup> The Court and Compotus Rolls of the Manor for the fifteenth century have been carefully searched, but the inspection does not reveal the name Wither in connection with either Wootton or Manydown until the first year of Richard III (1484). In the Court Roll of the Manor of that year and in 1485, Thomas Wither is first mentioned, and in 1487 he appears as "firmarius."<sup>1</sup> From that date the record is continuous and complete.

I will now summarize, as much as is consistent with a family history, the long story of the Withers of Manydown.

(1.)—Thomas Wither, of Manydown, married Joan, daughter of Richard Mason, a family that for centuries held land at Sydmanton, one of the eleven tythings of Kingsclere, the ancient chieftown of the "hundred" of that name, seven miles north-west of Basingstoke.

THOMAS WITHER,
1484—1506.

Wither, impaling or, a lion rampant, double-headed azure, Mason.

Thomas Wither rendered the "Compotus" of the manor<sup>2</sup> in 1491, 1501, and in 1506, in which year he died and was buried at Wootton.

In his will he speaks of "Septem pueris meis." Three only are known: John, the eldest, who succeeded at Manydown; Richard, of Sydmanton; and Thomas, "of Erlstone,"<sup>3</sup> in Burghclere parish. To his widow, Joan Wither, and her son, John, was granted in 1514 by Prior Silkstead the lease of "the scite of the Manor of Manydown and of the Rectory of Wootton." A facsimile and translation of this lease (the earliest we have) is appended in Chapter VII. Widow Joan Wither rendered the Compotus of the Manor as "firmaria" in 1507, 1516, 1522, and 1533. She died in 1528, and was buried at Wootton. Her will mentions her sons John and Richard, probably the only ones that survived.

At this point in the history there is a great deal of information in various "wills," in the "inquisitiones post mortem," and in the "Feet of Fines," Co. Southampton, concerning the descendants of Richard the second son of Thomas of Manydown and of Nicholas the third son.

Richard Wither, sometimes spoken of as of Sydmanton (his mother's native place), sometimes as of Wherwell, had six sons and two daughters, who settled in the parishes of Kingsclere and Burghclere. They are traceable for at least four generations. (See Pedigree IV.)

John, the eldest of the six, bought (1561) 1600 acres of land and six messuages in the parish of Kingsclere from the Edwards family.<sup>1</sup> John Wither's son Henry, who died 1602, bought some 2700 acres in addition and twenty messuages from the Fawkener family,<sup>2</sup> one of whom (Richard Fawkener) had married Henry's aunt Joan in 1575. This considerable property was situated in Erlstone (Burghclere parish) and in Sydmanton and Itchinswell (Kingsclere), and included the properties called Beenhams Court, Aps-hanger; and Strattons (all well known places in Kingsclere parish), which he left to his three daughters,—Frances, Anne, and Beatrice.<sup>3</sup>

Richard Wither's youngest son Nicholas settled at North Oakley (also in the parish of Kingsclere, near Hannington), the Manor of which he bought in 1586, together with 680 acres of land from Thomas Ayliffe.<sup>4</sup>

Another Nicholas Wither, son of John and Richard Wither's brother Thomas of Erlstone, was one of the witnesses of the will of Morphet Kingsmill, last Abbess of Wherwell (1570). He was then the occupant of the Manor of Middleton in the parish which now goes by the descriptive name of Longparish, which Manor he held under the Abbess and Convent of Wherwell, and after the suppression of the monastery (1543) he held it under Sir Thomas West, Lord de la Warr, for his life, the life of his wife Jane, and that of their eldest son Nicholas.<sup>1</sup> He died a very old man in 1637. His son Nicholas bought subsequently from Lord de la Warr and from Sir Mathew Carew some 2000 acres of land and other property in Longparish,<sup>2</sup> where his descendants lived for four generations and are recorded in the Longparish Registers. (See Pedigree V.)

The members of these collateral branches of the family,—some of whom added s to the name, and some of whom seem to have held the position of yeoman farmers—seem by their various “wills” to have kept up their connection with their Hampshire neighbours and relatives, the Withers of Manydown, to whom I now return.

Proved 1544.

It is evident from the above will of John Wither, and by subsequent dealings with the Manor that the "indenture of yeres which I have upon the farm of Manydowne" was not left to his eldest son John, but to Richard the second son, though this is the only instance in the long history of the Wither tenure of Manydown when it did not go to the eldest son. The tenure of Manydown was a peculiar one, something like, though not precisely, a copyhold. There was absolute fixity of tenure, but "fines" were paid to the lords (the Prior and Convent of St. Swithun's) on the death of the tenant, and at other periods according to the leases. As will be seen in the course of this history, the Withers of Manydown gradually became possessed in fee simple of considerable property (amounting in 1790 to about 6000 acres) around the comparatively small demesne lands (1557 acres) of the Manor which were not enfranchised until 1863.

I will now record what is known of Richard Wither's brothers and sisters, remembering that Richard (not John) succeeded his father John at Manydown.

- (1.)—John seems to have retired to Ramsdell (three miles north). He married "Olyfe," who died 1563, and was buried at Wootton, for Ramsdell was not ecclesiastically separated from Wootton until 1868. Presumably he married again, for the Wootton registers record the names of six children of "John Wither of Ramsdell" between 1564—1580. He died and was buried at Wootton, November 8th, 1582.
- (2.)—George married Avelyn Shanke, who died 1584. He settled at Dummer (four miles south of Manydown), and became the progenitor of the Withers of Hall Place (Oakley Hall). See chap. V.
- (3.)—William married Jone Webb, and had a son Nathaniel who was living in 1633.
- (4.)—Agnes married — Goodyer, and
- (5.)—Ann married (1568) Nicholas Whitland.

I cannot trace what became of the other four children.

- (3.)—Richard Wither of Manydown married Margaret, daughter of William Poynter, a family long settled at Whitchurch, Hants, that came originally from Somersetshire. Richard Wither is recorded in two old pedigrees as having married twice, making his eldest son, who succeeded at Manydown, the only child of an unnamed first wife. The only support I can find for this is the reference in the will of Richard Wither's widow, Margaret, who died 1582, to "John Wether my son in law."

Richard Wither and Margaret his wife had eight sons, John, Richard, James, Arthur, George, Otho, William and Ferdinando; and five daughters, Margaret, Elizabeth, Barbara, Elinor, and Joan.

John succeeded at Manydown.

George, born 1562, became the father of the poet, George Wither, and settled at Bentworth, where his descendants lived until 1730. (See Chapter VI.)

Otho, born 1568, survived his mother and married, but died s.p.

Ferdinando, born 1574, married — Page of Harrow-on-the-Hill. He was admitted to Gray Inn 16th May, 1611.

He inherited from his mother lands in the parish of Merton, Surrey. He was living 1638.

The other sons died young.

The eldest daughter Margaret predeceased her father in 1560; the record of her burial is the first entry in the Wootton registers.

The other four daughters inherited from their mother copyholds in Woodmancote, near Micheldever, Hants.

Richard Wither died at Manydown, and was buried at Wootton, 23rd July, 1577.

(4.) John Wither of Manydown, eldest son of Richard, married Joan, daughter of John Love, a family long settled at Basing Park, near Alton, Hants.<sup>1</sup> Joan's brother, Nicholas Love, became Head Master and Warden of Winchester College. I have been unable to discover either the will of John Wither, who died in 1620, or that of his widow, who died 1639; but their burials and the baptisms of their ten children (see pedigree) are recorded

(3 and 4.)—John, born 1597, and James, born 1599, both went to Winchester College as scholars. The latter became a Fellow of New College, Oxford, where he died, 1627, aged 28, "pulmonis vitio." There is a tablet to his memory in New College cloisters. They left gifts to Wootton Church. (See Appendix IV.)

(5.)—Richard, born 1600, married Thomazine, daughter and co-heir of James Mason of Canterbury. He settled at Stoke-next-Guildford, where he had three sons and four daughters, one of whom, Grace, was married at Wootton in 1651. He was living in 1662, for in that year he gave his pedigree and names of his children to the Heralds Office.

During the life of John Wither there was some dealing with Manydown which I do not understand. There are two deeds extant of 22nd and 23rd Elizabeth (1580—1) which recite that the "farm of Manydown" and the rectorial tythe of Wootton, "formerly occupied by Richard Wither by demise," are leased by Dean Humphrey to Queen Elizabeth, and by her assigned to Michael Stanhope, gentleman of Grays Town, for sixty-five years, but I also possess a deed of indenture of 35th Elizabeth (1593) in which "John Wither of Manydown" buys from the Woodward of the Manor Singett and Roundgrove copses. Moreover, the usual renewal of the lease of Manydown and the rectorial tithes of Wootton to his son William in 1618 is granted for fifty years, and makes no allusion to the above transaction. It is difficult to see what the 1581 deeds mean unless, perchance, John Wither had in some way offended the Queen, who entered upon the Dean and Chapter lease and assigned it to another.

In 43 Elizabeth (1601) John Wither was appointed collector of the tenths and fifteenths in Hampshire and the Isle of Wight. The deed of quietus for the same, dated 1 James (1603), is among the family archives.

In 1613 an interesting family arrangement was made by deed<sup>1</sup> between John Wither and his eldest son William, by which the father gives up all his rights, titles, etc., in Manydown and the rectorial tythe of Wootton to his son, who was to keep him and his mother in certain reserved rooms at Manydown, paying him £40 a year and keeping for him two servants, a horse, three couple of beagles, and one greyhound for his pleasure, or to pay him 200 marks yearly if he chose to live elsewhere. William to educate his younger brothers, John, James, and Richard, and to pay them £300 each on their attaining the age of twenty-six years.

There is nothing to show that John Wither ever moved from Manydown, where he died 30th May, 1620. His monument and that of his wife, who died in 1639, is the earliest of the many Wither memorials in Wootton Church.

(5.)—With William Wither (i) of Manydown, eldest son of John, born 1584, begins the series of five William Withers who "reigned" in succession at Manydown from 1620 to 1789.

He married Susanna, daughter of Paul Risley, of Chetwood (Bucks), Esq., by Dorothy his wife, daughter of Sir Richard Temple, of Stow, Knight.<sup>1</sup> Provision for the marriage was made by a sum of £1200 from Susan Risley's father, and her father-in-law and husband settled upon her for life as a jointure the manor and advowson of Bighton, near Alton, Hants, with 400 acres of land and other property in Bighton which John Wither had bought from Henry, Earl of Southampton in 1598.<sup>2</sup> The issue of this marriage was thirteen children (see pedigree), a numerous family, which equalled that of his grandparents, of whom however but few survived their parents.

Of the four sons:—

- (1.)—John, the elder, born 1610, died s.p. 1634.
- (2.)—Paul, predeceased his father, s.p.
- (3.)—William, born 1623, succeeded at Manydown. (See Post.)
- (4.)—Robert, born 1626, became Fellow and Steward of New College, Oxford. He married and settled at East Oakley, where his father left him property. He died 1679, leaving a son George.

Of the nine daughters:—

- Susan*, the eldest, married Richard Hill, of Bradley (co. Hereford).
- Dorothy*, married William Collins, Esq., J.P., of Corhampton, Hants.
- Ann*, married, 1646, Dr. John Pottenger, Head Master of Winchester College. Their eldest son, John, married his relative, Philadelphia Ernle, and became Comptroller of the Pipe Rolls (temp. Car. II). He has left charming memoirs. After the death of her husband she went to live with her sister Ann at Corhampton, where she died. There are slabs in the chancel of Corhampton Church to the memory of both sisters.

Mary, born 1631, married Michael Ernle, of Brimslade Park, Wilts, who settled on her the Manor of East Kennett, and lands in Calne, Wilts.

The other five daughters died unmarried.

William Wither in his lifetime added considerably to the family property at Manydown. In 1619 he bought from the Uvedale family the manor and tything of Woodgarston (two miles north of Manydown), comprising the manor house with chapel, the ancient Romano-British fort and 415 acres of land,<sup>1</sup> and in the same year he bought from the Rumbold family the moiety of the manor of Worting and the advowson of the Church, with 800 acres of land, ten messuages, three cottages, four lofts, and ten gardens in the parish of Worting.<sup>2</sup> He also bought land in 1650 at Hartley Wintney and Bishopstoke. But by far the most important acquisition was the purchase in 1649 of the fee simple of Manydown from the "Contractors" of the Long Parliament. In that fateful year an act was passed "abolishing Deans, Deans and Chapters, Canons, Prebends, and other officers belonging to any Cathedral or Collegiate Church in England and Wales," and their corporate lands passed into the hands of Commissioners for Sale.

William Wither, whose interest in the old Cathedral Manor was paramount, naturally entered into negotiations with the "Contractors," and agreed to "purchase the Manor of Manydown with the Manor House and all and every the lands, rights, and hereditaments thereto belonging" for the sum of £6550. 14s. 4d. To this the whole of the "customary and immediate" tenants of the Manor gave their assent and consent to accept Mr. William Wither as their landlord in the terms of the interesting deed, of which a facsimile is opposite.

A detailed survey of the Manor made in connection with this transaction is published in Dean Kitchin's Manor of Manydown,<sup>1</sup> by which it appears that the demesnes, lands, and woods of the Manor in the occupation of William Wither amounted to 1212 acres, besides the submanor of Hanington then leased by Mr. Thomas Druett, and Fabians and Marvins<sup>2</sup> [Tangier Park and estate] then leased by Sir Richard Kingsmill, and a number of smaller holdings in Upper and Lower Wootton.

At the restoration in 1662, the Dean and Chapter of Winchester re-entered upon their rights in the Manor; but Mr. William Wither's son and heir, then at Manydown, was not restored one farthing of the large sum his father had expended on the purchase. He and his successors, however, retained the Manydown Manor house and the demesne lands of the Manor under the Dean and Chapter on long leases, renewable in the usual way every seven years, at a small annual rent and a moderate fine.

In 1862, when negotiations for the enfranchisement of Manydown were being carried on, my father (Lovelace Bigg-Wither) wrote to Lord Eversley (one of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners) citing the above facts, and pleaded (without effect) that they should be taken into consideration in assessing the sum to be paid for the enfranchisement.

The last twenty years of William Wither's tenure of Manydown coincided with the troubled times of King Charles I and the Commonwealth, in which a large majority of the Hampshire squires sided with the Parliament. I am disposed to think William Wither was at first, like his first cousin George

The last twenty years of William Wither's tenure of Manydown coincided with the troubled times of King Charles I and the Commonwealth, in which a large majority of the Hampshire squires sided with the Parliament. I am disposed to think William Wither was at first, like his first cousin George

Wither the Poet, a loyal "King's man." It is not probable that the loyal city of Winchester would have elected him a freeman of that ancient city as they did on 1st April, 1631, if at that time he had been a Parliamentarian; but in 1642 we find him, among many other leading men in Hampshire, a member of the Parliamentary Committee of Public Safety, and he was appointed one of the Commissioners that year to seize warlike stores for the Parliament; and, I fear, he was the Wither member of the committee of three appointed in 1649 to see to the demolition of Winchester Castle.<sup>1</sup> That he had influence with the Parliamentary leaders is evident from the endorsement of an old letter referring to the visit of the "Committee of Religion" to Winchester College, which says: "Dr. Pottinger (Head Master), by his interest in Mr. Withars (sic) of Manydowne, whose daughter he had married, was hardly acquitted, and Dr. Harris (Warden) with much more difficulty."

His wife, Susan Risley, predeceased him many years on 21st November, 1632. He was buried according to his will near her in the north aisle of old Wootton Church, 26th August, 1653.

(6.)—William Wither (ii) of Manydown was born 1623. He married in 1646 Joan, daughter and co-heir of Thomas Geale of Alton, and cousin and co-heir of Barbara Loker of Andwell, near Basingstoke. By their marriage the old Priory estate at Andwell (held under a beneficial lease renewable on payment of a fine) came into the family. The old Priory House, with the ancient chapel and a picturesque trout stream, became the residence of Thomas Wither's second son and his descendants for 162 years, until the property was sold by Lovelace Bigg-Wither in 1808.

Just before William Wither's father died, viz., in March, 1653, the lordships of the hundreds of Chuteley and Holshott were purchased from the Tilney family of Tilney Hall. This purchase was confirmed with the consent of the next Parliament by deed dated 3rd October, 1654. Apparently William Wither (ii) was considered a safe supporter of the existing Government, for a letter dated 18th January, 1659, addressed to a Captain Dunche from Richard Cromwell, then Protector, says: "I think we can justify Whitchurch as well as Wallop. If you choose one you may choose two, and Dr. Walker may be the other; or rather Withers of Manningdowne, whoe is an active man, and one that Wallop hath disobleiged." However, after the Restoration, viz., in 1663, William Wither was appointed High Sheriff of the county, 9th February, 1662-3; presumably, therefore, he was then considered thoroughly Royalist. His "Quietus" as High Sheriff is a specially interesting example of the kind of document in which the accounts of the county were presented to the King and a formal acquittance given at the end of the term. It is in the form of a "Pipe Roll" 12 ft. 8 in. long, in beautiful script. It is accompanied by a short vellum roll with the accounts of the Constabulary, and of that unpopular tax abolished I William and Mary (1689)—the "hearth tax." On 24th July, 1666, William Wither received his commission as major of militia in the Kingsclere division of Hants. On 1st September, 1667, Mr. Wither and his eldest son William were both admitted as freemen of the city of Winchester,<sup>1</sup> an honour which their father and grandfather had had before them. There were six children born to William Wither and Joan Geale,—

His "Quietus" as High Sheriff is a specially interesting example of the kind of document in which the accounts of the county were presented to the King and a formal acquittance given at the end of the term. It is in the form of a "Pipe Roll" 12 ft. 8 in. long, in beautiful script. It is accompanied by a short vellum roll with the accounts of the Constabulary, and of that unpopular tax abolished I William and Mary (1689)—the "hearth tax." On 24th July, 1666, William Wither received his commission as major of militia in the Kingsclere division of Hants. On 1st September, 1667, Mr. Wither and his eldest son William were both admitted as freemen of the city of Winchester,<sup>1</sup> an honour which their father and grandfather had had before them. There were six children born to William Wither and Joan Geale,—

William Wither in his will laments that he is not able to provide for his younger children, "owing to debts left me by my father" (there is a list of portions to his uncles and aunts amounting to £4500, which I suppose are the debts referred to), and he adds "debts augmented by the late unhappy times."

William Wither died "variotis fugata," and was buried at Wootton, 29th November, 1671, aged 48. His widow died March 22nd, 1691, aged 71.

through a great part of France and Italy in the suite of the Viscount Falconberg, Ambassador of Charles II to the Doge and Republic of Venice. Returned home, he was made, "because he deserved it," counsellor-at-law, justice of the peace, senator in parliament. This last notice refers to his election in 1678 as M.P. for Andover. It was, perhaps, because of his father's friendship with the Protector's family that Lord Falconberg, who had married Cromwell's daughter Mary, selected young Mr. Wither to accompany him on his Italian embassy.

He married, soon after his succession to Manydown, in 1671, his young relative and neighbour, Mary, daughter of George Wither, whose elder brother Gilbert was now the squire at Hall place (Oakley Hall). Mary Wither, whose parents were both dead, was not seventeen, but the marriage took place with the full consent of her uncle and guardian, Mr. Gilbert Wither, by special license, at Steventon Church, November 12th, 1673. The good (almost brilliant) promise of the early life of the young squire at Manydown was not fulfilled. Struck down by an attack of smallpox, he died 25th April, 1679, at the early age of thirty-one, leaving a widow and two little children—Mary, born 1675, and William in 1678. His brother, Thomas of Andwell, who was present at his death, has left a touching account of his affectionate thoughtfulness for his young wife on his deathbed, and for all who had tended him in any way. He appointed as trustees for the estates his uncle Robert, of East Oakley, and his sister Mary's husband, Michael Ernle, whom we find in many family documents of this period as a trustee and adviser. His widow continued to live at Manydown as guardian of the children until her death, twenty years later, in January, 1700, in her forty-fifth year. Her daughter Mary, for whose maintenance there had been set apart by her father's will "the new built tenement called Battledown Lodge, with its appurtenances and farm lands now leased to my tenant Robert Garrett"—soon followed her mother. She died the next year (1701), and was buried in the same grave in Wootton Church.

(8).—William Wither (iv) of Manydown, born 2nd February, 1678, and therefore hardly fourteen months old when his father died, had a long minority. He went to Winchester, Oxford, and Lincoln's Inn, as his father and so many of his ancestors before him, and then settled down at Manydown, occupying himself with his estates, and,—notwithstanding the many years of ill-health, which his monument records,—indefatigable in magisterial work, "non solum in hâc viciniâ, sed et per agrum Hantoniensem. Semper amatus, semper honoratus." He was High Sheriff of the County in 1706. Opposite is the portrait from his monument in Wootton Church.

He married, 14th January, 1703, Elizabeth Nicol, daughter of Richard Nicol, Esq., of Racton, in Sussex. His wife brought in £4500.

A nephew of hers, Charles Gounter Nicol, created in 1732 K.B., married from Manydown in Wootton Church, Elizabeth, daughter of William Blunden, Esq., of Basingstoke. Her niece married Sir Henry Maynard, of Walthamstow, Essex, who became one of the trustees of her husband's will. Sir Henry's son William, represented as a boy reclining on the ground, gazing at a parrot, is, together with Sir Charles Gounter's and Lady Nicol's pictures, among the most treasured of the family portraits now in the possession of the Misses Bigg-Wither at Brighton.

As an illustration of the life at Manydown in the days of William Wither and Elizabeth Nicol his wife, will be found in chap. vii, under "Manydown House," a ménu of the dinner provided for the tenants and those who attended the Court Leet of the Manor yearly on All Saints' Day or Goose day.

William Wither (iv) died September 25th, 1733, aged 55. His widow survived him only two years. They had no children; and now for the first time in the long history of the Withers of Manydown the estates went to a collateral, namely, to his cousin, William Wither, of Andwell, grandson of Thomas Wither, second son of William Wither and Joan Geale (see pedigree). His will is important, as bearing upon the future fortunes of the family, both Wither and Bigg. He devised all his freehold estates in Wootton, Monk Sherborne, Oakley, Pamber, Basing and Andover, and the leasehold estates of Manydown, Andwell, and Up Nately (subject to his wife's life interest), to trustees (Sir Henry Maynard and Edward Ernle) for William Wither of Andwell for life, and then to his first, second, and third sons (if any), and to their heirs male, and next to William's brothers, Thomas and Charles, in like manner, and in default of these to Thomas Bigg (eldest surviving son of Lovelace Bigg and Dorothy Wither) for life, and then to Thomas Bigg's brothers, Henry and Walter, and their heirs male. He further charged his estates with annuities and legacies to William Wither's brothers, and to the sisters of Thomas Bigg, Mary Blackstone, Dorothy Bethell, and Anne Banister. His will and that of his widow (to whom he left all his personal estate, and who had her own fortune) is annexed in appendix 3.

WM. WITHER (v).

(9).—William Wither (v), the last Wither of Manydown, was born at Andwell in 1703. He and his two younger brothers, Thomas and Charles, were entered as scholars of Winchester College. Thomas left young and went into business in London. Charles went to Oxford and entered Holy Orders: both married but died without children long before their elder brother. Their only surviving sister Elizabeth never married, and died in 1735. Thus there was no one to carry on the direct line of Wither at Manydown if William Wither remained a bachelor, which he did to the end of his long life.

On the death of his cousin, William Wither (iv) of Manydown in 1733, he not only removed from Andwell to Manydown himself, but, as a note in the Up Nately registers says, under date anno 1734, "The body of Mr. Wither of Andwell and of his wife "and children (i.e., his father and mother and two little sisters), "were removed from the chancel of Nately Chapel and interred in "y<sup>e</sup> parish Church of Wootton St. Lawrence in y<sup>e</sup> burying place "of y<sup>e</sup> ancestors of William Wither of Manydown, Esq<sup>re</sup>."

This is a touching evidence of the affection of the last of the Withers for Manydown and Wootton. He no doubt hoped that the name would be perpetuated there, and could hardly realize that for fifty-six years more he alone would bear the name at Manydown, and be the last to bear it.

There is a story that he was engaged to be married, and that he built a fine new coach in which to bring home his bride to Manydown; but, alas, the lady jilted him. The panels of the coach with the arms painted on them still exist.

Besides the estates entailed under William Wither's (iv) will above mentioned, he had various freehold and copyhold properties in Worting, Yately, and Up Nately in Hampshire, and in Chetwoode, Burton, Hartshorne, Linborough, and Gawcot in Buckinghamshire, all of which he left to "his cousin" Edward Lane, who lived with him.

He died at Manydown, 31st October, 1789, aged eighty-six, and was buried in the family vault in the chancel of Wootton Church, on November 5th.

His monument says :—

“ In Him were united
 The Hospitable Virtues of his Ancestors
 With every characteristic quality
 Which once distinguished
 The Old English Gentleman.
 On his death, all the male issue
 Of an ancient and well respected family
 Who had resided at Manydown
 During the space of four centuries
 Became extinct.

In grateful remembrance of their worthy relation, this monument was erected by Lovelace Bigg-Wither, heir general of the line of Wither, and Edward Lane, Esquire, sole executor.”

In the above history I have endeavoured to trace in some detail the life of nine Wither residents at Manydown in succession from Thomas Wither in 1484 to William Wither in 1789, a period of 305 years. Records of the previous 95 years have only at present disclosed isolated notices of Withers at Wootton, as, e.g., in 1402. I must leave to others, who may obtain fuller information, the task of filling up the gaps in the period indicated on William Withers' monument.

BIGG-WITHER OF MANYDOWN AND TANGIER.

BY the will of the fourth William Wither of Manydown, who died without issue in 1732 (see Chapter III), the Manydown and other family estates were left, first to his cousin, William Wither of Andwell, and to his heirs male; then in default of these to the male descendants of his aunt, Dorothy Wither, who married (1684)<sup>1</sup> Lovelace Bigg, of Chilton Folliat, Wilts, son of Richard Bigg, of Haines Hill, in the parish of Hurst, Wilts, by his second wife, Mary Wade, niece of Sir Walter Long, Knt., of Draycott, the parliamentarian (Richard Bigg's first wife was the Lady Phœbe Ley, daughter of James, first Earl of Marlborough).

As the Manydown estates eventually came to Lovelace Bigg, grandson of the above-mentioned Lovelace Bigg and Dorothy Wither, born 1741, Lovelace Bigg's parentage and life before 1789, when he succeeded to the Wither estates and added their name, must now be noticed.

BIGG-WITHER OF MANYDOWN AND TANGIER.

BY the will of the fourth William Wither of Manydown, who died without issue in 1732 (see Chapter III), the Manydown and other family estates were left, first to his cousin, William Wither of Andwell, and to his heirs male; then in default of these to the male descendants of his aunt, Dorothy Wither, who married (1684)<sup>1</sup> Lovelace Bigg, of Chilton Folliat, Wilts, son of Richard Bigg, of Haines Hill, in the parish of Hurst, Wilts, by his second wife, Mary Wade, niece of Sir Walter Long, Knt., of Draycott, the parliamentarian (Richard Bigg's first wife was the Lady Phœbe Ley, daughter of James, first Earl of Marlborough).

Walter Bigg married (1734) Jane Harris, daughter and heiress of Dr. John Harris, Fellow of Winchester College and Rector of Chiddingfold and Ash, Surrey, by his wife Jane, daughter of Dr. Edward Young, Dean of Salisbury, and sister of the poet Young, author of Night Thoughts.

The marriage of Walter Bigg, Rector of Worting, was commemorated by the following quaint epithalamium, written and addressed to him by William Spearing, Parish Clerk of Worting:—

“I rejoice my good Master, that now you are wedded,
And the beauteous Miss Jenny have happily bedded,
The beauteous Miss Jenny! who, gladly I hear,
Is as kind and good-humoured, as beauteous and fair.

My good Master and Mistress much Joy to you both,
Still may you observe your mutual Oath
‘To love and to cherish!’ and as for ‘obey,’
May you each be obedient and equally sway.

A New House the fair Bride at Worting will find,
Compleat and commodious, and pat to her mind;
An elegant Box, a more pleasing retreat
Than the Princess of Orange will have for her seat!

The good Warden,<sup>1</sup> for you who relinquished this place,
May depend that you here will beget a fine Race;
In whom the great Name of the Biggs may still live,
And the Heirs, of whose Heirs, may this Building survive.

The beneficent Lady of Fam’d Manydown<sup>2</sup>
Your first Child, I presume, will claim as her own.
Her spiritual Child; and will see it brought up;
And will give it much more than a Coral or Cup.

The good Wives of the Parish, obsequious all,
Will attend your Commands as oft as you call;
As oft as Occasion requires they’ll march forth!
Of your beautiful Babes to assist at the Birth!

The sole issue of this marriage was Lovelace Bigg [Wither], who was privately baptized (14th August, 1741) in London, in the house of his uncle and godfather, Thomas Bigg, in Lincoln's Inn Fields, and in the presence of his aunts, Elizabeth Bigg and Dorothy Bethell. Great care was taken with his education. He was in due course entered as a Scholar at Winchester College, and on October 24th, 1758, was matriculated at Queen's College, Oxford. On May 12th, 1759, he was admitted Probationary Fellow of New College, and became in 1761 Full Fellow till his marriage in 1764. His mother, Jane Harris, died in 1759. His father's letters to him while at Oxford are full of earnest good advice, and show that Lovelace worked at French and Italian, as well as the usual Oxford studies. A letter dated March, 1761, refers to his father's easier circumstances through the death of his brother, Thomas Bigg, and his father's inheritance of the estates at Chilton Folliat, in Wilts, and at Woolston, in Berkshire. His father says :—

LOVELACE BIGG,
 1741—1789.

"It will enable me after another year to be more liberal in your education, though in my judgment you cannot follow a better plan than that which has already been chalked out for you, which will make you a man of knowledge and a man of business, one who will know how to employ his time and his fortune, or to gain greater ; one who may be of service to his country, either in public or private life."

He adds :—

"As for myself, I esteem Worting as a child of my own, and, I believe, shall never leave it. However at present my sister Elizabeth will live at Chilton. It seemed to be my brother's desire that she should if she liked it, and indeed I could not with credit or even convenience desert both my livings [Worting and Baghurst] while I was capable of doing my duty."

In 1763, Lovelace Bigg [Wither] left Oxford for the Middle Temple, and studied for the Bar. On 20th September, 1764, he married Rachel Clitherow, sister-in-law of his cousin, William (afterwards Sir William) Blackstone. She died in childbed on 22nd July following, when the author of the famous Commentaries wrote to him the following letter of condolence:—

“ Wallingford,

“ 25th July, 1765.

“ I feel it difficult to begin a letter to you, lest while I wish to alleviate I should increase your concern upon the present melancholy occasion. The best topic of consolation upon the footing of reason and religion, must be drawn from those very qualities in her you have lost, which renders that loss the more sensible. I shall therefore waive so delicate a subject, and leave it to that good sense, which God has blessed you with, to length of time, and your avocations of business, to blunt the edge of your present distress. But after all, dear Sir, there is nothing that the proudest wisdom can boast, there is nothing that can afford us any solid relief in deep affliction, but the doctrines of Christianity, in which we have been so happily educated, and the sure expectations of a future state. These are not suggestions of a mind unaffected with your misfortunes. I feel for you as a Friend, and a relation, and more especially as a husband; but I write to you as a man, and as a Christian. . . . If there be anything which is in my power to do for you, pray give me your directions without ceremony, and I will endeavour to see them executed. . . . My wife and sister are as well as can be expected, considering the tenderness of their spirits, which makes affliction of every kind sit heavy upon them. Time, I hope, will relieve them, and from former experience I believe it will. Providence has happily ordered it, that violent sensations are not lasting. If they were, the frame of humanity could never sustain the shock. They desire to join with me in every affectionate wish, and every mark of regard, towards both yourself and your Father. Poor man, I sympathize with him likewise in lamenting the slender foundation upon which we build our prospects in this life. But he is able to administer comfort both to you and to himself. . . .

“ I am, your most sincerely affectionate and obedient servant,

“ W. BLACKSTONE.”

SIR WILLIAM BLACKSTONE, KNIGHT, LL.D.
The eminent Commentator on the laws of England.
One of the Judges of the Court of King's Bench.
Born 1723; died 1780.

On 21st August, 1766, Lovelace Bigg [Wither] married his second wife, Margaret Blachford, daughter of Bridges Blachford, Esq., the head of a very old Isle of Wight family that owned Osborne, from whom the estate was bought by Queen Victoria in 1845.

Bigg, impaling barry wavy of six or and gules on a chief azure three pheons of the first, Blachford.

His wife brought in £3000, and he settled upon her a jointure of £300 out of estates in Wiltshire and from house property in Pangbourne (Berkshire), inherited from his uncle, Thomas Bigg, of Haines Hill, Hurst (Wilts).

In the summer and autumn of 1767, he and his wife, with her brother, Robert Pope Blachford and his wife (née Winifred Barrington), made a driving tour through England to the north, which Lovelace Bigg describes in a series of interesting and well written letters to his father at Worting. The tour took them "through Buckinghamshire, the edge of Oxfordshire, and the greater part of Warwickshire." "At Stowe," he says, "Lord Temple has added much to his uncle's plan." Thence through Shropshire, Staffordshire, and Derbyshire. At Manchester, the Duke of Bridgewater's canal, thirty miles long, seems to have impressed him greatly as a "vast undertaking, especially considered as the work of one man. He has two objects (1) to convey his coal to Manchester, (2) to extend his cut to the river near Liverpool. He sells coal to the poor at 3½d. a hundred." The travellers admired the Peak district, and Lovelace Bigg calls Matlock "a little public place in a romantic scene." "Chattsworth (sic) is shamefully neglected, having only the outside of a princely house." "Buxton wells are, I presume, of great service in many cases, otherwise they would not be frequented. The place is paltry, it rains everyday all the year round, and is very cold." They stayed at York, saw Castle Howard, and made the acquaintance of Lord Rockingham, who "appears quite as a king in his own country, is independent of party, and much respected." Thence they went viâ Harrogate and Ripon to Scarborough, where the ladies remained for the bathing, while Mr. Bigg and Mr. Blachford continued their journey north to Carlisle and Edinburgh, where they stayed some time.

Writing on the eve of the return home from Scarborough, October 20th, 1767, Lovelace Bigg says:—

"The Duke of York's death (George III's eldest brother) has occasioned some delay to our return. Wishing to join in the general mourning as soon as we can, we sent to town for a trunk we had packed up lest such an accident should happen, which meets us at York, when all our coloured things go to London by waggon, and we, properly arrayed in sables, proceed southward, making Worksop, Nottingham, Burleigh House (which he later describes as a 'superb pile'), Cambridge, Lord Byron's at Newstead Abbey, and Belvoir Castle on our way."

The tour ended where it began, namely at Boswell Court, Lovelace Bigg's house in Middlesex.

On 18th June, 1772, the Rev. Walter Bigg died, aged seventy-one, and was buried at Worting, leaving to his only son, Lovelace, £20,100 invested capital, and leasehold and freehold estates in Sherfield, Andwell, and Kingsclere, Hants, and Chilton Folliat (house and 300 acres), Wiltshire, together with an estate of 740 acres in Woolston, Berkshire, these two latter being subject to life interests of £450 per annum to his aunts, the widow of Thomas Bigg, and Mrs. Barton, widow of Warden Henry Bigg.

Lovelace Bigg also inherited in right of his mother (Jane Harris) Wymering Manor and house, with ten acres of land.

After his father's death, Lovelace Bigg went to live at Chilton Folliat. He became Chairman of Quarter Sessions, Wiltshire, and many of his addresses to the grand juries at Marlborough and Devizes (1784—1788) on Prison Administration, the Poor and Game Laws, and Lunacy Acts, are extant. They show remarkable ability, clearness of view, eloquence, and common sense.

He was most generous to the poor as well as to his relatives. One instance of this will especially interest the family, and may be recorded here. His uncle, Warden Henry Bigg, left a house in Bond Street to his father, Walter Bigg, and then on certain contingencies to their nephew, Charles Blackstone (younger brother of the Judge). The contingencies failed; but Lovelace Bigg, on inheriting his father's property, felt that Charles Blackstone had been unfortunate, and he sent him £1000 and £100 for his daughter, Mrs. Williams, which gifts Mr. Blackstone acknowledged in the following letter, dated 30th December, 1788 :

"I find myself totally at a loss how to express my own and all my family's sense of the magnitude of the benefaction dictated by your benevolent mind, and which I this morning received in a promissory note carrying interest at five per cent., and a draft for £100 for Mrs. Williams. Your kind manner of conferring the favor also enhances the value of the gift. I, who was no stranger to Warden Bigg's will, having copied it at the time of his death, knew very well that the contingent legacy of the house to me was totally void, and for this reason I always understood that my late uncle, your father, procured for me the living of Weeke, by quitting Baghurst, by way of making me amends for my not being benefitted by the contingency aforesaid. But you, dear Sir, have most kindly (notwithstanding what your father had done) made yourself still a debtor, in equity, to me and my family, and in a princely sum. Assure yourself we accept it with heartfelt joy and gratitude; but we can never thank you sufficiently. . . . My dear daughter is quite overcome with your goodness of heart, as indeed we are all, and she desires me to send her best and warmest thanks. May God's blessing, my dear Sir, ever attend you and your family, to whom we unite in best wishes and regards.

"Your highly obliged and affectionate humble servant,

"C. BLACKSTONE."

The last of the Withers of Manydown died October 31st, 1789, s.p., and the "heir general" was Lovelace Bigg (see p. 42). He at once assumed by Royal Licence the surname and arms of Wither. The letters patent under the Great Seal of England granting this are dated 2nd December, 1789, and the College of Arms, by virtue of this authority, "exemplified and confirmed to Lovelace Bigg, now Lovelace Bigg-Wither, the arms as annexed, namely :—

'Quarterly, first and fourth. Argent, a chevron, gules between three crescents sable; for Wither. Second and third, perpale ermine and azure, a lion passant, gules ducally crowned gold within a bordure, engrailed of the third, charged with eight fleur-de-lys, or; for Bigg.' And for the crest of Wither, 'a demi hare erect, azure, in the mouth three ears of ripe corn,' to be borne and used for ever hereafter by him, the said Lovelace Bigg-Wither, Esquire, and his issue male.

'Recorded in the Herald's Office, London, pursuant to a warrant from the most noble Charles Duke of Norfolk, Earl Marshal of England, and examined therewith, this 12th of December, 1789.

BIGG-WITHER,
1789—1813.

(1.)—Lovelace Bigg-Wither now took up his residence at Manydown. In 1790, he put a new front on to the house, and built a large dining room and drawing room over it.

In 1791, he sold his house and other property at Pangbourne for £20,000, and with the sum increased the Manydown property by the Monk Sherborne portion of Woodgarston Farm, Battledown and Worting Wood Farms, and White Hart Farm, Worting, Lechmere Green in Bramley and Pamber, Potlane Farm, Basing, and Blackgrove Farm, Up Nately, and by other property in West Sherborne, in all 1163 acres, as well as by additional lands at Wymering and Widley, amounting to 427 acres.

Lovelace Bigg-Wither's second wife, Margaret Blachford, died at Chilton Folliat, 27th December, 1784, leaving two sons and seven daughters.

LOVELACE BIGG-WITHER.

Born August 4th, 1741; died February 24th, 1813; aged 71 years.

From a miniature.

The eldest son, Lovelace Wither Bigg, born 1780, died a scholar of Winchester College, 3rd March, 1794. Harris, the second son, named after his grandmother (Jane Harris), born 1781, succeeded to Manydown. One daughter, Mary Ann, born 1783, died an infant. The other six—Margaret, born 1768; Jane, born 1770; Dorothy, born 1771; Elizabeth, born 1773; Catherine, born 1775; Alethea, born 1777—came with their father and brother to Manydown, and eight young people between the ages of nine and twenty-one must have helped to make the old place, which had had a bachelor tenant for fifty-six years, a little more lively than of late.

The family circle was, however, soon broken into by marriage and death:—

Margaret, the eldest, married December 3rd, 1792, the Rev. Charles Blackstone, nephew of the Judge and Vicar of Andover.

Dorothy, died September 3rd, 1793, and her brother, Lovelace Wither, March 3rd, 1794, aged fourteen.

Jane, married, 15th January, 1795, John Awdry, Esq., of Notton, Wilts, father of Sir John Wither Awdry, Knt.

Elizabeth, married, January 11th, 1798, the Rev. William Heathcote, Rector of Worting, father of Sir William Heathcote, of Hursley Park, fifth Baronet.

Many glimpses of the life at Manydown between 1796—1799 are to be found in the letters of Jane Austen, whose father was Rector of Steventon, two and a half miles distant. The authoress was evidently very much at home with the party at Manydown, where she frequently stayed, and was especially intimate with Catherine and Alethea Bigg, who were about her own age.<sup>1</sup>

Writing to her sister Cassandra of a ball (January 8th, 1799) given by Lady Dorchester, who then lived at Kempshott, Jane Austen says:—

<sup>1</sup> “Catherine [Bigg] has the honour of giving her name to a set, which will be composed of two Withers, two Heathcotes, a Blachford, and no Bigg except herself.”

The following letter, dated Monday, January 21st, 1799, is especially interesting to the family:—

“Our ball on Thursday was a very poor one, only eight couple and but twenty-three people in the room; but it was not the ball’s fault, for we were deprived of two or three families by the sudden illness of Mr. Wither, who was seized that morning at Winchester with a return of his former alarming complaint. An express was sent off from thence to the family: Catherine Bigg and Miss Blachford were dining with Mrs. Russell. Poor Catherine’s distress must have been very great. She was prevailed on to wait till the Heathcotes could come from Worting, and then with those two and Harris proceeded directly to Winchester. In such a disorder his danger, I suppose, must always be great; but from this attack he is now rapidly recovering, and will be well enough to return to Manydown, I fancy, in a few days. It was a fine thing for conversation at the ball; but it deprived us not only of the Biggs, but of Mrs. Russell too, and of the Boltons and John Harwood, who were dining there likewise, and of Mr. Lane, who kept away as related to the family. Poor man! I mean Mr. Wither, his life is so useful, his character so respectable and worthy, that I really believe there was a good deal of sincerity in the general concern expressed on his account.”

Jane Austen’s appreciation of Lovelace Bigg-Wither’s “useful life” is confirmed by the fact that he was elected Chairman of Quarter Sessions in Hampshire, after he came to Manydown, as he had been in Wiltshire, when he lived at Chilton Folliat; and his ability and long experience made him a most useful magistrate on the County Bench. He was commissioned Deputy-Lieutenant for Wiltshire in 1770, for Berkshire 1785, for Hampshire 1793. In 1800 he spent much time in drawing up rules for organizing “an association to assist the labouring poor in the neighbourhood of Basingstoke,” and in establishing a poorhouse for Wootton district.

The small party at Manydown, which, after the marriage in January, 1798, of Elizabeth Bigg with the Rev. Thomas Heathcote, consisted only of the old Squire and his two unmarried daughters, Catherine and Alethea, was considerably augmented in 1802. In March of that year the Rector of Worting died, and the widow with her baby boy, afterwards Sir William Heathcote, fifth Baronet of Hursley, came back to live at Manydown. Here she remained till her father died in 1813. Manydown House, which I have described in Chapter VII, became for the next ten years very much of a home centre, both for the married daughters and their children, and the widowed daughters and their children. "There was something about it (says Miss Awdry in her Life of Sir William Heathcote) and its patriarchal owner which appealed strongly to his many grandchildren." Mrs. Blackstone, the eldest daughter, who had also been left a widow with a son and little daughter Margaret, lived close by at Worting. and were almost daily at Manydown, little William Heathcote and his cousin, Margaret Blackstone, only two years older, being devoted playmates. Mrs. Awdry, the second daughter, with some of her children, were often there from Notton. The two children had other sharers in their games and occupations, Young Edward Austen from Steventon, nephew of the authoress (Jane Austen), afterwards Rev. Austen Leigh, Vicar of Bray, and Caroline Wiggett, the adopted daughter of William Wiggett Chute, of the Vyne, were frequent visitors of the children, and then there were the two much loved Aunts, Kitty and Alethea. When in 1808 "Sweet little Aunt Kitty," (who the children wanted to stay on with them in the happy home at Manydown,) married the Rev. Herbert Hill, little William Heathcote and Margaret Blackstone, as recorded in the latter's Memoirs, "Would not go to the wedding and turned their backs upon the carriage with the happy pair as it passed them in Wootton Lane;" and William Heathcote wrote in his poetry book, "Sweet creature parted from all her friends but one," to which line Edward Austen, in recognition of the bridegroom's merits, added "Who in kindness is excelled by none."

The two portraits opposite show Lovelace Bigg-Wither, a handsome young man with powdered hair and pigtail, and in his old age, venerable and kindly looking. Beloved by his children and grandchildren, and universally respected by all, he died February 24th, 1813, aged seventy-one.

Sir William Heathcote, who admired as well as loved his grandfather, writing in 1829, when he was twenty-five years old, says of him :—

"In the spring of 1813 my excellent grandfather Mr. Wither, died, a man whose talents and virtues were honoured in their generation, and whose image is indelibly impressed upon my memory as the kindest of parents and most venerable of men."

The inscription on the tablet to his memory in Wootton Church cannot, as might sometimes be the case, be accused of overstating his merits. It says he was :—

*"Universally respected, beloved and lamented.
As a magistrate
He was eminent, active, learned, and judicious.
As a private gentleman
He was not less distinguished
By those social and relative virtues which adorn
The Friend, the Parent, and the Christian.
His good deeds
Will long be recorded on earth
And hereafter be had in everlasting remembrance."*

A summary of his will is annexed. (See appendix 3.)

(2.)—Lovelace Wither Bigg, the eldest son, having died in 1794, Harris, the surviving son, born at Chilton Folliat, 18th May, 1781, succeeded at Manydown. A letter of his father to Mr. James Blackstone, dated July 7th, 1799, shows great anxiety about Harris' future education, especially as he suffered from a defect of speech. He had for some time been at a private tutor's (Mr. Wallington). He was eventually sent to Worcester College, Oxford.

He married, 2nd November, 1804, at East Dean, Sussex, Anne Howe Frith, only daughter of Beddington Bramley Frith, of Carisbrooke, I.W., Esq., Lieutenant-Colonel of the North Hants Militia, by his wife, Jane Howe, heiress of Brook House, I.W., and went to live at Manor House, Wymering, near Cosham. By the marriage settlement £400, secured on the Wymering property, was settled on his wife for life, and £4000 to sons and £10,000 to daughters. These sums, by power of appointment, were divided in equal shares to the four younger sons and five daughters, with addition of £1500 each to two younger sons.

During his father's lifetime a family arrangement was much debated, whereby the estates at Woolston (Berkshire) should be charged instead of Wymering with the jointure of Mrs. Harris Bigg-Wither, and with the portions of the children. Eventually, however, in 1828, the Woolston property, with its fine old sixteenth century house full of tapestry and old oak, which Henry VIII had given to Jane Seymour, was sold to Captain G. Butler for £25,500, and the portions of the sisters were paid off.

The issue of the marriage of Harris Bigg-Wither and Anne Howe Frith was five sons and five daughters. The seven eldest were born at Wymering, and four of the five sons took Holy Orders:—

- (1.)—Lovelace, born 17th September, 1805, succeeded.

- (2.)—Harris Jervoise, born 31st October, 1806, for forty-seven years Rector of Worting, Hants; died December 1st, 1887. (For descendants, see Pedigree VIII.)
- (3.)—William Henry Walter, born 9th November, 1809, was Fellow of New College, Oxford, and after thirty-six years as Curate of Otterbourne, Hants, became Rector of Hardwicke, Bucks; died April 2nd, 1899.
- (4.)—Walter John Percival, born 15th February, 1811, was Vicar of Herriard and of Wootton St. Lawrence; died March 15th, 1876.
- (5.)—Charles, born 27th April, 1822, went to Nelson, New Zealand, and became J.P. and Member of Parliament for that country; died November, 1896. (See Pedigree VIII.)

The five daughters (all unmarried) were:—

- (1.)—Margaret, born 1808, died 1883.
- (2.)—Jane Dorothy, born 1812, died 1858.
- (3.)—Anne Frances, born 1814, died 1874.
- (4.)—Elizabeth Mary Bramston, born 1817, died 1879.
- (5.)—Marianne, born 1819, died 1900.

On his father's death in 1813, Harris Bigg-Wither came to Manydown. Here he lived, as his forefathers, the life of a country squire, diligent in magisterial work, kind to the poor, and beloved by his family. Owing to his stammering, he was a man of few words, and rather avoided society. He was, however, very hospitable in his own house, but quick-tempered. A story is told of him, that on the occasion of a visit of the members of the Winchester Cathedral Chapter to the demesne lands of the Chapter of Manydown, after some dispute as to his right to cut down timber in the Park, Mr. Bigg-Wither invited the Reverend

THE REV. LOVELACE BIGG-WITHER, of Manydown and Tangier Parks.
Born 1805; died 1874.

Canons, who were all his personal friends, to dinner, and gave directions to his butler that after dinner, the customary bowl of punch was to be made up of a bottle of each of the excellent wines that had been served during dinner. The mixture, as can be imagined, was not appetising, and after all had tasted with wry faces, he said to his guests: "Gentlemen, my punch is like you. In your individual capacity you are all very good fellows, but in your corporate capacity you are very disagreeable."

In 1831, Harris Bigg-Wither let Manydown to Sir Richard Rycroft (Bart.) and went to live at Tangier Park House, which adjoins Manydown, about three-quarters of a mile to the north on higher ground. The house, park, and farm (175 acres), which he had long desired to buy from the Sclater family, was at first rented and afterwards bought by his son Lovelace. Here at Tangier he died suddenly from apoplexy, March 25th, 1833, in the fifty-second year of his age.

His widow first went with her daughters to live at Farnham. Eventually she settled at Winchester, where she died November 13th, 1866, aged eighty-three years.

(3.)—Lovelace, the eldest son of Harris Bigg-Wither, was born at Wymering (17th September, 1805), and was sent to school first at Twyford, under the Rev. G. Clarke, then to Winchester, where he was entered as a "Commoner" under Dr. Gabell; from thence he went to Oriel College, Oxford. Here he gained a Second Class in "Greats," Michaelmas Term, 1826. In the same class list with him were Lord Henry George Cavendish-Bentinck, Bishop Samuel Wilberforce, and Archdeacon Denison. On leaving Oxford he went to London, and studied for a time for the Bar. He however took Holy Orders, was Curate of Winslade, and became Vicar of Herriard (1831—1834).

THE REV. LOVELACE
BIGG-WITHER.
1833—1874.

Bigg-Wither, impaling sable, three fishes haurient, or, Orde.

Lovelace Bigg-Wither married, 23rd July, 1829, Emma Jemima, fifth daughter of the Rev. John Orde (Rector of Winslade, Hants, and of Wensley, Yorkshire), by his wife the Hon. Frances Carleton, daughter of Guy, first Baron Dorchester, and the Lady Maria Howard, daughter of Thomas second Earl of Effingham. After the marriage he lived at Hook, where his eldest child was born.

Soon after the death of his father in 1833 he resigned his parochial duties for the care of the Manydown property, and came to live at Tangier Park, which estate (175 acres) he bought that year, together with Sheerdown Farm (160 acres) and 60 acres at Ramsdell, for £5300 from Miss Penelope Sclater, aunt of William Lutley Sclater, Esq., of Hoddington.

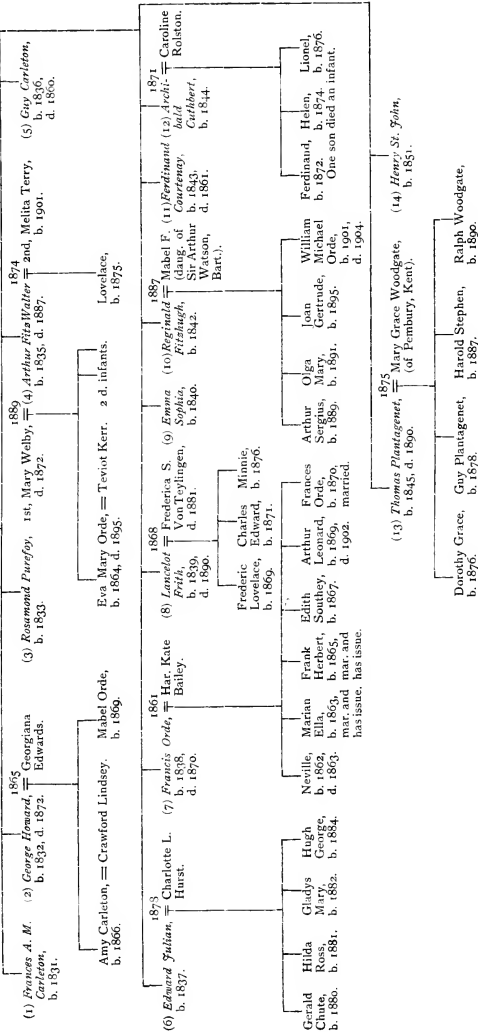

The issue of the marriage of Lovelace Bigg-Wither and Miss Orde was eleven sons and three daughters, namely :—

- (1).—Frances Anne Maria Carleton, born at Hook, July 16th, 1831.
- (2).—George Howard, born at Hackwood, July 27th, 1832 ; died January 24th, 1872.
- (3).—Rosamond Purefoy, born at Winslade, October 3rd, 1833.
- (4).—Arthur FitzWalter, born at Tangier, May 14th, 1835 ; entered Army ; died August 10th, 1887.
- (5).—Guy Carleton, born May 22nd, 1836 ; Lieutenant Royal Navy ; lost at sea, September, 1860.
- (6).—Edward Julian, born September 7th, 1837 ; Major 28th Regiment.
- (7).—Francis Orde, born September 5th, 1838 ; Army Doctor ; died in India, March 27th, 1870.
- (8).—Lancelot Frith, born October 16th, 1839 ; died in India, September 19th, 1890.
- (9).—Emma Sophia, born November 30th, 1840.
- (10).—Reginald Fitz Hugh, born January 9th, 1842 ; in Holy Orders ; Rector of Worting, 1879—98 ; Rural Dean of Basingstoke, 1890—93 ; Rector of Wonston, 1898.

- (14.)—Henry St. John, born November 6th, 1851.

The marriages of the sons and their issue are recorded on Pedigree VII.

The members of this numerous family as children delighted in the beautiful grounds of Tangier Park House, which included a large bowling green and a "wilderness" or wood of about eight acres, intersected by numerous grass walks, bordered by laurels and other shrubs, radiating from a centre, in which was an old sun dial.

Even before coming into the family estates, Lovelace Bigg-Wither took an active part in the movement for the establishment of small allotment holdings for the agricultural labourers. In 1832 he published a letter addressed to the farmers of Wootton, Worting, Monk Sherborne, and other parishes in North Hampshire connected with the estates, commending the movement as a means, among other things, of reducing the poor rates. He also, together with his father, let about 120 acres to cottagers on the estates in small lots at 3*d.* a pole, and printed an address to the allotment holders (numbering 170) on a broad sheet to be hung up in their cottages, pointing out the good effect he hoped it would have on them in promoting "respectability and comfort," and "the decent pride of honest independence." This action of his produced much correspondence with well-known men in all parts of England, e.g., Mr. Gladstone, Mr. W. Duthey (of Northamptonshire), and the poet Southey. The latter, writing from Keswick (20th August, 1832), says:—

"I was surprised as well as pleased to see in what manner your pamphlet was noticed in the 'Times.' You have been doing (according to my judgment) in the best possible way, the only thing which can be done for bettering the condition of the agricultural labourer, and removing one of those great evils which have cankered the root of England's prosperity."

In later years other landlords sought from him information about allotments and followed his example, notably (in 1845) his neighbour, Mr. (afterwards Sir) Wyndham S. Portal.

But the improvement of the condition of the agricultural poor was not the only good work which occupied Mr. Lovelace Bigg-Wither's thoughts at this period of his life. He was also much interested in the establishment of Mechanics' Institutes in towns, and in lectures connected therewith.

In the autumn of 1841, he delivered the address at the opening of the second session of the Mechanics' Institute at Basingstoke, which was printed at the request of the society. It is an eloquent exposition of the value of these institutions for all classes, especially those engaged in business and trade. He says, in concluding his address:—

"Perhaps it is the dream of a sanguine imagination, but I fancy I see in the general and spontaneous rise of these institutions, in which men of all parties and of all varieties of opinion are joining, the dawning of another day for England, in which the sunshine light of truth will gradually draw off and dissipate into the clear air all those heavy and unwholesome mists of ignorance, which still in part overshadow and blight the land."

In politics, Mr. Bigg-Wither was a Whig of the old-fashioned sort, and he took an active part in supporting Sir Henry Mildmay and the Hon. Dudley Carleton for North Hants, in the elections of 1852 and 1857. Being in Holy Orders and without "cure," he was much sought after to help neighbouring clergy, which he occasionally did; but his duties as a landowner, and as a county magistrate, not to mention the cares connected with the education of his eleven sons, did not allow much time for giving such assistance. He however, when at home, regularly assisted on Sunday his brother Walter, Vicar of Wootton.

He was actively interested in elementary education, and built the schools at Wootton and Worting.

Mr. Bigg-Wither had received, as has been shown, a liberal education, and became an unusually well-informed man on almost all subjects, scientific as well as literary; but his preference was for poetry. During many long winter evenings he used to read out loud to the family selections from the great English poets, and his children have cause to be grateful to him for making them acquainted in their youth with the masterpieces of such men as Milton, Wordsworth, Southey, Longfellow, and Tennyson. He himself wrote many poems on family and national events, and in 1869 published a nearly literal translation of Homer's Odyssey in "accentuated dramatic verse," which was well received in literary circles. He also translated into verse the whole of the Iliad, but did not publish it.

Meanwhile, as years went on, the financial needs connected especially with the education and starting in life of his numerous sons, brought great anxiety and necessitated the sale of portions of the estate. Wymering House had been sold in 1835 for £5000, and the rest of the Wymering estate in 1859 to Mr. Thistlethwaite for £14,827. By this means Lovelace Bigg-Wither was able to pay off the portions of his sisters; but the needs of his own large family required more drastic measures, and it gradually became evident that the old estates must go. Thus in 1865, Hillside House, Worting, where Mrs. H. Blackstone and Mrs. Hill had lived, was sold to Mr. George Lamb, and in 1868, Worting Inn Farm (195 acres) also to Mr. Lamb, and Sherdown Farm (160 acres) to Mr. W. S. Portal.

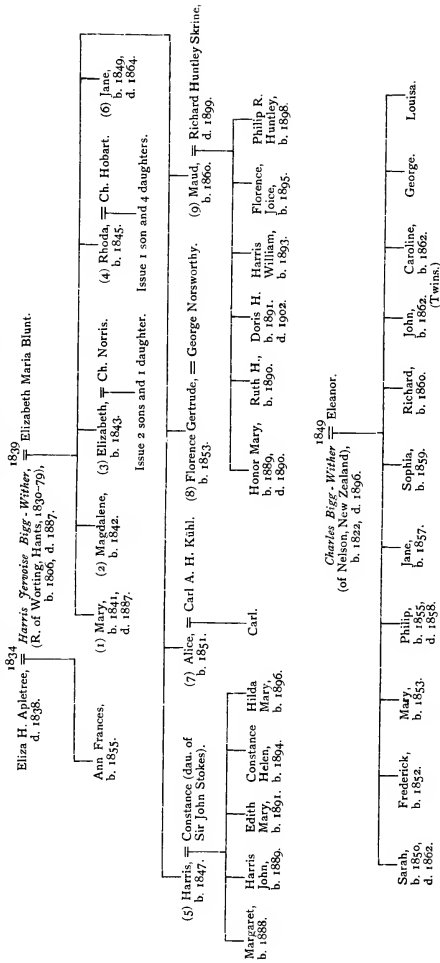

Meanwhile, negotiations had been entered into as referred to on page 34 for the enfranchisement, with a view to sale of the leasehold portions of the Manydown and Tangier Park estates and the redemption of the Rectorial Tythe of Wootton. This was completed by deed dated 31st December, 1863, for £28,096, paid to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. This large sum raised by mortgage on the estates further crippled Mr. Bigg-Wither's resources, and eventually, after much natural hesitation, in 1871, almost the whole of the old estates and of that which remained of the property bought by his grandfather, amounting to 2800 acres, together with Manydown and Tangier Houses, was sold to Mr. (afterwards Sir) Edward Bates, of Liverpool, for the sum of £102,840, including timber. Of this sum, £41,900 was retained by the trustees of the marriage settlement, and £28,096 had to meet the mortgages for the enfranchisement.

Thus came to an end the Manydown and Hampshire territorial possessions of a family that had lived upon them (as has been recorded in detail) for at least 413 years, i.e., from 1484—1871.

After the sale Mr. Bigg-Wither went to live in Montpelier Road, Brighton, where he bought four houses,—relieved indeed of pressing and future financial anxieties, but with a heart aching for the old place, so much so that he bought in 1873, for £4987, some land called the Apletree Farm, adjoining Manydown and Tangier, "that he might feel himself," as he said, "still an owner of land in the old place." To pay for this was the last cheque that he signed. He died, at Brighton, from heart failure after rheumatic fever, February 6th, 1874, aged sixty-eight years, and was buried at Worthing. His widow survived him thirty-three years, and died at Brighton, August 21st, 1901, aged ninety-two.

WITHER OF HALL (OAKLEY HALL).

(1620—1731.)

(1.)—GEORGE WYTHYER, the fourth son of John Wither of Manydown, who died A.D. 1536, and of Anne or Agnes Wither his wife, seems to have settled in the parish of Dummer, four miles south of Manydown.

He married Avelyn Shanke and had four sons—Gilbert, Thomas, John, and Reignold or Reginald.

From him are directly descended the Withers of Hall, though the Manor and the Manor house were not bought until 1620 by his grandson, (See Pedigree at the head of this Chapter). He is described in his will, proved 16th January, 1587, as of Dummer. He must have been a man of some property, for he bequeaths "all my lands lying in Lawrence Wootton and East Oakley and my lands called Staples, alias Gowldings Crofte, lying in Kempshott in the parish of Winslade to my son Gilbard Wethers and to the heirs of his body lawfully begotten." His "overseers" are his "cousins," John Wither of Manydown and Richard Ayliff of Ewhurst. He directs his body to be buried in the churchyard of Dummer, next his wife, who predeceased him two years in 1584. His burial is recorded in the Dummer registers, October 22nd, 1586.

(2.)—Gilbert Wyther, George Wyther's eldest son, baptised at Dummer, 21st November, 1543, is called in the Dummer and Oakley registers, in both of which his burial is recorded, "Mr. Gilberte Wyther of Dummer."

WITHER OF HALL (OAKLEY HALL).

(1620—1731.)

(1.)—GEORGE WYTHHER, the fourth son of John Wither of Manydown, who died A.D. 1536, and of Anne or Agnes Wither his wife, seems to have settled in the parish of Dummer, four miles south of Manydown.

GEORGE WITHER
of Dummer,
born circa 1520;
died 1586.

He married Avelyn Shanke and had four sons—Gilbert, Thomas, John, and Reignold or Reginald.

From him are directly descended the Withers of Hall, though the Manor and the Manor house were not bought until 1620 by his grandson, (See Pedigree at the head of this Chapter). He is described in his will, proved 16th January, 1587, as of Dummer. He must have been a man of some property, for he bequeaths "all my lands lying in Lawrence Wootton and East Oakley and my lands called Staples, alias Gowldings Crofte, lying in Kempshott in the parish of Winslade to my son Gilbard Wethers and to the heirs of his body lawfully begotten." His "overseers" are his "cousins," John Wither of Manydown and Richard Ayliff of Ewhurst. He directs his body to be buried in the churchyard of Dummer, next his wife, who predeceased him two years in 1584. His burial is recorded in the Dummer registers, October 22nd, 1586.

(2.)—Gilbert Wyther, George Wyther's eldest son, baptised at Dummer, 21st November, 1543, is called in the Dummer and Oakley registers, in both of which his burial is recorded, "Mr. Gilberte Wyther of Dummer."

GILBERT WITHER
of Dummer,
(1586—1599).

He married in 1578 Agnes Page, and had four sons—George, Reginald, Henry, and William, and four daughters. (See Pedigree IX.)

In 1589–90 we find him buying property in Oakley parish from the Fiennes family.<sup>1</sup> The inquisition post mortem held at Alton in 1600 states the amount of that property to be 460 acres, with various houses and a messuage with appurtenances called Rastalles or Rastowelles.<sup>2</sup> His will, dated 1599, shows that he had property also in the adjoining parish of Dean.

All his land he left to his eldest son George, besides £100 each to his seven other children. Provision is made in his will that his heirs should not enter for twelve years after his decease upon the lands and tenements now in the testator's tenure or occupation, namely, "Bullsushes park and barne, Northdowne, Evenger's Copse, and Barton Allins"; names which will be familiar to those interested in the present Oakley Hall property.

The inventory of Gilbert Wyther's goods attached to his will is valued at £936. 4s. 8d. (about £6500 of the present value), a considerable increase on that of his father's, which only amounted to £30. 17s. 4d.

Gilbert Wyther directs that his body be buried "in the body of the Parish Church of Church Oakley before the seat belonging unto the farm house of Rastowelles, and that my exors do provide a stone of marble of a foot square to be laid over my burial place graven with the date and year of my decease."

He died at Dummer, but was buried at Oakley 1st July, 1599.

A few years ago I discovered in an old furniture shop in Basingstoke a brass plate with the following inscription:—

HERE LYETH THE BODYE
OF GYLBARD WYTHYR
WHOE DECEASED THE
XXXth DAY OF JUNE AN<sup>o</sup> 1599.

CHARLES WITHER, THE ELDER.

Born 1663; died 1697.

From a pastel, at Oakley Manor.

The plate is now (1907) in the parish chest of Oakley Church, to be refixed in the Church, from whence it was probably taken when the Church was rebuilt in 1869.

(3.)—George Wither, born 1583, eldest son of Gilbert, is the first of the family known as "of Hall." He added to his father's property by buying, in 1616, 165 acres of land from the Rumbold family in Dean, and in 1619 he added another 460 acres in Oakley, bought from the Ayliffes, from whom he acquired the next year the manor of Hall and the manor house. The deed to that effect is among the Oakley Hall archives. He also, between 1629-52, bought land at Kingsclere Woodlands, Tadley, Hannington, and Bramley, and in 1656 the manors of the three Wallops, with about 1800 acres of land and considerable house property, as well as the advowson of the Church of Upper Wallop, on the Wiltshire border of the county.<sup>1</sup> Little more is known of him, except that he was one of the "Cursitor Barons" of the Court of Chancery. His legal training and practice is quaintly referred to on the monument to his memory in Dean Church.<sup>2</sup>

co. Southton, 1629,
1630, 1640, 1652, 1656,
1658.

His wife's burial is recorded in the Dean Registers as "Mrs. Agnes Wither, the wife of George Wither of Hall, buried in the Chancel of Dean, 29th October, 1659."

George Wither died without issue in 1666, and the property went to his nephew Gilbert, son of his brother Henry:—

(2.)—Reginald, the second son, died without issue in 1616.

(3.)—Henry, the third son, is described as of St. Olave's, Southwark. He married and had two sons—Gilbert, who succeeded his uncle at Hall, and George, whose only daughter Mary married her cousin, William Wither, of Manydown. His daughter Ann married Henry Pinke, of Kempshott.

(4.)—William, the fourth son, born at Dummer in 1593, took Holy Orders and became Rector of Dummer in 1624. He was a Fellow of Winchester College, where there is a monument to his memory in the Cloisters.<sup>1</sup> He died in 1656.

(1666—1676).

(4.)—Gilbert Wither, of Hall, eldest son of Henry Wither, of Southwark, born 1623, succeeded his uncle at Hall Place in 1666. He was educated at Winchester, and became Fellow of New College, Oxford, in 1647. He entered Holy Orders and became Rector of North Waltham and Dean. He married, 4th September, 1654, Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Hall, of Basingstoke, by his wife Elizabeth daughter of Walter Pinke, of Kempshott Park, near Basingstoke, a family that owned Kempshott for most of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.<sup>2</sup>

The issue of the marriage of Gilbert Wither and Elizabeth Hall was numerous—seven sons and four daughters. The Dean registers<sup>3</sup> show that three sons and two daughters were buried there in the autumn and winter of 1677–8. Presumably there was some fever which carried off five of the family between the ages of sixteen and twenty-two. Two were buried in one grave.

Of the other children :—

Charles, the sixth son, born 1663, succeeded at Hall Place.

Andrew, the seventh son, born 1665, became a Bencher of Gray's Inn. Many extant deeds show that he acted as legal adviser of the family. He died an old man in 1752, and is buried at Keevil in Gloucestershire.

Henry, the youngest of the family, born 1667, entered the army. There are several interesting letters of his addressed to Mr. Thomas Jervoise, of Herriard, dated 1693–4, relating to incidents in the Campaign of Flanders, where he lost his life.

MRS. WITHER (Née Dorothy Smith),
Wife of CHARLES WITHER, of Hall.
Died 1782.

From a picture by Sir Godfrey Kneller, at Oakley Hall.

Anne, the eldest daughter, born in 1662, married, 9th October, 1679, William Beach, Esq., of Fiddleton, Wiltshire, who bought the charming Jacobean house at Keevil, which has descended to Major Archibald Hicks Beach, of Oakley Hall. Their grandson William married another Anne Wither of Hall in 1746.

Mr. Gilbert Wither added Wyfolds and the advowson of Tadley to the property, and in 1671 bought the Manor of Inhurst, afterwards (1791) sold to Lovelace Bigg-Wither, of Manydown. He died in 1676. His widow married Dr. Watson, D.L., Dean of Battle, and had issue. She died 1694, aged sixty-one.

(5).—Charles Wither, of Hall, fifth son of the Rev. Gilbert Wither, was born at North Waltham in 1663. He became a scholar at Winchester College, and married in 1682 Dorothy, daughter of Sir William Smith, Bart. There is a beautiful picture of her by Godfrey Kneller at Oakley Hall. She long outlived her husband, of whom little is known, except that he was High Sheriff of the County in 1686, and died August, 1697.

CHARLES WITHER,
the elder,
(1676—1697).

Mrs. Wither was buried June 3rd, 1732. The position of the vault in old Dean Church, where they were both interred, is minutely described in the Dean registers.<sup>1</sup> Two children only survived—Charles, who succeeded, and Henrietta Maria, who married Dr. William King, D.L. She died in the lifetime of her brother Charles.

There was a provision in Charles Wither's will, which caused a big lawsuit in the family. He left his only daughter, Henrietta Maria, who married Dr. King, £2500 on attaining twenty-one or marriage. He also left her an additional £3500 if his son Charles should die without male issue. This happened in 1731, and Dr. King, as administrator of his late wife's estate, thereupon sued in Chancery Andrew Wither (the brother and surviving exor of Charles Wither, the elder), Frances (the widow and executrix of Charles Wither, the younger), and Dorothy, Anne, and Henrietta Maria (daughters of Charles Wither, the younger), for payment of this £3500. The result of the Chancery suit was that the Lord Chancellor pronounced judgment, 11th July, 1735, to the effect that the £3500 in question "is a subsisting charge on the said testator's real estate." Andrew Wither and the widow and daughters of Charles Wither, the younger, appealed to the House of Lords, mainly on the ground that Henrietta Maria King died in the lifetime of her brother Charles Wither, and that therefore the contingency above-mentioned never vested in her. The House of Lords however confirmed the decree of the Court of Chancery, with costs, 15th March, 1735-6.

CHARLES WITHER,
the younger,
(1697-1731).

(6.)—Charles Wither, "the younger," as he is called to distinguish him from his father, was baptised 8th August, 1684. He became a well-known and distinguished man, and I am able to give some details of his work and family life. He married in 1707 Frances Wavell, a member of the ancient Yorkshire family of Wyvell or Wavell, and cousin of Henrietta Wavell who married in 1728 Henry Wither, of Theddon Grange. They had five children; two (Frances and Charles) died in infancy; three daughters survived:—

(1.)—Dorothy, who died unmarried in 1752, the day after her mother's death.

(2.)—Henrietta Maria, who married (1st) Mr. Thynne Worsley, (2ndly) Mr. Edmund Bramston. She succeeded her father at Hall. (See post.)

(3.)—Ann, who married in 1746 her cousin, Mr. William Beach, of Fiddleton and Netheravon, Wilts, by which marriage Oakley Hall came to the Beach family in 1832.

Charles Wither has left two interesting journals. The first, written 1702, describes a ride from Oxford to Newcastle and

CHARLES WITHER, THE YOUNGER.

Born 1684; died 1731.

Commissioner of Woods and Forests.

Carlisle with his tutor, and back to Oxford; the second, describing a journey in Holland in 1706-7, before his marriage. He was High Sheriff of the County in 1708, when he was only twenty-five years old, and was M.P. for Christchurch from 1726-31. He was made Commissioner of Woods and Forests in 1720, an office, which as his letters and journals shew, entailed an immense amount of work. In a letter to his daughter Ann (afterwards Mrs. Beach) he says: "I am up every morning at four and abroad till ten at night." And writing in French, September 8th, 1730, he says:—

"Je suis si occupé dans les affaires de mon office, que c'est avec difficulté que je trouve du temps à manger, et encore moins en proportion à dormir. Je me reveille ordinairement avant qu'il fait jour, et sort sans déjeuner. Je reviens au logis environ midi, et à deux heures après dîner je suis obligé de retourner à travail. Enfin je me suis tant fatigué que vous aurez de la peine à me connaître quoique je me porte passablement bien."

"Your sisters have not yet been at Court; but go to-morrow, and Henny (Henrietta Maria, afterwards married to Mr. E. Bramston) hunts in her new habit, which is Garter blue gogram, laced with gold lace: they go to-night to a ball at Windsor with Miss Crossby, Miss Fielding, and Lady Fanny Montague, and I wish I could add with my dearest little Nancy . . . . I beg of you stick to your spinnet and writing of music."

Anne evidently had a taste for music, for in his next letter, dated from Cranburn Little Lodge, near Windsor, her father says:

"The Princesses asked after you, and have made me promise to get a harpsicord here, and bring you hither next year for they long to hear you play, so pray tell Mr. Keeble for his credit I hope he will make you play Handell's lessons by that time, for the Princesses like them mightily . . . . Mr. Keeble has given me so satisfactory an account of your industry that I am more pleased than you can imagine."

Little Miss Anne Wither (she was only thirteen), remaining at home in Hampshire, was looked to by her father for information as to all his country affairs at Hall, and to supplement the more formal reports of his bailiff and chief groom. He says:—

"My dearest little girl is mistress of the Family and entrusted with the power of everything . . . I beg you will tell me all about the fox-hunting . . . I will write to Ned about the horses and dogs, and to Webb about my 'æconomie de Campagne' and the farms. You will oblige me by begging them both to follow carefully my orders . . . I beg you will be very careful of all my business, and next letter you write let me know whether the Harvest people are diligent or lazy, and who does the business best and who worst, for I am sure by this time you are a good judge."

In October, 1731, he writes announcing the return home of the family :—

"I would have Dick the postillion come hither with the four horses on Wednesday; pray let him set out early in the morning on Wednesday, that he may be here betimes for the horses to have some rest. Let Webb go to James the Waggoner and tell him to provide to bring my goods and the maids by his waggon next Saturday. Tell Ned I would have the hounds kept fresh for me, for I think I have not been so well these twenty years as I am now, and shall hunt stoutly."

He came home, and died on 20th November following.

In the Gentleman's Magazine for that date is the following notice :—

"Death.—November, 1731, Charles Wither, of Hall, in Hampshire Esq. Surveyor of His Majesty's Woods and Forests and M.P. for Christchurch, Twyneham. He was, according to his own appointment, carried to his Interment at twelve o'clock at night by six of his Servants, one walking before with a candle and lanthorn, no Friends or Relations following."

There is an interesting letter from his widow to the same daughter Anne, dated June, 1742 :—

"My dearest Nancy,—Whatever mistakes may be in my will, I beg you and your Sisters as my last request, to take no advantage from it. I am sorry it is not in my power to acknowledge your goodness to me by giving you a better Legacy, which if I had I must have been unjust to your dear Sister Wither (Dorothy Wither, the eldest daughter), who I beg you will never leave till marriage part you, which if you do, my spirit will never rest. I hope your Sister Worsley (i.e., the second daughter, Henrietta Maria, whose first husband was Thynne Worsley, son of Sir Robert Worsley, Bart.) will be kind to you both: you have laid great obligation on her. I pray God to continue the good understanding that I leave among you. I thank you for ff. Wither."

She died, after a long illness, September 28th, 1752, at Hall. Her eldest daughter, Dorothy, who had shown great devotion in the care of her mother, died the day after. They were buried the same day. The inscription on her monument in Dean Church, written by her sister (Mrs. Edmund Bramston), says:

"Perhaps it was one part of its reward
 That Providence spared her the pain
 She had always most dreaded.

For after having anxiously watched over her Mother
 Through a long illness
 When the lamp of life was just going out
 She fell sick herself,

And expired the next day after her beloved Parent,
 On whose life she had placed y<sup>e</sup> chief happiness of her own."

Masquerade Ball at Hawkwood.

"Hall Place, June 4th, 1769.

"I think it an age since I wrote to my dear Wither; but I have never ceased to think of him . . . Last Wednesday we went to the masquerade at Hackwood. There was a great deal of company from London, and every house in Basingstoke was full. The Duchess of Bolton was a Tartarian Princess; she had a crown of diamonds upon her head of great value, and was a fine figure. The Duke was in a handsome Domino, and so was the Duke of Gloucester (brother of George III). The Duke of Cumberland was not there; but both the Queen's brothers were. There were a great many rich dresses and some very humorous masques, amongst which was an old witch, who danced with a man who sold gingerbread, a Methodist preacher, a Pope, a Devil, and a Cardinal. There was a pretty little Cupid, who I believe did some mischief with his bow and arrows. Miss Conolly was a Vestal, her sister Leonora in the Padlock, and Lady Mary Powlett wore the same dress. Augusta (Wither Bramston's elder sister) represented Fortuna. She had a silver gauze jacket and a petticoat, with a blue veil fixed to her head with diamonds, then tyed to her shoulder with silver tassels, and fixed to her hip across her back and twisted in festoons round her coat. She carried a gilt wheel in her hand. Henny (Wither Bramston's younger sister Henrietta) was a Dancer. She wore a jacket and petticoat of pink lustring, trimmed with silver gauze, with a little hat of the same on one side of her head, and flowers on the other; she danced, but Augusta refused several masques that asked her. sisters were greatly entertained, indeed it was a fine sight. At twelve the rooms were opened for supper, which was all cold except soups and peas. Nigri furnished the dessert, which was very elegant. The Spring Wood was beautifully illuminated, and the company was intended to walk in it, but the weather prevented. Mr. Osborn had Sir George Pocock's Nabob's dress, which is very fine, and Lady Cork borrowed all the rich jewels which were Lady Pocock's. My dress was a Venetian Domino trimmed with gold gauze, with a white high crowned hat, trimmed with the same. We did not get home till past four o'clock. . . . I have wrote so many letters this post that my hand and pen is quite tired. I would not however neglect writing to my dearest Wither, to assure him that I am, most truly, (1790—1832).

At his death without issue in 1832, the Oakley Hall property went to the descendants of his aunt, Mrs. Beach (née Anne Wither), whose daughter, Henrietta Maria, married in 1779 Mr. Michael Hicks, of Keevil, Wilts, who assumed on the death of his wife's father in 1790, by royal license, the surname and arms of Beach. Their second son, William Hicks Beach, M.P., Colonel of the N. Gloucestershire Militia, succeeded to the Oakley Hall property on the death of Mr. Wither Bramston in 1832. (9.)—The Rt. Honble. William Wither Bramston Beach married (1857) Caroline Chichester, daughter of Col. Cleveland, of Tapley Park, N. Devon. He made considerable alterations and additions to Oakley Hall in 1860. He was Master of the Vine Hounds for many years; a great Mason, being Provincial Grand Master of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight; and a prominent Conservative, representing the Basingstoke and Andover Division of Hampshire for forty-four years. He became "Father of the House of Commons." He died as the result of an accident coming from the House of Commons in 1901, leaving a widow, two sons and a daughter. His elder sister, Mary Jane, married Mr. (afterwards Sir) Wyndham S. Portal, of Malshanger, Hants. His second sister, Henrietta Maria, married Colonel (afterwards Sir) John Wallington. His eldest son, Archibald William Hicks, late Captain King's Royal Rifles, married Violet, the only daughter of the Hon. Slingsby Bethell, c.B., and has issue. The second son, Ellice Michael Hicks, is in H. M. Diplomatic Service. Margaret, the daughter, married G. W. Nicholson, Esq., M.P., of Basing Park, Alton.

WITHER OF BENTWORTH AND THEDDON GRANGE.

RICHARD WITHER, of Manydown, who was buried at Wootton, 23rd July, 1577, and was succeeded by his eldest son John, had several other children by his wife, Margaret Poynter, of whom George, the next in age, baptised 14th July, 1562, went to live and died at Bentworth, a village near Alton, Hants, where he acquired considerable property, and most probably a wife. He was father of the celebrated poet and satirist, George Wither, born at Bentworth, 11th June, 1588. The poet's mother is said in most biographies of G. W., and in many old pedigrees, to have been Ann Searle or Serle. This is an error, based probably on the following entry in the Wootton Registers: "A.D. 1604, Georgius Wither et Anna Serle, Feb. 11, nupt."; and would make the poet to have been born fifteen years before his father's marriage. There were about this time several George Withers in existence (the poet says sixteen), and another of them (George, of Winchester) married Ann, daughter of Gilbert Searle, in 1641. The question of the parentage of the poet, which has puzzled many, has been set at rest by the discovery in 1902, in the Probate Court of Winchester, of the will of George Wither the Elder.<sup>1</sup> In that will the testator speaks of his "wife Mary." Moreover, the Feet of Fines, co. Southampton, 5th Charles I (1629), records that "George Wither, Senior, Gentleman, and Mary, his wife," sold some ninety-six acres of land in

"Bentworthe"; a subsequent sale in 1658 speaks of "Mary, widow of George Wither, of Bentworth." A fourth proof that the poet's mother was "Mary," not "Ann," is afforded by her will.<sup>1</sup> What her surname was is not certain, but the suggestion made by Mr. F. Sidgwick in the excellent Introduction to his book on the earlier poetry of G. W. is most likely correct, namely, that the poet's mother "Mary" belonged to the family of Hunt,<sup>2</sup> who then owned "Fidding," or Theddon Grange, close to Bentworth, a family that gave another daughter (Elizabeth) to the poet's son Robert, so bearing out the statement in G. W.'s poem—"A Sacrifice of Praise and Prayer."

*"The families from whom I was designed To take my being, Thou hast now twice joined
And their two surnames, being joined together
Denominate my grandson, Hunt L'Wither."*

As in the parallel case of George Wither, of Dummer (the fourth son of John Wither, of Manydown, and the progenitor of the Withers of Oakley Hall), there is nothing to show why George Wither (the elder), of Bentworth, chose that place for his home, unless it was to be near his wife's family at Theddon. All we know for certain is that his five sons, George, John, Thomas, James, and Anthony, and his five daughters, Elizabeth, Mary, Anne, Alice, and Polyxena (see Pedigree), were born at Bentworth; that he died and was buried there (17th November, 1629), and that his widow "Mary" was buried there (29th April, 1643).<sup>3</sup>

At Bentworth, on 11th June, 1588, while the great Armada was on its way to England, a son was born to George and Mary Wither. This was the well-known poet and writer. A family history is perhaps hardly the place for a literary appreciation of his works, nor for a further full account of his eventful and long life; but this history would be more incomplete than it is if I did not here introduce a short account, based mainly on published biographies, of this remarkable man, with some remarks on his writings.

The student of a family history notes that the poet derived some education from Ralph Starkey the Archivist, who had married a niece of his aunt, Mrs. Richard Wither (née Poynter) of Manydown; but his chief education as a boy was at the (then) noted school of Mr. John Greaves (father of two noted men of learning) in the neighbouring parish of Colmer. His early life under the parental roof at Bentworth was one of ease and indeed of luxury. He alludes in one of his poems to the time:—

*"When daily I on change of dainties fed,
Lodged night by night upon an easy bed
In lordly chambers, and had wherewithal
Attendants forwarder than I to call,
Who brought me all things needful; when at hand
Hounds, hawks and horses were at my command."*<sup>1</sup>

GEORGE WITHER,
the Poet
(1588—1667).

3rd Canto.

He entered Magdalen College, Oxford, when he was fifteen. Of his career at Oxford (1604—6) he himself gives an account at the beginning of his "Abuses Stript and Whipt." But before he could "acquire the lowest degree" some cause, perhaps a change in his parents' fortune, brought it about that—

*"I home returned somewhat discontent,
And to our Bentworth's beechy shadows went.
But finding that mere countrie business
Was not my calling, . . . I soon forsook again
The shady grove and the sweet open plaine."*<sup>2</sup>

Stript and Whipt*."

So in 1606, when he was "thrice five years and three," he went to London and entered at "one of the Inns of Chancery," where for the next five years we hear very little of him. It is probable that "Fidelia" and "Fair Virtue," including the "matchless lyric"—

"Shall I, wasting in despair, Die because a woman's fair?"

were written and in private circulation at this time, though not published until long afterwards.

In 1611 came his first publication, "Abuses Stript and Whipt," a satirical criticism of the Government, which at once suppressed it. The death of Henry, the popular Prince of Wales, 6th November, 1612, and the marriage the next year of the Princess Elizabeth, "the noblest nymph of Thame," called forth the "Obsequies" and the "Epithalamia" in which Wither's muse was almost at its best.

The republication in 1613 of the "Abuses Stript and Whipt," with the appended "Scourge," containing an attack upon the Lord Chancellor (Cecil), brought about his committal to the Marshalsea, from which he was liberated after eighteen months imprisonment by order of James I, and doubtless through the intercession of his powerful patroness the Princess Elizabeth (afterwards Queen of Bohemia), who had "vouchsafed her word to clear me from all dangers" when it first appeared.<sup>1</sup> While in prison he wrote the charming pastoral poem the "Shepherds Hunting," the best known of all his works.

When liberated, Wither was at once admitted (8th July, 1615) to Lincoln's Inn, "At request of John Jeffreys, Arm., now reader and bencher."

In 1621 he published "Withers Motto"—"Nec habeo, nec careo, nec curo"—a poem which at once gained extraordinary popularity, and went through several editions; but again a hidden satire was discovered by some enemy in high position,<sup>2</sup> and he was (27th June, 1621) ordered to the Marshalsea once more, on the charge of libel, which he easily refuted, and he was released without trial.

Soon after this, his finances being in a bad way, the poet obtained from the King a patent dated 17th February, 1622-3,

What I WAS is pass'd by:
 What I AM away doth fly:
 What I SHALL BEE none do see:
 Yet in that my Beauties be.

giving him, "his exors and assigns," for fifty-one years the monopoly and copyright of "Hymns and Songs of the Church," a work in which he had put into lyric verse the Bible songs; and a further patent was granted him prohibiting the binding up of the authorized Psalm book in metre without a copy of Wither's "Hymns and Songs."<sup>1</sup> These patents at once brought him into collision with the privileges of the Stationers' Company,<sup>2</sup> and a dispute arose which lasted until 1633, when the patent was withdrawn, and Wither had no longer any difficulty about printing and publishing his numerous works.

All this time George Wither had been living in London; but between 1636—39 he seems to have retired to a house, which he calls "his rustic habitation," under Beacon Hill, near Farnham. Some (perhaps most) of the family property at Bentworth had been sold at this time, namely, nearly 100 acres, just before his father's death, November, 1629. In 1630 he sold a messuage and land in Bentworth to William Gregory and his wife Ann (the poet's sister). The deed relating to this is in the possession of an old man named F. Vickery, at Bentworth, and is signed by the poet, his two brothers, James and Anthony, and by his sister Pollixina, dated May 22nd, 1630. In 1637 he and his mother sold another 100 acres, with house and grounds, at Bentworth.<sup>3</sup>

In 1639 the poet exchanged for a time the pen for the sword, and we find him in that year Captain of Horse and Quarter-Master-General in the expedition of Charles I against the Scotch Covenanters, and—though he found time in 1641 to publish his "Halelujah, or Britain's Second Remembrancer," which contains the best of his religious poetry—the outbreak of the Civil War in 1642 again claims him as a soldier, this time on the Parliamentary side. He is said by Anthony-à-Wood to have "sold his estate and raised a troop of horse for the Parliament." I can find no authority for the first of these statements, though it is evident by his subsequent petitions to Parliament that he incurred great expenses and was reduced almost to poverty in furthering the Parliamentary cause.<sup>1</sup> That he did raise a troop of horse in his own neighbourhood, "according to my fortune and my place," is proved,<sup>2</sup> and he placed on his colours the legend "Pro rege, lege, grege," a motto which aptly defines his attitude towards the political questions of the time. He was a constitutionalist before his time.

On 14th October, 1642, Wither was appointed by the Parliamentary Committee Captain and Commander of Farnham Castle, for "defence of King, Parliament, and Kingdom." This was after its first capture by Sir William Waller. He withdrew after a brief occupation, and as the reasons for his doing so have been so misjudged,<sup>3</sup> and the story of events has been so confused, I give at length the circumstances as related by Mr. H. E. Malden in his recent History of Surrey, pp. 229—231, and in the volume of the Victoria History of Surrey, p. 407—519:—

"On October 14th, 1642, George Wither, who had been put in command of forces raised for the Parliament in Surrey, was given a commission from the two Houses as Governor of Farnham Castle. Acc<sup>d</sup> to his own account he began actively to put the place in repair, to fortify it as best as he could, to collect stores, and dig a well. . . . Wither had no artillery, only two newly-raised squadrons, but half armed, a few irresolute volunteers whom he could not depend upon, about sixty muskets, some powder, matches, and balls.<sup>1</sup> He was persuaded also that Sir R<sup>d</sup> Onslow, under whose orders he was acting, was not only jealous of him, but not to be depended upon in the cause. . . . He chafed under Onslow's orders; he was in perpetual irritation at not receiving vast supplies of men and munitions, which neither Sir R<sup>d</sup> nor anyone else had it in his power to send him.

"The Royalists were in the neighbourhood, an attack appeared imminent, and he probably rightly judged that he could not resist it. What happened is obscure. In his pamphlet 'Se Defendendo' (published 1643), Wither says that he was ordered to come to London with a troop of horse, leaving an officer in charge at Farnham. This was when the King's army was advancing upon London after the Battle of Edgehill. A general story against him was that he had run away and deserted his garrison, and in another pamphlet called 'Justitarius Justificatus' (published 1645), directed against Sir R. Onslow, who was then endeavouring to have Wither removed from the Commission of the Peace for Surrey,—he gives a different reason. In it he writes that Sir R. O. persuaded him to leave Farnham on the ground that his appointment was only temporary, and that he could do better service with a more assured position as Captain of a troop of horse in the field. . . . Wither certainly did not go without the intention of returning. On November 8th he got from Parliament an order for a supply of 'culverins,' or heavy guns, from the Tower.<sup>2</sup> The next day, however, the advance of Rupert's horse into North Surrey caused Parliament to rescind the order, for it was not feasible to get the train of artillery safely through the country. Wither asked leave to exchange the culverins for 'drakes,' or light artillery, which he thought he might convoy safely through byways. He was refused leave, however, and told that the fortress must be evacuated. Then he, perhaps, really did distinguish himself by an act of daring and skill. Alone on a swift horse, risking the encounter of Rupert's plunderers, he rode down to his own house. There he impressed all the carts and horses he could find at once, took them to Farnham, through the park, avoiding the Royalist town, and conveyed away safely all the men and what supplies there were in the Castle."<sup>3</sup>

On the very day of Wither's withdrawal of the forces from Farnham Castle his house, four miles off, was entered by Royalist troops and plundered, whereby he lost, he says, "above two thousand pounds," and also, it seems, several MSS. of unpublished poems, etc. He himself was captured (though whether at this time or subsequently is not clear) and brought before the King at Oxford, when, according to the well-known story,<sup>1</sup> Sir John Denham pleaded successfully for his life on the ground that "So long as Wither lived he, Denham, would not be accounted the worst poet in England." It is difficult to trace his movements at this critical time of the great Civil War; but "Major Wither" was present at the Siege of Gloucester in 1643, and at the Battle of Naseby in 1645. In 1646 he was fined £500 for his violent attack in the pamphlet "Justitiarius Justificatus" (before referred to) on the Parliamentary General Sir R. Onslow, whom he had charged with sending money privately to the King, and who "had retorted by depriving him of his command of the Militia in East and Mid Surrey, and caused his removal from the Commission of the Peace."<sup>2</sup>

After the death of the King (January, 1649) and the establishment of the Commonwealth, Wither bombarded the Government afresh with petitions for sums due to him for "payment of his troops in the late wars," and for the plunder of his property by the Royalists. The summary of one of these petitions, dated 19th September, 1649, is so piteous and graphic that it is worth inserting here:—<sup>3</sup>

"George Wither complains that by want of his arrears of pay his family is reduced from eighteen household servants to one; his diet from severall dishes at a meal to many meals out of one dish, and otherwise to no meal in the whole day. He is now feeding upon his household stuff in the hope that when it is consumed God will take him and his out of this unmerciful world."

The result of this forcible pleading was that the Houses of Parliament acknowledged that about £4000 was due to him, and an order was made out allowing him £150 annually out of Sir J. Denham's lands in Surrey. It is doubtful whether he ever got this money or any part of it; but it is difficult to reconcile the statements made by his biographers and his own pleas of poverty with the fact that on 28th September, 1648, he bought the manors of Bentley (Surrey) and Alverstoke, near Gosport, for £1185. 4s. 5½d.,<sup>1</sup> and by his widow's will he seems to have still had property at Bentworth and elsewhere.

During the last days of the Commonwealth he lived out of London at a village called Hambledon, in Hampshire, until Cromwell gave him the Statute Office, or the "clerkship of recognizances," the benefit of which he lost (as he himself naively says) by declaring unto him (Cromwell) those truths which he was not willing to hear of.<sup>2</sup>

He probably left Hambledon for London about 1654, in which year he sold 330 acres of his estate there to Sir Cheney Culpeper, Knight, to take up his new duties for the Court of Chancery. He subsequently (1658) sold fifty acres more at Hambledon;<sup>3</sup> but the manor was retained, and devised to his son Robert by his widow's will, with other property at Bentworth.

When the Restoration (1660) was assured, he welcomed the King in the following words:—

"I'll serve you faithfully in what I may,
And you, as King, love, honour, and obey."<sup>4</sup>

But he expressed his apprehension as to the government of the country in "Salt upon Salt," "Speculum Speculativum," and other publications of his busy and rash pen, with a frankness which attracted the attention of the new Government. His house in the Savoy was searched, his papers examined, and a then unpublished poem called "Vox Vulgi" was made the excuse for his arrest (22nd May, 1661-2). He was committed to Newgate, then to the Tower, to await impeachment.<sup>5</sup> Here he whiled away his time by writing "Crumbs found in a Prisoner's Basket" and "A Prisoner's Plea." No further proceedings against him were taken, and he was released (27th July, 1663). The remaining years of his life were passed quietly at his house in London in writing untiringly, in collecting from previous writings, and in publishing "Echoes from the Sixth Trumpet," and in moralizing on the great plague of 1665.

He died in his house in the precincts of the Savoy, 2nd May, 1667, within a few weeks of his eightieth birthday. He was buried "within the east door" at the church of the Savoy Hospital in the Strand, "in streaming London's central roar." I have not been able to find his "will," if he ever made one.

"I am mainly indebted to Mr. F. Sidgwick's excellent Introduction to "The Poetry of George Wither," and to Mr. Sidney Lee's article in the "Dictionary of National Biography," for the above account of the poet's life. These living authors have doubtless made use of earlier biographies, the best of which are those of W. Winstanley (1687), Alex. Dalrymple (1785), Anthony à Wood, "Athenæ Oxonienses" (1721), J. Aubrey, "Brief Lives" (1898), and R. A. Wilmott's "Lives of Sacred Poets" (1834).

I have been able to make a few corrections and additions to these biographies from family records in my possession, and from the "Feet of Fines," co. Southampton.

I would commend to all interested in George Wither as a poet Charles Lamb's critical and appreciative essay (1818), in which he says:—

"The praises of poetry have been often sung in ancient and modern times; strange powers have been ascribed to it of influence over animate and inanimate auditors; but, before Wither, no one had celebrated its power at home—the wealth and the strength which this divine gift confers upon its possessor."

And again,—

"Whether engaged or roaming at liberty Wither never seems to have abated a jot of that free spirit which sets its mark upon his writings. The prison notes of Wither are finer than the wood notes of most of his poetical brethren."

Lamb, writing to the poet Southey, 8th November, 1798, and comparing Wither with his contemporary Quarles, says:—

"I perfectly accord with your opinion of old Wither; Quarles is a wittier writer, but Wither lays more hold of the heart. Quarles thinks of his audience when he lectures. Wither soliloquizes with a full heart. . . . Wither is like an old friend, whose warm heartedness and admirable qualities make us wish he possessed more genius, but at the same time makes us willing to dispense with that want. I always love Wither, and sometimes admire Quarles. . . . The extract you send from the "Shepherd's Hunting" places Wither in a starry height far above Quarles."

George Wither's best poems are written in the seven syllable line metre, of which he has shown himself a consummate master, e.g. :—

*"Her true beauty leaves behind
Apprehensions in my mind
Of more sweetness than all art
Or inventions can impart.
Thoughts too deep to be expressed,

This is not the place for a further exposition of George Wither as a poet, nor for a full appreciation of his political character; but a descendant of the older branch of the family, and one who bears his name, may be allowed to refute briefly from his writings two charges—(1) that he was a "Roundhead," (2) that he was a "Puritan."

(1) That he was a Royalist at heart is evident from his Coronation Hymn (published 1641):—

*"Him honour so and him so crown,
Him so invest and him so arm,
Him so anoint, him so enthroned.
And by Thy word him so inform,
That to Thy glory he may reign
To his content and for our peace."*<sup>2</sup>

Of which the Times, September 11th, 1903, said "in no Coronation ode or hymn of the hundreds published on the occasion of Edward VII Coronation could we find anything to beat Wither's lines."

(2) No puritan could have written as follows on the Holy Eucharist :—

*" But in this holy Eucharist
By faith and grace divine
We know we feed on Thee, O Christ,
Receiving bread and wine.
Thy real presence we avow,
But so that we confess
Mere carnal reason knows not how

How could the High Anglican doctrine be more clearly stated?

It is a pleasure to know that (as Mr. Sidney Lee says) "It is now universally recognised that George Wither was a poet of exquisite grace;" but it must also be acknowledged that "it was only for a season in his long career."

I have appended to this chapter what I believe to be the most complete list existing of his voluminous writings, based mainly on the bibliography contained in Sir Samuel Egerton Brydges' British Bibliographer (1810), compiled by Thomas Park. For this I am entirely indebted to the kindness and labour of Mr. Frank Sidgwick, of the firm of A. H. Bullen, publisher, 47, Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, editor of the Poetry of George Wither (1902).

A short time before his death George Wither had expressed a desire to return "to the place of his nativity," but was dissuaded by his friends. His widow, however, to whom during his life he had shown the greatest affection and loyalty, returned to Bentworth, and continued till her death to live on a small estate called Gatwicke, which she had bought from her son Robert, who had it from his father-in-law, John Hunt, of Thèddon Grange. Aubrey says that Mrs. George Wither "was a great wit, and could write in verse too." She died in 1683, and it is evident from her "will"<sup>1</sup> that a considerable portion of her husband's property had been saved in the wreck of his fortunes.

Only two of the poet's six children survived him, Elizabeth and Robert:—

co-heir with her sister Mary of John Hunt, of Theddon Grange, a fine house, situated within two miles of Bentworth. Here he took up his residence and lived till his death. He was buried at Bentworth 25th April, 1677. His widow survived him thirteen years, and was buried at Alton 3rd April, 1695. The eldest son of Robert Wither and Elizabeth Hunt was called Hunt after his mother's family, and was baptized at Alton, in which parish Theddon Grange is situated, 15th September, 1662.

Hunt Wither married in 1701 a remarkable woman, and he had an unusual career. His wife Dorothy Alpe is simply called in the affidavit he made in 1709 before the College of Arms, "daughter and sole heir of Robert Welstead of London," but her domestic history is sufficiently curious to deserve a more extended notice from the simple fact that Hunt Wither was her fourth husband in less than eight years. She married (1st) Henry Perrin, who died 1694; (2nd) Richard Wilson, whose will was proved December, 1697; (3rd) Edward Alpe, who died 1700. All three were London physicians. By each of her four husbands she had one child.

Hunt Wither became Colonel of Foot in the British Army, and in 1707 was commissioned Brigadier-General in the service of Charles III, King of Spain. Many interesting papers concerning his troop and his campaign in Spain are among the Oakley Hall archives, his exor. being Andrew Wither, of Gray's Inn, brother of Charles Wither, of Hall. On the death of his father in 1718 he came to live at Theddon, and was much interested in the development of the Theddon estate.

Brigadier Hunt-Wither was buried at Shalden, 29th June, 1718, the advowson of which Church was then in the possession of the Lords of Theddon, and according to Colonel Chester a memorial was erected to his memory in Shalden Churchyard, which however no longer exists.

His widow survived him fourteen years, her daughter, Dorothy Bonham (née Perin), administering to her estate 8th May, 1732, when she is described as of Old Alresford, Hants.

Here her son Henry, by General Wither, was baptized, February 13th, 1705-6. He married in 1728 Henrietta Wavell, and died at Theddon, without issue, 3rd April, 1730. His will, which is curious was unsuccessfully disputed by his cousin and heir at law, George Wither, son of his only uncle Robert, who had died in the West Indies in 1695. By this will he left (subject to the life interest of his widow) all his estates in Theddon and Bentworth to Henry Bonham, and, failing issue, to his brother, Richard Bonham, sons of Thomas Bonham, of Old Alresford, who had married Dorothy Perin, Henry Wither's stepdaughter. He directed that the Bonhams were to take the "name of Wither instead of Bonham," "and my further will is that before my funeral my body is to be opened by John Leech, Surgeon, and my heart taken out." . . . "To be carried to burial by six of my labouring men, and that the side of my coffin be taken out, and laid by the side of my coffin in or near the place where my ancestors on my mother's side (Dorothy Welsted) have been buried in Long Sutton, Hants." A huge deed on eight sheets of vellum, dated 1732, now in possession of the present owner of Thedden Grange (Mr. J. Gathorne Wood), embodies the will, and records the interrogatories and depositions of the witnesses before two Masters in Chancery, "in a cause wherein Henry and Richard Bonham, infants, by Thomas Bonham their father and next friend are Plaintiffs against George Wither, gentleman, defendant." The Pedigree following shows what became of the Bonhams.

* The seal on Henry Bonham's Will bears the Arms of Wither quartering Hunt.

A tombstone lately (1895) uncovered in St. Lawrence Church, Winchester, records the burial of "Henrietta Wither (relict of Henry Wither, Esq., of Theddon in this County), who died March 23rd, 1783, aged 84."

With Henry Wither the connection of the Withers with Bentworth and Theddon ceases.

THE PORTRAITS OF GEORGE WITHER.

There are at least five engraved portraits of George Wither the poet.

(1.) The portrait facing page 87 (and according to Granger the best) is by John Payne. It is prefixed to the folio edition of the Emblems, 1634-5.

(2.) That by William Holle, originally prefixed to Abuses Stript and Whipt, is an oval portrait and round it the words: "I grow and wither both together. G. W. an<sup>o</sup> ætatis suæ 21, 1611."

(3.) That by Roger Daniel (rare), re-engraved by James Brook Pulham in 1827. Above is the poet's motto, "Nec habeo, nec careo, nec curo," and the date, 1623. Round the oval portrait is the legend: "Viva effigies clarissimi Poetæ Georgii Wither"; below, six lines of his verse.

(4.) The Delaram portrait, which in treatment somewhat resembles No. 1, is prefixed to the Preparation to the Psalter, 1619.

A portrait in oils by Cornelius Jansen, which belonged to J. M. Gutch (the friend of Charles Lamb), was sold at Sotheby's in 1858. (See Athenæum, No. 1588.)

HISTORY OF THE PRINCIPAL ESTATES

HELD BY

WITHER, BIGG, AND BIGG-WITHER.

IN the following notes on the history of some of the estates held by the family in Hampshire and other counties, I have tried to combine matter which may be of interest not only to members of the family, but to students of history, especially of the history of Hampshire.

I.—MANYDOWN.

The earliest known mention of Manydown is found in Bishop Sandale's Register,<sup>1</sup> where it is recorded that he sealed an "inspeximus" at Manydown, 27th August, A.D. 1318. Dean Kitchin, in his Introduction to the Manydown and Wootton Court and Compotus Rolls, published 1895 for the Hampshire Record Society, has given a full account of the history of the Manydown Manor. Its salient points I reproduce here, as well as some additional information.

The Manor, at least from 1265 (the date of the earliest Roll), belonged to the Prior and Convent of St. Swithun, Winchester, and included the sub-manors of Hannington and Baghurst. The 131 Court Rolls and 18 Compotus Rolls (1300—1634) which were among the Wither archives, (probably obtained when William Wither bought the Manor in 1649,) are now added to the existing collection of Manydown Rolls in the Cathedral archives, which is thus one of the most complete groups of MSS. of the kind in existence, numbering as it does, 74 Compotus and 190 Court Rolls.

In the early Rolls the Manor was not called Manydown, but Wottone. But in addition to the mention of Manydown (A.D. 1318) in Bishop Sandale's Register, the Compotus Roll of 1328 indicates that there was a Manor house there in that year, for it records that the men of Wottone cut, made, and carried the hay in the Manidoune garden for their lord—"In toto gardino de Manidoune falcando spargendo et levando, ijs."; and where a garden was, there was (says Dean Kitchin) certainly a dwelling-house.<sup>1</sup> It is probable that by this time the monks had already begun to live at Manydown, though for nearly a century longer the Manor is still called Wottone on the marginal headings of the Rolls. It is not until 1430 that the name Manidoune is substituted for Wottone.

It is also evident from the Rolls that there were two Manor houses, one at Wootton and one at Manydown, distant about a mile apart. Dean Kitchin thinks that the change in the name of the Manor coincided with the probability as shown by the extensive repairs necessary in 1338, 1369, and 1378, that "the more ancient house at Wootton had at the end of the fourteenth century fallen into decay or was otherwise less convenient and pleasant for the somewhat frequent visits of the Prior, Receiver, and other Monastic authorities." This view is supported by the fact that in 1380 the garden of the house at Wootton was rented by William Aylmer, then Vicar of Wootton. It is probable that the old Manor house, or part of its site, had become the home of the Vicars of Wootton after 1299, in which year the Rectory of Wootton was "appropriated" to the Prior and Convent of St. Swithun, and the parish henceforth served by Vicars only.<sup>1</sup>

Little of the ancient house at Manydown remains. The present house is in its main features late sixteenth or early seventeenth century. The house is described in a survey made in 1649, the year when William Wither bought the Manor from the Contractors of the Long Parliament. It then consisted of:—

"A faire Hall, a Parlor Wainscotted, a Kitchen, a Buttery, two Cellars, a Larder, one Scullery, a Bakehouse, two Malting-houses, a Kilnehouse, a Wellhouse, Eleaven Chambres within the dwelling-house (whereof five Wainscotted), a Gatehouse Chamber, a Chamber for Husbandmen to lodge in, a Cheese Chamber, two Stables, three Barnes and other necessary Outhouseing, an Orchard, two Gardens, a Courte, a hop Garden, and a large yard, containing in the whole by Estimation eight acres."

In the present house, which retains at least the ancient ground plan, are incorporated traces of the original house, and some pillars in the cellars may be of the thirteenth or fourteenth century. One of the most remarkable of the relics of the old time is the well and raising gear, which has been carried up above the middle of the first floor, so that when once raised the water could run into any of the ground or first floor rooms by gravitation. The house is built round a square court, which is still called the "Cheyney"<sup>2</sup> Court, on one side of which is the old court room, where the lord of the Manor or his representatives (for nearly 400 years the Withers of Manydown) held the "Court leet" and the "Customary Court," where the affairs of the tenants were transacted.

The south front of Manydown house was rebuilt in 1790, when Lovelace Bigg-Wither also added the present dining-room and the large drawing-room over it. An excellent billiard room in good taste has taken the place of some old rooms adjoining the old court room, by which the present owner, Mr. Sydney Bates, has also added greatly to the amenities of the seventeenth century house.

MANYDOWN PARK.

In the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries the park at Manydown was much larger than at present. It extended from Wootton on the east to Hannington and Freemantle Farm on the north-west, and included what is now Tangier Park. It was noted for its good sport and fine timber. In it, the Rolls tells us, were wild animals, "feræ," probably red deer. Here the Prior's friends and even the Lord Prior himself hunted, aye, and royalty, too. In 1324 Hugh le Despenser (Edward II's favourite) came there with twelve horses to hunt with Prior Richard of Enford. In 1361 and again in 1363 the huntsmen of Edward III were there in force. The Prior's huntsmen were also spoken of in the Rolls of 1364, 1377, and 1392. In 1430 one Robert Peverille was amerced for poaching in the Lord's park at Manydown. He "cum canibus suis intravit in parcum domini et ibidem occidit unam feram nomine 'prykēt'" (deer).<sup>1</sup>

The timber in Manydown Park was evidently big and valuable, and was largely used by William of Wykeham when he reconstructed the nave and roof of Winchester Cathedral. The Compotus Roll of 1392 records that ninety-one cartloads, "carectæ," of timber were sent from Wootton in that year, and again in 1398 timber was twice sent for the works at the Cathedral Church. Half a century later, in 1459, three huge oaks, felled at Manydown, were sent to the Priory of St. Swithun's for the roof of the great hall of the Priory, which is still the main part of the Dean of Winchester's residence in the Close.<sup>2</sup> The present area of the park is about 213 acres, exclusive of Tangier Park adjoining. The acreage of the whole estate is now 4362 acres.

A full detailed account of the lands of the Manor of Manydown, and of their value in 1650 and again in 1808, is to be found in Dean Kitchin's book, pp. 178—197.

On the death, in 1653, of William Wither of Manydown, the subjoined interesting inventory of his household goods and of the demesne farm was made. It is inscribed in clear script on a vellum roll 9ft. 7¾ in. long by 4¾ in. wide. The total value of the goods are estimated at £843. 10s. 8d., equivalent in modern value to about £6000. On the death of William Wither's son in 1671 the total value was estimated at more than double that sum, namely, at £1690. 18s. 4d. In a third inventory roll, namely, that made on the death of William Wither's grandson in 1679, the value is estimated at £1401. 11s. 8d. The difference being mainly due (as it appears) to the value of standing corn, which, when the first inventory was made in the month of March, 1653, was of course not much. It is interesting however to note that as time went on a little more luxury appears in the furniture of the rooms, the goods in the "Greate Chamber" being valued in 1653 at £17. 1s. ; in 1671, at £26. 18s. 8d. The value of the silver plate in 1653 was only £11 ; in 1671, £80 ; in 1679, £100, equivalent to about £700 of modern value.

sterling to be paid in two principal terms, viz: at the feast of Easter, and St. Michael the Archangel in equal portions: Whereas the aforesaid Johanna or John will have [illegible] one cloth garment of the aforesaid Prior and of his successors or 6s. 8d. instead of the said garment at the will of the said Prior and of his successors. Whereas also the said Johanna and John or their assigns will have annually during the said term sufficient 'housebote, haybote, fyrebote, and ploughbote' in the woods of the lord there by official weight (per deliberationem officiariorum) of the same lord Prior and of his successors: Whereas the said Johanna and John or their assigns will maintain all the houses, thatched earth walls (stramine coopertos muros terreos), ditches, hedges and fences of the same manor, and to them by these presents demised, in all good and sufficient repair, and will maintain at their own charges and expenses through the whole of the aforesaid term. The aforesaid shall leave 'magno meremio opere,' stones, tiles or slates only excepted: Whereas also the same Johanna and John or their assigns shall find for the Seneschal, Treasurer, and Clerk of the Prior and for others coming with them twice a year food, drink, bed and 'lectennia' required by them, and convenient stabling, hay and provender for their horses sufficient for holding the terminal courts, and also pay the Sacristan of the said Prior all 'feoda et vadia' of old custom: Whereas also the aforesaid Johanna and John or their assigns at the end of the said term shall well and advantageously store in granaries on the site of the said manor all the corn and hay of the manor as well that sown at their own cost as that 'de Rectoria existentia,' and shall leave all hay, corn and straw stored by them at the end of the term on the same site to the use and convenience of the said Prior and his successors: Whereas also the said Johanna or John or their assigns have their 'status' on the site of the said manor, and will inhabit the mansion of the said manor during the aforesaid term: Whereas it is not allowed to the aforesaid Johanna and John nor to their assigns either to demise, let or assign the status or aforesaid term which they have in the aforesaid manor or in the said Rectory, or in any of its parcels without leave of the said Prior or his successors on pain of forfeit of their term: Whereas, if it shall happen that the said rent of £16. 13s. 4d. be in arrear in part or wholly for 12 weeks after the date of the aforesaid feasts . . . or if the aforesaid Johanna and John shall not repair the house and close pertaining to the said manor, in the manner specified above; or if it shall happen that the aforesaid Johanna and John shall die before the said term, that then if the assigns of the said Johanna and John within two months next following their death shall not find two or three good and sufficient persons bound to the said Lord Prior and his successors in a sum of £50 to fulfil, complete and satisfy all and each of the said covenants and payments in this present indenture—that then it shall be lawful for the said Prior and his successors to re-enter upon the lands, tenements, and other premises of the site of the said manor, and to seize, recover, and rehold all stores and utensils specified at the back of this indenture . . . Whereas lastly the said Prior and his successors will render and pay to the King tenths and subsidies on the manor and Rectory during the term aforesaid. In testimony whereof Johanna and John on the one part have set this seal, and the common seal of the said Prior and Convent is set on the other. Given in the Chapter House of the Cathedral Church of St. Swithun, Winchester, the above mentioned month and year.

On the back of the lease is the following in English:—

“Also hit is covenantyd and agreyd bytwene the wythyn wrytyn Persons and grauntyd by the wythyn namyd Johanne and John by these present Indentures That when eny maste yere [i.e., a year in which acorns, etc., are plentiful] shall fortune that then the sayd Johanne and John or their Assygnes shall inclose iij acras grownde or more at their pleasure in the Parcke of Manydowne and leve reasonable maste wythyn the sayd closure. ## 2.—TANGIER PARK.

The property now known as "Tangier Park," consisting of about 143 acres lying north of Manydown Park, was, previous to the Restoration (1660), known as "Fabians." It came into the possession of the Prior and Convent of St. Swithun's, Winchester, early in fifteenth century, and was attached to their great Manor of Manydown. The earliest lease from the Convent in existence is dated 16 Henry VI (1440) to one Robert Dynley, Armg. It was however in their possession as early as 1413, as shown by

the Wootton Compotus Roll of that year.<sup>1</sup> In 1427 the Prior of St. Swithun was fined in his own Manorial Court for blocking up the "bridle path running between the land formerly belonging to John Fabian and the park of Manydown,"<sup>2</sup> i.e., the path running from the present Tangier Lodge along the avenue to the gate overlooking Malshanger.

The Fabian family<sup>3</sup> seem to have been great people in Wootton and Oakley in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, and John Fabian, who in 1411 still held the property, which in 1413 had passed to the Convent, was (as many existing documents show) a person of considerable importance between 1389—1447.<sup>4</sup>

There are no leases of "Fabians" extant between 1440—1570; but from the latter date the history of the property is continuous. It was a copyhold held on lives, renewable by fines.

Throughout the first part of the seventeenth century it was held by the Kingsmills of Woodcote and Sydmonton until the Restoration, when it passed to Sir Thomas Hooke, who is traditionally said to have built the present house, on which is the date 1662, and to have called it Tangier, after the African town of that name, which formed part of the dowry of Charles II's Queen, Catherine of Braganza. In the Chapter lease to Sir Thomas Hooke in 1670, the property is still described as "Fabians." Tangier Park, as it was afterwards called, passed by purchase from the Hooke family in 1710 to Mr. Henry Limbrey, and then by marriage to the Sclaters. In 1833 it was bought by Rev. Lovelace Bigg-Wither, who lived there until 1871, when, after enfranchising it, he sold it together with Manydown to Mr. (afterwards Sir) Edward Bates.

3.—THE MANOR AND ADVOWSON OF WORTING.

CONNECTED WITH THE WITHER FAMILY FROM 1593—1898.

The manor and parish of Worting, which seem to have been nearly co-extensive, comprising about 1100 acres, is situated two miles west of Basingstoke.

In 1016 Worting was a Royal Manor. In that year it was granted by King Edmund Ironside to the Abbey of St. Peter's, Winchester, called the New Minster, afterwards Hyde Abbey,<sup>1</sup> among whose possessions it remained until the Dissolution (1538).

In 1571 the manor and advowson passed, first to Richard Pyncke (one of the Pinks of Bighton and Kempsholt), then to Thomas d'Abridgecourt, a family that owned Strathfieldsaye, then in 1579 to James Rumbold of Preston Candover, all three members of old Hampshire families.<sup>3</sup>

In 1593 John Wither of Manydown bought lands in Worting, and in 1619 his son and heir, the first William Wither of Manydown, bought a moiety of the manor and the advowson from the Rumbold family, and afterwards acquired the other moiety. The lands belonging to the manor in 1620 amounted to 1065 acres.

In 1797 Lovelace Bigg-Wither of Manydown bought Worting House and land from the Edwards family, and built "Scraps" Farm and the adjoining cottages.

After Lovelace Bigg-Wither's death in 1813, his son Harris sold Worting House and forty-seven acres to Lord Spencer Chichester (second son of the first Marquis of Donegal), who was connected with the Royal household at the neighbouring Kempsholt Park, where George IV lived when Regent (1811—1820). From Lord Spencer Chichester's creditors the property was bought by Lady Jones, daughter of Bishop Shiple of St. Asaph's, from whom it descended to the present owner, Lieut.-General Warren.

In 1836 the Warren family bought an additional fifty acres from the Rev. Lovelace Bigg-Wither, who sold in 1866 Scraps farm to the same family, and in 1868, the Worthing Inn and farm (195 acres) to Mr. George Lamb, and in 1871 the Worthing Wood farm and other property in Worthing (amounting to 720 acres) to Mr. Edward Bates.

Hillside House, Worthing, with fourteen acres, was left by the last William Wither of Manydown to Edward Lane, from whose executors it was bought in 1827 by Harris Bigg-Wither of Manydown. Its first tenant after the purchase was his aunt, Mrs. Herbert Hill, widow of the late Rector. Mrs. Harry Blackstone, sister-in-law of the Judge, had previously lived there. This property was sold in 1865 to Mr. George Lamb.

The following members of the family have been Rectors :—

- 1724.—Henry Bigg, afterwards Warden of Winchester College.
- 1731.—Walter Bigg, father of Lovelace Bigg-Wither.
- 1800.—William Heathcote, father of Sir William Heathcote, Fifth Baronet of Hursley.
- 1802.—Charles Blackstone, fourth son of Sir William Blackstone, the Judge.
- 1815.—Herbert Hill, who married Katherine Bigg.
- 1820.—Frederic C. Blackstone, son of Charles Blackstone and Margaret Bigg.

1832.—Harris J. Bigg-Wither, second son of Harris Bigg-Wither of Manydown.

1879.—Reginald F. Bigg-Wither, seventh son of Lovelace Bigg-Wither of Manydown and Tangier Parks, collated, 1898, to Wonston Rectory, Hants.

The old Worthing Church was entirely destroyed by a fire which sacked the village and burnt "a good Christian woman," 9th May, 1655; and the Church that existed in 1848 was pulled down, rebuilt from the foundations and enlarged in that year.

The Rectory House was destroyed in the great fire of 1655. The present house was built in 1732, and enlarged in 1880.

The Schools were built in 1855 by the Rev. Lovelace Bigg-Wither; they were enlarged in 1886, and again in 1901.

The great lime tree by the railway arch was planted in 1740 by the Rev. Walter Bigg, Rector of Worthing, to mark the boundaries of the parishes of Basingstoke and Worthing.

4.—ANDWELL ESTATE (NEAR BASINGSTOKE).

HELD BY THE WITHER FAMILY FOR 167 YEARS, i.e., FROM 1641—1808.

The Priory of Andwell was a cell to the Abbey of Tyrone. Its possessions were acquired by William of Wykeham in the year 1391, and he annexed them to Winchester College in the same year, at which date their annual value was £10.

The Mill and miller of Andwell with a virgate of land pertaining to the mill, and other lands in the immediate neighbourhood appear to have been given to the Priory by Roger de Port in the eleventh century. This fact appears from a charter of St. Thomas a'Beckett confirming the monks of Andwell in their possessions, which is preserved in Winchester College.

The Priory house, a substantial flint building, was pulled down about forty years ago by the then lessee, who sold the materials for the repair of the roads and built the present farm house with money found by the College.

The chapel exists, and is used as a store or granary.

The estate was until recently held under the College on a beneficial lease, renewable every seven years on payment of a fine. The lease appears to have come into the Wither family by purchase about 16 Car. I, A.D. 1641. The following persons appear to have been the lessees at the successive renewals while the lease was in the family:—

In the year 1808 Mr. Lovelace Bigg-Wither obtained the permission of the College to alienate the lease, which passed out of the family in that year by sale to William Trimmer, of Ashley Farm, near Andover.

The rent was £6. 15s. 1d., 515 gallons of wheat and 344 gallons of malt.

5.—THE MANOR OF WOODGARSTON.

OWNED BY WITHER OF MANYDOWN FROM 1619—1871.

Woodgarston or Wodegarstone is a tything and manor in the parish of Monk Sherborne, in the Hundred of Basingstoke, situated about five miles to the north-west of that town, on the road to Kingsclere. The place is chiefly remarkable for the small circular hill fort of about 120 yards in circumference, with a deep surrounding ditch. Situated in a commanding position, over 500 feet above the level of the sea, near the two great Roman roads leading from Silchester to Old Sarum and from Silchester to Winchester, it was probably used as a Roman station; but its origin is doubtless British. The name contains the Celtic word "caer" or "gaer," Anglice "fort," and "ton" is the old word for manor. Thus Woodgarston would signify the fortified enclosure in the wood—the manor of Woodgarston. It comprises about 415 acres, made up of 275 acres round the old fort and five other detached portions, forming a chain of irregular islands in the parish of Wootton St. Lawrence, extending from near Ramsdell Church on the north to the South-Western Railway on the south. This manor has a most interesting and complete history from the time of the Conquest,<sup>1</sup> when, according to the Domesday Survey (1086), it formed part of the possessions of the great Norman baron, Hugh de Port, and was held by him, together with the Manor of Nateley, of the Lords of Basing, and their barony, by the military service of one knight's fee.<sup>2</sup>

In the reign of Henry I the two manors, Woodgarston and Nateley, were granted by John de Port to Matthew de Scures; hence the name of the parish Nateley Scures. Matthew, with the assent and consent of Roger de Scures, his heir, granted Woodgarston to his son Matthew for one-fifth of a knight's fee. The deed making this grant is undated, but has been fixed by Mr. A. W. Kirkaldy, Oxford, and other experts, at between 1160 and 1170 A.D.

Among the ancient deeds relating to this manor of Woodgarston, now in the possession of Mr. Sydney Bates, is one of 10th Henry III (1226) concerning the services in the chapel attached to the manor house. It seems that the Prior of the Benedictine House of Monk Sherborne, about three miles distant, was under obligation to serve the chapel, which he failed to do. James de Scures referred the matter to the Pope. The deed recites letters from Honorius III appointing a commission consisting of the Priors of Carisbrooke, I.W., and of Southwick, near Porchester, and "Master Luke, of Sarum," to enquire into and settle the business. Their award was, and it was agreed, that the Prior and monks of Sherborne were bound to provide for the "celebration of the Divine Office" on three days a week and on certain festivals. Further that when the Scures family were at home, the chaplain, after the service, should have a meal provided for him in the house, and that in consideration of his services certain messuages on the manor should be granted by the Lord to the Prior and convent. It is a remarkable instance of the all-embracing jurisdiction of the Papacy in the Middle Ages, that a dispute about the obligation to serve a small chapel in an out-of-the-way place like Woodgarston, in distant England, should come under the far-reaching ken of Pope Honorius III at his residence at Reate, in Italy, in 1226.

The court-yard of the manor house, now used by farm labourers, is still bricked and paved, and the ruins of the chapel are remembered by more than one old resident.

There are three interesting deeds of the reign of Edward III dated 1331, 1332, and 1340, leasing the manor to Roger de Fyfhide and to Edith his widow. The Fyfhides for centuries held five hides of land (hence the name) at Fyfield near Andover. These leases mention the furniture of the chapel, and give the names of old farm instruments.

In 1381 John de Uvedale married Sibilla, the heiress of the Scures family, and Woodgarston passed to the ancient Hampshire family of Uvedale, in which family it remained until after the death of Sir William Uvedale in 1615. In 1619 it passed by purchase to William Wither of Manydown, and remained in the Wither and Bigg-Wither family until 1871, when it was sold with the rest of the Manydown property to Mr. (afterwards) Sir Edward Bates, Bart.

6.—WYMERING MANOR AND ESTATE.

Wymering, which came to the Bigg-Withers on the death in 1768 of Rev. Richard Harris, brother of Jane Harris, who was the mother of Lovelace Bigg, is of special interest to the family as the home of the Rev. Charles Blackstone (Vicar of Wymering 1774—1804) and of Harris Bigg-Wither from his marriage (1804) to the death of his father, Lovelace Bigg-Wither, in 1813. Here Harris Bigg-Wither's six elder children were born.

The history of the manor has been sketched by Mrs. Andrew Davies in her History of Cosham (pub. 1906). At the time of the Domesday Survey (1086) it was held by William the Conqueror in demesne as it had been by King Edward the Confessor, in connection with Portchester Castle. In the thirteenth century the manor was granted first to Fulkes de Wymering and afterwards to William de Fortibus, and was held of the King by military service at Portchester. In 1285 Edward I granted the manor to John le Botelier, in whose family it remained for a century; it then passed to the Waytes, from whom it passed in 1570 by marriage to the Brunings, a well-known Roman Catholic family. On the death of Edward Bruning, aged 98, in 1707 the manor changed hands several times until in 1761 the Rev. Richard Harris (great-grandson of Warden Harris), Vicar of Wymering and Rector of Wydley, bought a moiety of the manor from Sir Edward Worsley, and in 1768 the rest of the manor from William Smith.

The Rev. Richard Harris died without issue and intestate in 1768, and the manor went to his nephew and heir at law, Lovelace Bigg, who in 1783 added to the property 127 acres by purchase from Lord Dormer.

In 1835 the old manor house and sixty-eight acres was sold by the Rev. Lovelace Bigg-Wither for £5000 to Mr. John Martin, who had long been tenant, and the rest of the property, comprising about 336 acres with house, was sold in 1858 to Rev. G. Nugee and Mr. Thos. Thistlethwayte for £14,827. 14s. 8d.

7.—THE MANOR AND ADVOWSON OF BIGHTON, HANTS.

BOUGHT BY JOHN WITHER OF MANYDOWN IN 1598.

In A.D. 959, King Edwy granted ten mansœ in the parish of Bighton to Hyde Abbey<sup>1</sup> (the monastery of St. Peter by Winchester as it was then termed). At the time of the Domesday Survey (A.D. 1086) the manor of Bighton was held by Hyde Abbey and was assessed at seven hides. It remained the property of the Abbey until the dissolution of the monasteries.

After the surrender of the Abbey of Hyde (1538), King Henry VIII granted the manor of Bighton to his physician, Dr. Augustine de Augustinis, to hold for his life.<sup>2</sup> Later the King granted it to him and his heirs for ever to hold of the King and his successors for an annual payment of £2. 18s 5½d.<sup>3</sup> Three months later Augustine and Agnes his wife sold the manor and advowson to Thomas Wriothesley.<sup>4</sup>

In 1598, Henry Wriothesley, Third Earl of Southampton, sold to John Wither of Manydown the manor and advowson of Bighton together with 1 messuage, 21 cottages, and 400 acres of land for £680 sterling.<sup>5</sup> In 1609 the property was charged with a jointure for Susanna Risley, the wife of William Wither, eldest son of John, and was settled on their heirs.<sup>6</sup> There is an interesting letter now in the possession of Mr. Montagu G. Knight, of Chawton House, dated March 2nd, 1619 from William Wither of Manydown to his "good cosen" John Knight concerning the appointment to the living of Bighton then vacant.

In 1635 (after the death of his wife), William Wither and his eldest surviving son Paul, sold the Bighton property for £600 to Robert Eyre, Esq.<sup>7</sup>

Between 1692—1726, Sir Robert Worsley held the manor. The Tilney family held it, 1726—35. The property reverted to the Eyres in 1743, but in 1795 it passed again away from them. In 1822 the Duke of Buckingham was lord of the manor.

8.—HAINSHILL, CHILTON FOLLIAT, AND WOOLSTON.

THESE THREE ESTATES CAME TO THE FAMILY THROUGH THE BIGGS.

(1) Hainshill—in the parish of Hurst, an isolated part of Wiltshire, six miles east of Reading and four miles north of Wokingham—was the home of Sir Francis Windebank, Secretary of State to Charles I. Here his friend Archbishop Laud visited him several times between 1624 and 1629, as recorded in Laud's diary. In 1640 these two celebrated Royalists and Churchmen were imprisoned, and the house and estate confiscated by the Long Parliament. It was bought by Richard Bigg, son of Alderman Bigg, who died 1632, and was settled on Richard Bigg's first wife, the Lady Phebe Ley, daughter of James, first Earl of Marlborough. Here was born in 1661, by his second wife, his son Lovelace Bigg of Chilton Folliat, who married Dorothy Wither. The estate descended through his half-brother John Bigg (son of Lady Phebe Ley) to Lovelace Bigg, and was acquired in 1787 by Mr. Charles Garth, father of the present owner, Thomas Colleton Garth, the well-known master of the Garth hounds.

On the north wall of Hurst Church is a tablet with the following inscription:—

Near this place lyeth buried the body of the Lady Phebe,
One of the daughters of James Ley, Earle of Marlborough,
Late wife of Richard Bigg of Hurst in the county of Wilts, Esquire,
Who had issue by him 4 sons—James, John, Daniel, Richard.
She died the 13th day of February, 1659.

JAMES LEY, First Earl of Marlborough.
(First Creation, 1629.)

Father of Lady Phoebe Ley, First Wife of Richard Bigg, of Haines Hill.

The parish of Hurst is greatly benefitted by the will of the last mentioned of her four sons. Richard Bigg, who was a Fellow of New College, Oxford, and died 31st July, 1677, aged twenty-seven, left the rents of three houses in the parish of St. Giles in the Fields, London, to the poor of the parish to be distributed annually in bread laid on the black marble slab of the Bigg monument in Hurst Church. His will, which is curious and interesting, (see Appendix III,) was annually read in Church until 1886, from which date Richard Bigg's bequest has been administered in accordance with the provisions of a scheme approved by the Parish and by the Charity Commissioners. £30 is administered in bread during the year. The rest is spent in increasing the allowances of the inmates of the Almshouses at Hurst and Twyford. Any surplus is used to help the poor of Hurst in sickness or distress.

(2) Chilton Folliat, an estate of 300 acres with good house, was bought about 1650 by Richard Bigg, son of Richard Bigg who bought Hains Hill (see above). It was settled by his son Lovelace Bigg on his wife Dorothy Wither in 1686. Here Lovelace Bigg's eight younger children were born (including Warden Bigg and Rev. Walter Bigg). It was the home for twenty years of Lovelace Bigg [Wither] until he succeeded to the Manydown Estates in 1789, when he sold it. Here all but his eldest child were born. Here his grandson, Eroll Blackstone, was curate in 1839—49. In Chilton Folliat Church is the following monumental inscription:—

Here lies the Body
Of that truly worthy Gentleman
Lovelace Bigg, Esquire, of this Parish
Who was the son of Richard Bigg, Esquire, of Hainshill
In the parish of Hurst, and county of Wilts,
And married Dorothy youngest daughter
Of William Wither, Esquire, of Manydown Hants,
By whom he had six sons and six daughters.

[Here follow fourteen lines of laudatory inscription omitted.]

(3) Woolston—near Farringdon, in the present parish of Uffington, Berkshire—was formerly part of the possessions of the Cistercian Abbey of Beaulieu, near Southampton. The property comprised about 740 acres of valuable grazing and arable land, and included a very fine old manor house full of tapestry and magnificent oak panelling. At the Dissolution (1538) Henry VIII gave the manor to one of the Seymours. Later the property was divided, and was owned in the seventeenth and beginning of the eighteenth centuries by the families of Sanders and Hughes, from whom it was purchased in 1754 as to one moiety by Thomas Bigg, who left it to his brother, Rev. Walter Bigg, from whom it came to his son Lovelace, who in 1776 bought the rest of the property together with the manorial rights. The whole was sold by Harris Bigg-Wither of Manydown in 1828 for £25,500, to Captain G. Butler, who sold Woolston Manor Farm (445 acres) in 1864 to Lord Craven. His son, Mr. William Butler, retains the rest.

FAMILIES ALLIED WITH WITHER OF MANYDOWN.

I.—MASON OF SYDMANTON.

JOAN or Johanna Mason married Thomas Wither, of Many-<sup>MASON.</sup> down, who died and was buried at Wootton St. Lawrence, A.D. 1506 (see page 21). The name Mason abounds in the Elizabethan Purveyance taken for the hundred of Kingsclere, A.D. 1575. In this document Thomas Mason of the Sydmanton tything is styled of "Colletts" and "Aynolds." There are also Edmund and John Mason of the same place; George and James Mason, of Erlstone, parish of Burghclere; and Christian Mason, of Freefolk. In 1540 the Rev. Canon Mason was appointed to the Prebend of St. Lawrence the Greater, in the Monastery of Romsey, Hants, to which was attached the Church of Tymbesbury, two miles distant.<sup>1</sup>

The Masons of Hanningford, Co. Huntingdon; the Masons of Sion, Co. Middlesex; and the Masons of Yorkshire bear the same Arms, namely, "Or, a lion rampant double-headed, azure."

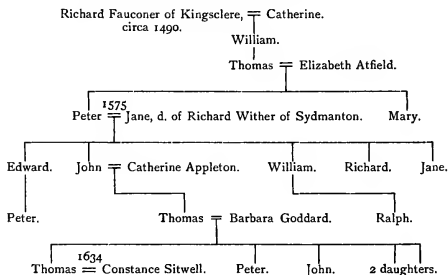

2.—FAWKENER OR FAUCONER
OR FAULKNER.

FAWKENER.

Peter Fauconer, of Kingsclere, married (1575) Jane, daughter of Richard Wither, of Sydmanton (see Pedigree IV, p. 23).

The Fawkeners are a very old Hampshire family. The name of Ralph le Fauconer occurs in a grant of 47 Henry III (1263), relating to Wyke or Week manor, St. Mary Bourne, Hants. In 1552 Richard Fauconer was seated at Hurstborne Priors, Hants. He married Elinor, daughter of George Pembridge, and had issue, Sir Richard Fauconer, who died without issue, and three daughters, the youngest of whom, Alice, married Richard Kingsmill, of Sydmanton.

At the end of the fifteenth century we find another Richard Fauconer at Kingsclere. His great grandson, Peter, married Jane Wither, of Sydmanton. Below is the pedigree:—

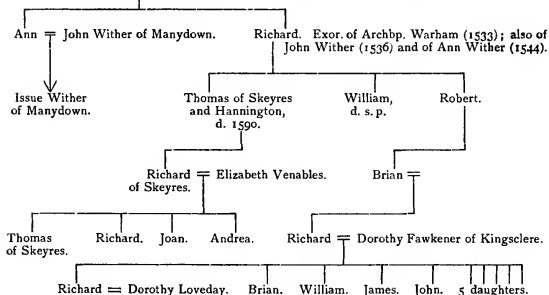

N.B.—Most of the valuable church plate at Kingsclere was given by John Fawkeners in 1694.

Arms.—"Sable, three falcons close, or, beaked, legged and belled, or."

3.—AYLIFFE OR AYLIFF.

Ann or Agnes Ayliffe married John Wither, of Manydown, AYLIFFE. who died A.D. 1536 (see p. 24). The Ayliffes are another old Hampshire family, that in the fifteenth, sixteenth, and seventeenth centuries owned considerable property in North Hampshire, especially at Scures, (or, as it is now called "Ewhurst Park,") at Hannington, and at Dean. In 1501 the manor of Scures, or Skeyres, or Ewhurst, was granted by Magdalen College, Oxford, to William Warham, afterwards Archbishop of Canterbury. From him it passed to John Ayliffe, of Scures.

(1.)—John Ayliffe of Skeyres (Rector of Sherborne St. John, 1535).

(2.)—Richard Ayliff of Dean (Scholar and Fellow of Winchester College), d. 1448.

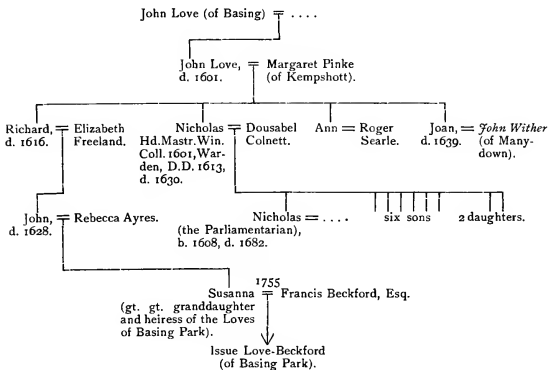

N.B.—Hall Place (Oakley Hall), in the parish of Dean, was bought from the Ayliff family by George Wither of "Hall," in 1619.

Arms.—"Quarterly gules and sable, a lion rampant between three crosses pattées, or: all within a bordure argent charged with eight torteaux."

4.—LOVE.

LOVE.

John Wither, of Manydown (1577—1620), married Joan, daughter of John Love, of Basing Park, near Alton, Hants. The family appears to have been seated at Basing Park early in sixteenth century.

5.—PINKE.

The family of Pinke or Pink, from whence sprang Dr. PINKE. Robert Pinke, Warden of New College (1617), is also an old Hampshire family, originally seated at Bighton, near Alresford. Henry, son of John Pinke, of Bighton, bought the manor of Kempshott, in the parish of Winslade, from Sir Benjamin Tichborne in 1590, and the family lived at Kempshott until the middle of the eighteenth century, and a branch at North Waltham.

There have been at least two marriage connections between the Withers and the Pinkes. Margaret, the sister of Henry Pink, of Kempshott, married John Love, of Basing (see above), and their daughter, Joane, married John Wither, of Manydown, in 1583. Again in 1650, Ann, the sister of Gilbert Wither, of Hall (Oakley), married Henry Pinke, of Kempshott. The last of the line of Pinke, of North Waltham was Dorothy Wither Pinke, who died 1825.

6.—RISLEY.

William Wither, of Manydown (1620—1653) married RISLEY. Susanna, daughter of Paul Risley, Esq., of Chetwode (Bucks), by his wife Dorothy, daughter of Sir John Temple, of Stowe, Knight.

7.—POTTENGER AND ERNLE.

ERNLE.

The family of Ernle derives its name from the village of Ernley or Ernle, in the rape of Chichester, Co. Sussex, where Richard de Ernle was seated, temp. Henry III. His second son, John de Ernle, Knight of the Shire for Sussex (1331), married Isabel, daughter and heir of his uncle, William de Ernle, and widow of Fulco Paulin. He acquired with her in dower the manor of Ernle, etc.

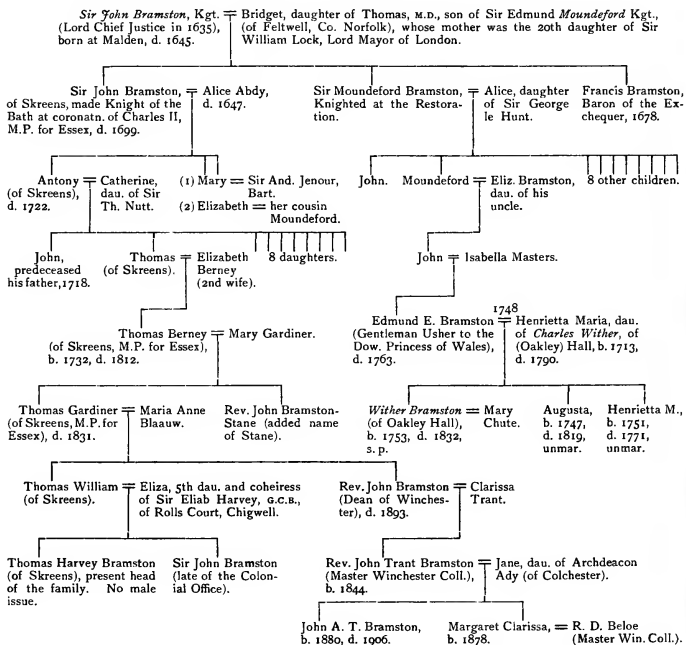

From these ancestors was lineally descended Sir John Ernle, Chancellor of the Exchequer, temp. Charles I, and father of Mrs. John Pottenger above mentioned.

Michael Ernle and his son Edward were successively trustees of three Withers of Manydown. The dates and the hours of the births and baptisms of the three sons of Dr. Pottenger and Ann Wither are accurately recorded in the Baptismal Registers of St. Michael's, Winchester, together with the names of the children's sponsors or, as they were called in those Puritan times "witnesses."

8.—BRAMSTON.

BRAMSTON.

This family has lived at Skreens, near Maldon, Co. Essex, since the beginning of the seventeenth century. It traces its origin from William Bramston, who was Sheriff of London, 18 Richard II (1394). The more modern founder of the family was:—

The Bramston Arms are :—"Or, on a fess sable three plates argent."

The Mondeford Arms are :—"Or, three fleur-de-lis gules."

9.—HUNT, OF BENTWORTH AND THEDDON.

The Hampshire family of Hunt seems to have come from HUNT. Exeter and Chudleigh, Co. Devon. They are traced in the Visitation of 1620 back to the year 1500. Early however in the seventeenth century they are found settled at Bentworth, Theddon, and Popham, Co. Southampton. A dispute arose between these three branches of the family as to the arms, or rather as to the differences, which was settled in 1628, and confirmed by the College of Arms as follows :—

"Whereas difference and question hath been made between the Hunts of Bentworth Hall, the Hunts of Popham, and the Hunts of Ffidding [Theddon], in the parish of Alton, all within the county of Southampton, for the bearing a coat of arms unto which house they all challenge a property. And forasmuch as it plainly appeareth that the Hunts of Bentworth is the prime and principal house as is sufficiently proved. It is therefore condescended, concluded, and agreed between the said parties that the house of Bentworth shall bear the coat and crest without different; the house of Popham with a crescent; and the house of Ffidding with a mullet. And for the publishing of peace and law, the avoiding of questions and contentious trouble hereafter, the parties have hereunto interchangeably set their hands and seals.

Heralds' College,
ch. 19, p. 98.

"(Signed) GEORGE HUNT, ROBERT HUNT.

"The 4 of November, 1628.

"This is a true copy of the agreement concerning the differences betwixt these gentlemen, copied out of the original instrument showed here in the Office of Arms the day of grace aforesaid.

"(Signed) RI. ST. GEORGE CLARENCEUX."

Arms.—"Azure on a bend between two water bougets or, three leopards' faces gules."

Crest.—"On a mount vert, against a halbert erect in pale gules, headed argent, a talbot sejant or, collared and tied to the halbert of the second."

Attached to the above document are the Pedigrees below, signed by John Hunt, of Theddon.

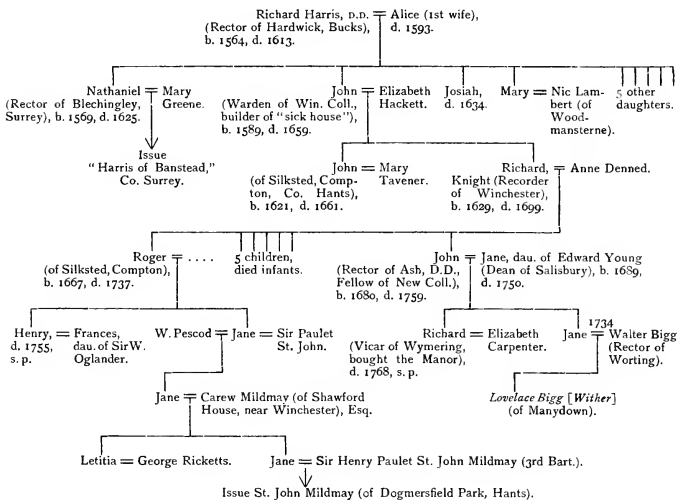

The above John Hunt had two daughters, Elizabeth and Mary, coheireses, the elder of whom married Robert Wither, only surviving son of George Wither the poet, for whose descendants see Pedigree X, Chapter VI.

The Hunts have now disappeared from the neighbourhood, but the interesting old manor house once called "Bentworth Hall," afterwards "Hall Place," now the "Manor Farm," still remains with its stone shield blazoning the Hunt Arms.

10.—HARRIS.

The Rev. Walter Bigg, father of Lovelace Bigg [Wither], <sup>HARRIS.</sup> married (1734) Jane, eldest daughter and eventual heiress of the Rev. John Harris, D.D., Rector of Chiddingfold and Ash, Co. Surrey.

There are two good pictures extant of Jane Harris, the mother of Lovelace Bigg-Wither.

Harris of Banstead (Surrey). The Banstead Branch sprung from Nathaniel, eldest son of Dr. Richard Harris, is very numerous. It was further connected with Banstead through the marriage of Nathaniel's sister Mary with Nicholas Lambert, whose descendants had long resided at the neighbouring parish of Woodmansterne, and now live at Banstead.

Harris of Compton (Hants). The manor of Sylksted, in Compton Parish, was long the residence of the Harris family, and Compton Church is full of memorials of the family, some with very quaint epitaphs. (See Hampshire Notes and Queries, Vol. III, p. 63.)

The family is probably of French origin, for the hedgehog (French "herisson") in the Harris arms is in heraldry associated with De Hériz (Harris).

Arms.—"Azure a chevron ermine between three hedgehogs or."

11.—BLACHFORD, SIMEON, MACKENZIE,
MANSFIELD.

BLACHFORD,
SIMEON,
MACKENZIE,
MANSFIELD.

Lovelace Bigg [Wither], of Manydown, married August 21st, 1766 (as his second wife), Margaret, eldest daughter of Brydges Blachford, Esq., of Osborne, Isle of Wight, and of Jane, his wife (née Pope).

MARGARET BLACHFORD.
Second Wife of LOVELACE BIGG-[WITHER].

Born 1739; died 1784.

N.B.—The manor of Osborne, Isle of Wight, belonged to the old Isle of Wight families of FitzAzor, Liste, Chyke, and

Boureman, in succession up to 1533. The Lovybonds held it from 1560 to 1630; the Manns until 1705, when it passed by marriage to the Blachfords, who held it until 1840. In 1845, the manor and house was purchased by Her late Majesty Queen Victoria, who greatly enlarged the old manor house, built by Robert Pope Blachford. The estate has now (1906) been presented to the nation by King Edward VII. (See Hants Field Club Proceedings, Vol. II, Part iii, for further particulars of the Blachfords, Manns, and Popes.)

Blachford Arms.—"Barry wavy of six or and gules on a chief azure three pheons of the first," borne by Blachford, Lord Mayor of London, 1750.

12.—BLACKSTONE,

OF CASTLE PRIORY AND CROWMARSH, WALLINGFORD, BERKS.

BLACKSTONE.

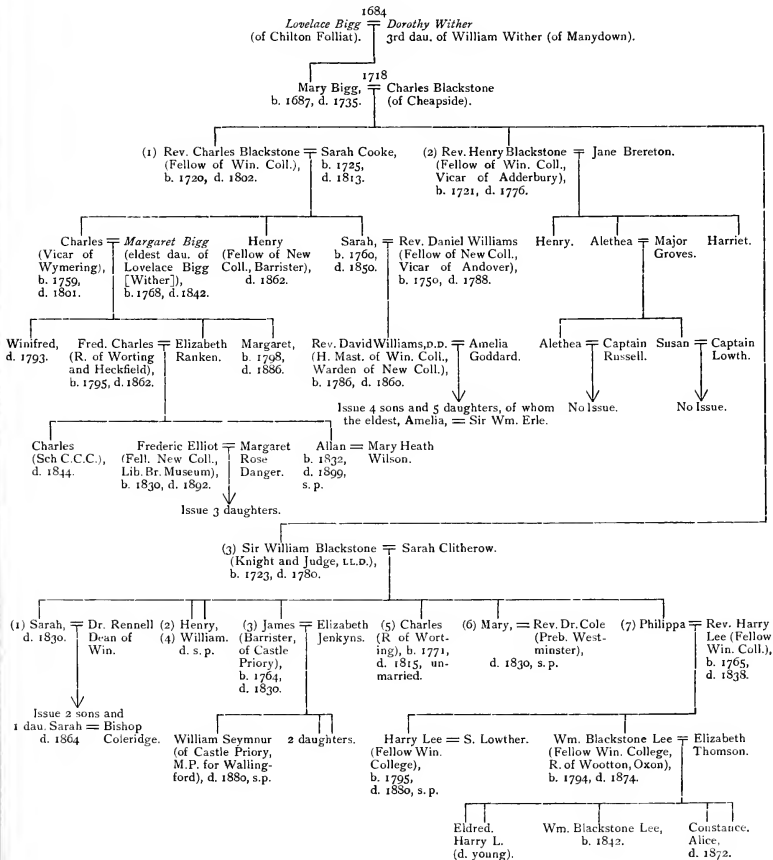

Sir William Blackstone, the learned Commentator on the Laws of England, was first cousin of Lovelace Bigg [Wither], of Manydown, through the marriage of his father with Mary Bigg, sister of the Rev. Walter Bigg, Rector of Worting.

The Crowmarsh and Castle Priory estates came to the Blackstones through the Biggs.

The family is now represented by William Blackstone Lee, J.P. (of Chantry, near Frome), great grandson of Sir William Blackstone by the marriage of his daughter Philippa with the Rev. Harry Lee, son of "Warden Lee," of Coton Hall, Salop.

Arms.—"Argent two bars gules in chief three cocks of the second."

14.—HEATHCOTE,
OF HURSLEY.

HEATHCOTE.

N.B.—The complete History of the Family of Heathcote, which numbers at least fourteen different branches, and has produced many distinguished men, has been fully written by the Rev. Evelyn D. Heathcote (late Vicar of Sparsholt). The work has been beautifully brought out by Messrs. Warren and Son, Winchester, and contains many illustrations and numerous coats of arms.

The estate and manor of Hursley, which was bought from the representatives of Richard Cromwell (the Protector) in 1718, was sold after the death, in 1881, of the late Right Hon. Sir William Heathcote, fifth Baronet, son of Elizabeth, fourth daughter of Lovelace Bigg-Wither.

Arms.—“ Ermine, three pomeis, each charged with a cross, or.”

15.—ORDE.

ORDE. The family of Orde is of great antiquity, and long possessed considerable estates in Northumberland and Durham. The founder of the family was Simon de Orde, of East Orde, Co. Durham, who died 1362. From him descend through junior branches the Barons Bolton and the Baronets Orde. The senior branch is represented by the Ordes of Nunnykirk, Co. Northumberland; the junior branch by the Shafto-Ordes of Weetwood, Co. Northumberland.

Arms.—“ Sable three fishes (salmon) haurient, in fesse argent.”

ORDE PEDIGREE.

- (1) Simon de Orde, of East Orde, Co. Durham, d. 1362.
 (2) William de Orde, of Orde, d. 1399.
 (3) John de Orde, of Orde, living 1406—1438.
 (6) William de Orde (great grandson), d. 1563.
 (7) William de Orde (son), d. 1590.
 (9) William Orde (grandson), High Sheriff of North, b. 1630.

Devised East Orde, West Orde, Weetwood, Felkington, Grainge, to his six sons.

Mr. Orde married, secondly, Marianne Burley, and by her had a daughter Mary Ann, who married in 1848 the late Sir James Domville, third Baronet, who died 1887, leaving a son, Sir William Cecil H. Domville, Admiral R. N. Two other sons, John and Powlett, died young, and their daughter, Eleanor Ida, married Count Francesco Ranchibile.

17.—CARLETON.

The family of Carleton, of Carleton Hall, near Penrith, CARLETON. came originally from Cumberland, where it was settled at the time of the Conquest, the representative of the family then being one Baldwin de Carleton.

The family has always been distinguished by its military services to king and country down to quite recent times. It was represented at Agincourt, October 25th, 1415, by William de Carleton and [Thomas] de Carleton<sup>1</sup>; at Beaujé, 1421, by Captain

The Church and the Law were also represented in the sixteenth century by George Carleton, Bishop of Chichester, and Hugh Viscount Carleton, Chief Justice of Common Pleas, Ireland.

There have been two distinct Baronies in the family, namely, that of Carleton and Dorchester. The first was granted to Sir Dudley Carleton (son of Anthony Carleton, of Brightwell, Co. Oxford, member of a younger branch), who was knighted by James I in 1610. He was Ambassador to the Republic of Venice; Secretary of State, temp. Charles I; and was created in 1628 Baron Carleton and Viscount Dorchester, Co. Oxford. He left no children, and was buried in Westminster Abbey, 1632.

From Launcelot Carleton, of Brampton Fort, Co. Cumberland (brother of Thomas Carleton, sixteenth in direct descent from Baldwin de Carleton), who settled at Rossfad, near Inniskillen, Ireland, temp. Charles I, descended the distinguished General, Sir Guy Carleton, K.B., born 1722. He was Colonel of 4th Dragoons, served in the Guards at the Battle of Fontenoy (1745), was Quartermaster-General under Wolfe during the Canadian Campaign of 1755, gallantly defended Quebec (1775) and saved Canada. He was created for his services Baron Dorchester of Dorchester, Co. Oxford, 1786.

Sir Guy Carleton married (1772) the Lady Maria Howard, daughter of Thomas Earl of Effingham, by whom he had nine sons and two daughters.

CHILDREN OF SIR GUY CARLETON, BARON DORCHESTER.

Sons:—

- (1.)—Guy, born 1773.—Lieutenant 3rd Dragoon Guards, fought at Laincelles, was attacked by camp fever and sent home, where he died November, 1793; ætat. 20.
- (2.)—Thomas, born 1774.—Brigade-Major 1st Dragoon Guards, was shot at the Battle of Catteau while assisting his dragoon orderly, 1794; ætat. 20.
- (3.)—Christopher, born 1775.—Lieut.-Colonel 25th Dragoons. He died of wound fever on board the East Indiaman "Devonshire," in Madras Roads, 4th February, 1806. He married, 1797, Priscilla Belford, who was drowned with her daughter in the founding of a packet which struck the pierhead at Ostend, 29th October, 1815. Colonel Carleton's only son, Arthur Henry, born 1805, became second Baron Dorchester after his grandfather's death in 1808, and died unmarried 1826.
- The fourth and fifth sons, William, born 1778, and Launcelot, born 1780, died the same day of scarlet fever, 23rd October, 1780.
- (6.)—George, born 1781.—Lieutenant-Colonel, wounded at Badajoz, killed at the storming of Bergen op Zoom, 1814. Married Henrietta, daughter of Edward King, Esq., of Askham Hall, Co. Westmoreland, by whom he left three daughters and a son Guy, born 1811, who succeeded his cousin and became third Baron. Guy, Lord Dorchester, died 1875, leaving two daughters, Henrietta Ann, born 1846, and Maria Georgina, born 1847.
- (7.)—Charles, born 1786.—Royal Navy, fell from a mast on H. M. S. "Phœbe," was killed, October 13th, 1799.

- (8.)—Dudley, born 1790.—Lieutenant 4th Dragoons, served all through the Peninsular War, where he contracted pneumonia and died October, 1820.
- (9.)—Richard, born 1792.—Took Holy Orders, and was Rector of the family living of Nateley Scures, Hants. He married Frances Louisa, daughter of E. Horton, Esq., of Catton Hall, Co. Derby, and died 1868, leaving a daughter, Maria Louisa, and a son, Dudley Wilmot, born 1822, who went all through the Crimean Campaign and became Lieutenant-Colonel of the Coldstream Guards. Colonel Dudley Carleton succeeded his cousin Guy in 1875 and became fourth Baron, and died without issue 1897.

Sir Guy Carleton, 1st Baron Dorchester, had also two daughters:—

- (1.)—Maria, born 1779, who married William, second Baron Bolton, and died 1863, s.p.
- (2.)—Frances, born 1785, who married the Rev. John Orde, Rector of Winslade, Hants, Vicar of Kingsclere and Rector of Wensley, and died 1812, leaving five daughters (see Orde family), of whom the youngest, Emma, born 1810, married 1829, Lovelace Bigg-Wither, of Manydown and Tangier Parks, and had fourteen children (see Bigg-Wither Pedigree VII), and died 1902, aged 92.

The Barony of Dorchester was revived in 1899, two years after the death of the fourth Baron, in the person of the eldest daughter of the third Lord Dorchester, the Hon. Henrietta Anne Carleton, of Greywell Hill, near Odiham, Hants. The following letter, dated from Downing Street, July 3rd, 1899, announced to her the Royal recognition of the military services of her ancestors, no less than twenty-nine of whom had served in the Army and Navy since the time of Charles I, of whom sixteen had fallen in active service, including three Carletons<sup>1</sup> at Marston Moor in 1644:—

"Madam,—I have great pleasure in informing you that Her Majesty has been pleased that the Barony of Dorchester should be conferred upon you and your heirs male in recognition of the distinguished military services rendered to Her and Her predecessors by so many members of your family on various occasions, and have the honour to be your obedient servant.

SALISBURY."

Lady Dorchester has by her first husband, Francis Paynton Pigott Stainsby Conant, who took the name of Carleton in place of his last two names, and died in 1883,—one surviving son, the Hon. Dudley Massey Pigott-Carleton, born 1876, and one daughter. Lady Dorchester married again (1887), Major-General Richard Langford Leir, of Ditcheat, Co. Somerset, who added the name of Carleton.

Arms.—"Ermine on a bend sable three pheons argent."

Supporters.—"Two beavers proper, the dexter gorged with a mural, and the sinister with a naval crown or."

FAMILIES THAT ADD "S" TO THE NAME
WITHER, BUT BEAR THE WITHER ARMS.

1.—WITHERS OF LIVERPOOL.

This family bear and have borne for some generations the same coat of arms as Wither of Manydown. Tradition in the family says that the George Withers who married Mary Lay, of Nottingham, and who died a young man in 1774 (see Pedigree below), came from the south of England, and that he "wilfully destroyed memoranda which gave any clue to his former residence." His son Joseph settled in business in Liverpool, and became the progenitor of a numerous family, of whom three at least had a distinguished career, namely :—

- (1.)—Richard Withers, of the Uplands, West Derby, born 1815, died 1884, married three times and left numerous children (see Pedigree). He was for twenty-five years Chairman of the Liverpool Stock Exchange. He was also Deputy Chairman of the Manchester, Sheffield, and Lincolnshire Railway Company; a Director of the South-Eastern Railway Company and of the Bridgwater Navigation Company, and was a member of the Committee of the Railway Clearing House in London. He was Deputy-Lieutenant for Westmoreland and J. P. for the hundred of West Derby.

- (2.)—Colonel Joseph Withers, a son of the above Richard by his first wife (born 1841, died 1899), of Brierly Close, Windermere, was High Sheriff for Westmoreland in 1894.
- (3.)—Harry Livingston Withers, nephew of the above Richard, born 1864, died 1892, was a distinguished Scholar of Balliol College, Oxford, where he obtained a first in "Mods." and a first in "Greats." He became Principal of the Isleworth Training College, and afterwards "Sarah Fielden" Professor of Education in Owen's College, Manchester. Some of his writings with a biographical introduction have been published by J. H. Fowler, of Clifton College, where H. L. Withers was also for a time a master.

The present head of the family is Richard Eric Withers (born 1878), eldest son of Thomas Randle Withers, of the Lowlands, West Derby, Liverpool.

A branch of this family is living in Preston, Lancashire, and bear the Wither arms. A member of the family married, circa 1790, into the ancient Lancashire family of Bigland, of Bigland Hall, near Cartmel, and by a curious coincidence their descendants have been called "Big-Withers."

Their Arms are:—"Azure two ears of big-wheat, or."

The Crest is:—"A lion passant regard; gules, holding in his fore paw an ear of big-wheat, as in the Arms."

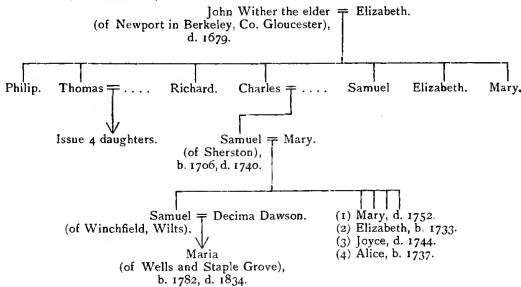

2.—WITHERS OF LONDON.

PEDIGREE of Thomas Withers = Gladys Mary, dau. of (Solicitor, 4, Arundel Street, Strand). Major Edward Bigg-Wither.

The Pedigree below was among the papers of James Tuck Withers (see above).

N.B.—There are at least two other families of Withers living, or engaged in business, in London, that bear the Wither arms, descended probably from Sir William Wither, or Withers, Lord Mayor of London, 1707. (See Pedigree II and Chapter II.)

3.—WITHER OR WITHERS OF UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

WITHER of America.

There are a great number of Withers living in the United States, especially in Virginia, Kentucky, Illinois, Alabama, and Texas; and some of these families use the Wither arms and crest.

Origin.

The tradition amongst them is that in the reign of Charles I, two brothers of the name came from England with a grant of land in Fairfax, now Virginia. The tradition takes various forms, but all agree that these two Withers "presented Charles I with a pair of elk horns, in token of loyalty at a time when evidence of it was grateful to him and dangerous to those who offered it. The king in consequence made a grant of land in Stafford and Fairfax, Co. Virginia."

In the list of passengers who came to Jamestown, Virginia, in the early part of seventeenth century are two Withers. I am informed by Mr. Henry C. Withers, of Carrolton, Illinois, and by Mr. Robert G. Withers, Attorney-at-Law, late of Cripple Creek, Colorado, now of Goldfield, Nevada, and by his cousin, Mr. H. C. Lay, of Telluride, Colorado, that "from these two brothers sprang the two families of Withers, known as those of Fauquier and Dinwiddie Counties respectively. To the first named belong Senator Robert E. Withers (of whom afterwards) and Captain William Withers, and others of the name now in Virginia, Kentucky, and Illinois. The Dinwiddie branch became extinct in the male line in 1879; its representatives are now living mainly in Alabama, Texas, Colorado, and Arkansas."

For the following account of the Fauquier Withers, I am indebted to Mr. Henry Clay Withers, of Carrolton, whose great grandfather on his mother's side was John Bruce, who fought for Prince Charlie at Culloden in 1745, was deprived of his estates in Scotland, and fled with his wife to America.

The first known record in Virginia is of John Withers, the ancestor of Thomas Withers, of Green Meadows, Fauquier County, Virginia, who married and had issue:—

WITHERS of Fauquier, Virginia.

- (1.)—John Withers, who moved to Garllatin, Tennessee.
- (2.)—Mathew Keene Withers, second son, who married Miss Jennings, of Fauquier County, Virginia, lived and died there, leaving several descendants.
- (3.)—William Withers; Captain in the Revolutionary War; wounded in the River Raisin Fight; married Patsey Ashby, and moved to Kentucky.
- (4.)—Enoch Keene Withers, who married Janet Chinn, and died at Green Meadows, Fauquier County, Virginia, leaving Robert Walter, his third son, who married and moved to Campbell County, Virginia, and was the father of Hon. Robert E. Withers, Senator from Virginia in 1878.
- (5 and 6.)—James and Benjamin, both of whom went to Kentucky.

The Hon. Robert E. Withers, above named, was a General in the Confederate Army during the Civil War; was severely wounded in the great Battle of Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, in General Picket's Division, which was nearly all destroyed. After the war he came into prominence in Virginia ; was elected United States Senator from that State. Afterwards, he was United States Consul-General at Hong Kong, China, and later held the office of Grand Master Knights Templar Masons in the United States. He now resides at Wythesville, Virginia.

Captain William Withers, of Virginia, after the Revolutionary War, settled in Mercer County, Kentucky, and was succeeded by his son, Abijah Withers, of Garrard County, Kentucky, married, and had issue :—

William Withers, now of Mineral Wells, Texas ; born 1819.

William Withers married Elizabeth Bruce, daughter of Hon. Horatio Bruce, a lawyer and legislator, of Garrard County, Kentucky, and has had issue :—

- (1.)—Henry Clay Withers, Atty, Carrollton, Illinois.
- (2.)—Dr. Horatio B. Withers, Mineral Wells, Texas.
- (3.)—Zackary T. Withers, Joshua, Texas.
- (4.)—George M. Withers, Mineral Wells, Texas.
- (5.)—Eliza, married to Wallace Baker, Mineral Wells, Texas.
- (6.)—Clara, married to M. W. Parker, Mineral Wells, Texas.

William Withers counts, as now living, thirty-five of his immediate descendants, children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren.

Dinwiddie, Virginia.

The immediate founder of the Dinwiddie branch of the Withers, namely, William Withers, Secretary to Governor Dinwiddie, of Virginia, in 1752, elicited some early facts about his Wither ancestry in a lawsuit, which he successfully maintained v. Augustine Washington in 1755. These facts have been put on record in "Hening's Statutes at Large," Volume VI, page 513, published at Richmond, Virginia, in 1809, by which it appears that John Withers, of the County of Stafford, Colony of Virginia, dying without male issue, left a certain tract of land, known as Chotank, and containing 533 acres, by his will dated 29th August, 1693, to his daughter Sarah, and after her death to Mr. Thomas Withers, of Lancaster, in Great Britain. Thomas Withers died, leaving two sons:—Edmund, who died without issue; and William, who died, leaving issue, Thomas, who died, leaving issue, William, born in England, January 31st, 1731–2. This William Withers came to Virginia in 1748. There is extant a letter written by his grandson, the Rev. Edmund Withers, dated December 7th, 1878, in which he says:—

Will of
JOHN WITHERS, of Stafford, Virginia,
1693.

“My grandfather came to Va. in 1748, to take possession of his portion of a grant of land made to his ancestors by Charles I. It lay in Fairfax Co., and when he came of age, he took possession of it and sold it to Mr. Lawrence Washington. It is still called Woodlawn. In 1752 my grandfather became Private Secretary to Governor Dinwiddie. The fathers were College mates at Trinity College, Cambridge.”

Another of William Withers' grandsons, Mr. John Grammer, a much older man, with a personal knowledge of his grandfather, gave in 1886 the following interesting particulars of this William Withers:—

“From my recollection of my grandfather's (William Withers) conversations, and from information furnished by my mother, his daughter, I am enabled to make out the following account. The father of the above William Withers, who resided in the south of England, was drowned before the birth of his only child, and as it was thought by his family that he had married rather beneath his standing in society, his son was removed when quite young from the care of his mother and brought up in the family of the brother of his father, who was a clergyman having charge of a parish near Scarborough or Flamborough Head, in Yorkshire. Being thus separated from the circle of his immediate family connections, he knew but little of his relations and seldom spoke of his ancestry. He kept up a very affectionate correspondence with his mother until near the outbreak of the Revolutionary War, and from her letters, my mother (who had several of them) inferred that whatever might have been her rank in English society, she was at least a very sensible, intelligent, and pious woman.

"In 1748 or 1749 he was sent by his uncle to Virginia, and received from him as a parting present, a small Bible and a Book of Common Prayer, with an injunction to carry them in his pocket and never permit a day to pass without seriously consulting them, as if properly used they would prove the most valuable inheritance he could possibly receive; and he did carry them in his pocket until they were past using, and I have heard him say that he believed he had complied literally with his uncle's injunctions, having no recollection of ever permitting a day to pass from the time of his first leaving England without reading or having read to him a portion of God's Word.

"These books he had coarsely rebound with leather, and they were so worn when they came into my possession (about six years after his death), that nearly half the outer columns and many lines from the top and bottom of the pages were wanting.

"He came out to Virginia that he might take possession as soon as he might come of age of a tract of land which he inherited from his father, it being part of a grant which had been made by Charles I to one of his ancestors. This tract was in the County of Fairfax, and is a portion of the Woodlawn estate devised by General George Washington to Mrs. Lewis, it having been sold by my grandfather to Mr. Lawrence Washington, by whom it was devised as a part of Mount Vernon to his brother George.

"On his first arrival in Virginia, he landed at Mr. Anthony Walke's, on Nansemond River, in Nansemond County, and he lived as a clerk in Mr. Walke's store until 1752, when on the arrival of Robert Dinwiddie as Governor of the Colony, he was called to Williamsburg, where he resided in the Governor's family as his Private Secretary during the whole period of his administration of the Government. In January, 1758, he sailed with the Governor and his family for England. On the voyage Governor Dinwiddie died, which rendered it necessary for my grandfather to remain with Mrs. Dinwiddie in England more than a year to assist her in settling with the Government the accounts of her deceased husband's administration. Sometime during the year 1759 he returned to Virginia. In 1761 he married, and receiving with his wife a large number of negroes, but no land on which to employ them, and finding the climate of Williamsburg unfavourable to his health, he purchased a tract of land, Locust Grove, in Dinwiddie County, to which he removed in 1762, and on which he resided the remainder of his life.

"He was a man of medium stature, of good features, with a countenance which beamed with benevolence and vivacity, but of very dignified deportment and highly polished manners, with much more taste for literature than for agriculture, and whose reading (especially of his favorite poets, Milton and Young), even after he had lost all his teeth, was so musical, that it was a delight of my childhood to listen to him, even before I was able to understand the meaning of the words. In all his habits, he was remarkable for punctuality, regularity, and temperance, and equally so for the enlightened, cheerful, and devout tone of his piety. He had indeed so used his uncle's parting gift as to obtain from them the richest of all inheritances."

To Mr. Robert G. Withers, of Goldfield, Nevada, I am indebted for the following particulars of the marriage and descendants of Mr. William Withers, of Dinwiddie :—

William Withers (1), born in England, January 31st, 1731 (O.S.); married, October 19th, 1761, Priscilla Wright, of Nansemond, Co. Virginia; died February 26th, 1816, aged 85 years; buried at Locust Grove, Dinwiddie Co.

N.B.—The above genealogies do not carry out the issue of females; but it may be noted that Mary Timberlake Withers (daughter of Thomas Withers and Elizabeth Grammer), who married Roger B. Atkinson, had a daughter Elizabeth, who married the Right Rev. Henry Champlin Lay, Bishop of Arkansas, and later Bishop of Easton, Maryland. One of her children, Henry C. Lay, has given me much information concerning the American Withers.

It will interest English, and especially Hampshire readers of these notes to know that another child of Mary Timberlake Withers and Roger Atkinson, namely Thomas Withers, who died in 1872, was the father of Mary Withers Atkinson, who married J. Bonham-Carter, Esq., of Adhurst St. Mary, near Petersfield, whose sad death, January, 1906, followed so soon by that of his widow, Hampshire people deplore.

There are, of course, many others in America who bear the name Wither or Withers, whose families are not mentioned in the above genealogies, e.g., Mr. Henry M. Withers, Heist Buildings, Vansas City, Mo., who says that his first American ancestor was a General in Cromwell's Army, who came to Virginia at the time of the Restoration, and who was the father of five sons. Other members of the Wither or Withers family will no doubt pardon the compiler of this history if he has found it impossible to trace them all out; but he has little doubt that future researches will enable him to trace the connection with their English ancestors of the two Withers who came to Virginia in the time of Charles I. It is not unlikely that the story of the presentation of the elk's horns will resolve itself into the common custom of those earlier times of tenure of land by yearly or periodic service of some simple character, such as a flag or a rose or a sparrow hawk (see Appendix I). The land in Virginia may well have been granted by Charles I to two loyal Withers by the feudal service of a pair of elk horns.

APPENDIX I.

Extracts from Ancient Documents, A.D. 1005—1413.

BEFORE giving abstracts of various notices of persons of the name of Wither taken from ancient documents, mainly in the Record Office, between the reigns of Kings Ethelred II and Henry IV inclusive (979—1413), I desire briefly to explain the documents referred to under initials.

(1.) Inquisitiones post mortem, or Escheats, of which there are two series: Inquisitiones post mortem.
(a) the Chancery series begin in the early part of the reign of Henry III, A.D. 1216; (b) the Exchequer series begin Edward I, A.D. 1272. They were taken by virtue of writs from the Sovereign to the Escheator of each county or district, who was directed to summon a jury on oath to enquire what lands any person (especially the "tenants in capite") died seised of, and by what rents or services the same were held, who was the next heir, and of what age, that the king might be informed of his "escheat" or "wardship." They are the best evidences of descents of families and of property.

(2.) Subsidy Rolls are records of the Court of Exchequer. They are of two kinds, lay and clerical. Some of these rolls begin as early as Henry III, but most counties have none before the middle of the reign of Edward I. They are of great value both to the genealogist and to the topographer, as they contain lists of the principal inhabitants of every parish, with the amount at which they were taxed, whether in land or goods, thus affording a clue to their position in life, and to the part of the country from which they came. Subsidy Rolls.

(3.) Hundred Rolls, taken under a commission dated 2 Edward I (1274) to enquire about abuses which had grown up during the reign of Henry III, concern rights of manor, free warren, chase, fishery, frank pledge, etc. They give the (a) county, (b) hundred, (c) manor, (d) lord of the manor, (e) free tenants, villein tenants, cottarii, socage tenants. A sequel to these rolls are the Placita de quo Warranto, or trials to test the justice of the claims mentioned in the Hundred Rolls. Hundred Rolls.

(4.) Testa de Nevill contains an account of the "tenants in capite" from the time of King John, A.D. 1199. Testa de Nevill.

(5.) Book of Aids, dated 20 Edward III (1327), gives an account of the knights' fees for nearly every county. Book of Aids.

(6.) Charter Rolls begin with 1 John, A.D. 1199, and practically end with last year of Richard II, A.D. 1399. They include the "inquisitiones ad quod damnum," and contain grants of fairs, markets, licences in mortmain and various privileges. Charter Rolls

Close Rolls.

(7.) Close Rolls, so called because they are registers of sealed or closed letters to individuals on various matters of the highest interest to the genealogist, e.g., orders to the sheriffs, directions for collecting subsidies, assignments of dower, etc.

Patent Rolls.

(8.) Patent Rolls, in distinction to above, were "patent" or open to every one to read and take notice, extend from 3 John (1201), and contain innumerable grants of offices and lands, etc.

Fine Rolls.

(9.) Fine Rolls, which begin 6 John (1205), are records of the Court of Chancery of writs of seisin on heirs doing their fealty or homage for the lands of a deceased, custody of heirs, livery of seisin, of dower, licence to remarry, to leave England, etc., etc.

Feet of Fines.

(10.) Feet of Fines, which begin in the reign of Richard I (1189-1198) and cover an unbroken period of over six centuries, having no parallel in the records of any other country, are practically deeds of conveyance of land. A "fine" was so called, as Blackstone defines it, "because it put an end (finis) not only to the suit then commenced but to all other suits concerning the same matter." "Feet" refers to the title of the records, "Fines sive Pedes (feet) Finium." They are of the utmost value to the topographer and to the genealogist, and the earlier "fines" give minute accounts of the transfer of advowsons and manors at a date when deeds are excessively rare.

There are other public records, e.g., the Plea Rolls and the Coram Rege Rolls, which are referred to in the undermentioned Wither extracts, which I need not explain: and for the character of these and other documents I take this opportunity of expressing my indebtedness to Mr. Walter Rye's Records and Record Searching, and to Mr. Thomas Astle, late "Keeper of the Records."

Vol. iii, p. 346, l. 8.

In a charter of Æthelred, dated 1005, one of the witnesses signs his name as "Ego Wiðer minister." Here ð is the symbol for "th." [See Introduction: "the name Wither."]

WITHER OF GLOUCESTERSHIRE.

A.D. 1220—1379.

A continuous series of references in ancient charters (temp. Henry III) confirm privileges, appoint to offices and record properties, "which their ancestors had had" in the forest of Dene (Gloucestershire) and in the manor and town of S. Briavels, near Coleford, and in other parts of the county, to individuals bearing the name of Wither, or Wyther, e.g.:

In 1220 Richard Wither and Roger Wither are to have their forges in the forest for dead and dry wood [no doubt for making charcoal], "as they had them in the time of K. John and Richard (I)."

In 1225 this Richard is appointed with others "to keep the peace in the forest of Dene." In the same year Hugh Wyther is murdered.

Between 1249-1251 we find "Philip Wyther, the son of Hugh Wyther," "constabularius, wodewardus viridarius et custos foreste sub Comite Warrwice" [Earl Warwick]; but he and his brothers Alexander and Adam seem to have got into trouble about hunting rights. Hugh Wyther gave his son Philip a carucate of land in Newland.

By the inquisition post mortem, A.D. 1270, after the death of Walter Wyther, who held of the king in chief, the manor and serjeantry of the ballivick of St. Briavels, with considerable land also in Caldevalde and in Hewelsfield, together with the manor of Sydneys, all in the forest of Dene, are shown by the Charter and Forest Rolls to have belonged to Walter Wyther and his ancestors from the time of King John. Walter Wyther died at his house at Sydneys, 30th September, 1270, when his heirs were declared to be his twin daughters, Sibilla, wife of Robert de Brunshope, and Elizabeth, wife of William Buter, and their son William, then aged six years.

In the next reign, 4 Edward I, 1275, we find Roger Wyther holding land of the King in chief in the hundred of Botlowe (Co. Gloucester).

In 1308 Robert Wyther holds the manor of Hulle and lands and rents in Berkeley, Pœhampton, and Bvynton (Co. Gloucester), which he and his wife Sibyl convey in 1310 to the Abbot and Convent of Kingswode (Forest of Dene).

In 1319 John Wyther, of Launtony, is mentioned as hunting in the park of Painswick, belonging to the Earl of Pembroke, and in 1341 William Wyther, of Upton St. Leon, as hunting in the same place.

In 1345 John Wyther, of Herthull, is commissioned to arrest trespassers in the forest of Dene.

In 1379 John Wyther, Co. Gloucester, is one of the sureties for the custody of the Priory of Newwent.

Suggested PEDIGREE from above extracts.

WITHER OF STAFFORDSHIRE.

A.D. 1250—1412.

Henry de Hulmes to the Abbot and Convent of Dieulacres, quitclaims his manor of Upper Hulme and a portion of the land called Pescloude lying by the Roches "juxta rupem" in the parish of Leck (Co. Stafford) with warrant in consideration of 27 marks for gersom.

Witnesses, William Wyther, and Robert de Cheltelton, Knights.

A.D. 1292.—Writ to the Escheator, South of Trent, to take into the King's hands the lands of William, son of Roger Wyther, tenant in chief.

Fine Rolls, 21 Edw. I, m. 18.

In January, 1293, Robert Bek granted land and rent in Maddeleye Alfo to William Wyther and Orabilla his wife, for their lives, the same to revert after their deaths to the said Robert and his heirs.

Feet of Fines, Stafford, 21 Edw. I.

In the same year [1293] John de Grendon and Joan his wife granted to William Wyther, and his heirs, a messuage and land in Ouere Matherfeud, for which he gave them a sparrow hawk.

Feet of Fines, Stafford, 21 Edw. I.

On the same date [Jan., 1293] Reginald son of Reginald de Legh granted a messuage and land in Calton to William Wyther and Orabilla his wife, for their lives, by rent of a rose, with reversion to himself and his heirs.

Feet of Fines, Stafford, 21 Edw. I.

On the 3rd of February, 1293, Ralph de Munjoye and Isold his wife granted to William Wyther land in Matherfeud, for which he gave them a sparrow hawk.

Feet of Fines, Stafford, 21 Edw. I.

On the 20th of January, A.D. 1295, Henry, son of Richard Inthelane of Matherfeld, and Julia his wife granted to William Wyther a messuage and land in Swynesscogh, for which he gave them seven marks of silver.

Feet of Fines, Stafford, 23 Edw. I.

Two years earlier, in Hilary Term, 21 Edw. I [A.D. 1293], we find William Wyther serving on a jury in a suit touching the manor of Great Wyrleye, Co. Stafford.

Placita de Quo Warranto, 21 Edw. I, Rot. 31.

In October, A.D. 1295, an order was given to acquit William Wyther of £21. 12s. 8d. which he owed to the Exchequer, as the King has pardoned him at the instance of his brother Edmund.

Close Roll, 23 Edw. I, m. 4.

On the same day William Wyther [Sir W. W. the judge] and Agnes his wife, late the wife of William de Ipstanes were acquitted of £21. 12s. 8d. due to the Exchequer for the arrears of the £10 by which Agnes made fine with the King to marry whom she pleased, provided he was a subject of the King, and of the 50 marks by which she made fine with the King for having the homage of John, son and heir of the said William de Ipstanes. Her dower as widow of William de Ipstanes was only granted to her, on her taking oath not to marry without the King's licence.

Close Roll, 23 Edw. I, m. 4.

In November, A.D. 1303, commission of oyer and terminer was issued to William Wyther and others by jury of the counties of Derby, Stafford, Leicester,

In January, A.D. 1306, Reginald son of Reginald de Legh granted a messuage and land in Calton to William Wyther for £100.

Patent Roll, 13 Edw. II,
m. 36 d.

In August, A.D. 1319, the Abbot of Burton upon Trent complained that Walter Wither of Ilum and Joan his wife, and Philip, Hugh, William and John his sons, Nicholas Wyther of Thorpe, and others, went by night to his manor of Ilum Co. Stafford, broke the gates and drove away cattle.

Feet of Fines, Stafford,
17 Edw. II.

A few years afterwards, January, A.D. 1324, Hugh son of Walter Wyther, and Ellen his wife rented four messuages and land in Ilum of Walter Wyther of Ilum and Joan his wife, and of the heirs of Joan, with remainder, if they die without heirs, to William brother of the said Hugh.

Originalia Roll, 17 Ed. II,
Rot. 34.

The said Hugh and Ellen had a suit at York in the same year against Walter Wyther of Ilum and Joan his wife (1324) concerning messuages and lands in Ilum, probably those mentioned above.

Close Roll, 17 Edw. II,
m. 3 d.

In July, A.D. 1324, Sir Thomas Wither, knight, William de Ipstones, and others, acknowledge that they owe to John de Kynardeseye £20; to be levied, in default of payment, of their lands and chattels in counties Stafford and Derby.

Lay Sub. Roll, Stafford,
 $\frac{127}{1}$ .

In the beginning of the next reign, 1 Edward III [A.D. 1327-8], we find several persons of the name of Wyther living in the hundred of Totmonslow, co. Stafford, as in that year John Wyther of Roucestre, Walter Wyther and Hugh Wyther of Okouere and Ilom paid varying amounts towards the subsidy granted to the King. John de Ypstones of Ipstones, and John de Ipstones of Casterne and Wetton also contributed to this subsidy. The two latter are mentioned as paying their share towards the subsidy collected in the same hundred six years later, 6 Edward III [A.D. 1332-3].

Coram Rege Roll, 272,
2 Edw. III, m. 11 d.
(2nd Nos.)

In Easter Term, A.D. 1328, William, son of William Wither, John de Ipstones, William de Ipstones and Philip de Ipstones were acquitted of the charge brought against them by Isabel, widow of Richard de Picheford, of having caused the death of her husband.

Close Roll, 3 Edw. III,
m. 11.

In September, A.D. 1329, the King ordered the Sheriff of Stafford to restore to Agnes, widow of Thomas Wyther, a messuage and land in Calton and Onemastmathefeld which had been taken into the King's hands by reason of the disobedience of the said Thomas. He and his wife Agnes had acquired the premises in June 1324 from William de Ipstones, and had continued their joint seisin until the tenements were taken into the King's hands.

Feet of Fines, Stafford,
17 Edw. II, Case 209,
File 12, No. 52.

A few years later in October, A.D. 1339, two men named Broun were pardoned for causing the death of Philip Wither of Ylom, presumably the same Philip who with his father, Walter Wyther of Ilom, and brothers, was accused by the Abbot of Burton-upon-Trent of trespass.

Patent Roll, 13 Edw. III, pt. ii, m. 7.

In A.D. 1369 Sir Nicholas Beekes claimed lands in Calton, which he said descended to him from his great grandmother Lettice, who inherited them from her mother Orabella, wife of William Wyther. William and Orabella acquired lands in Calton in 1293.

De Banco Roll (433),
Hilary, 43 Edw. III,
m. 38 d.

In A.D. 1375 we find Simon le Warde and Elizabeth his wife claiming against Agnes Narwedale the eighteenth part of the manor of Alstonefeld, which Roger de Lytelebury gave Sir William Wyther, grandfather of the said Elizabeth, and which, after the death of him and his son Thomas, ought to have descended to her, as daughter and heir of Thomas.

Feet of Fines, Stafford,
21 Edw. I, No. 37.
De Banco Roll, Mich.,
49 Edw. III, m. 370 d.

In the next reign, Richard II, there is no Wither mentioned in connection with Staffordshire. Some years later in the reign of Henry IV, A.D. 1412, Thomas Blunt and Joan his wife claim lands in Ilum. Joan, who was the daughter of William Bygge, had been married before to John Wyther, "Lord of Ilum" [probably the same John who was son of Walter Wyther of Ilum, see above]. The lands in dispute had been settled on her in dower by a deed dated 9 Richard II [A.D. 1385-6]. William Wyther, son and heir of the said John, had taken possession of the lands by force, but was ordered to surrender them to Thomas Blount and Joan.

THE FAMILY OF IPSTONES OR IPSTANES OF IPSTONES STAFFORDSHIRE.

Fine Roll, 21 Edw. I,
m. 26.

8 Dec. 1292. Writ to the escheator south of Trent to take into the King's hands the lands of William de Ipstones, deceased, who held of the heir of Nicholas late baron Stafford, deceased, who has died under age and is the King's ward.

Inq. p. m., 21 Edw. I,
No. 134.

Inquisition taken at Stafford on Thursday before the feast of St. Thomas the Ap. 21 Ed. 1 [19 Dec. 1292]. The jurors say that William de Ipstones, deceased, held the manors of Ipstones and Foxwyst of Theobald de Verdun. He also held Scharpecliff, Padewyck, Le Guyp, and le Wyte Halgh of Lord de Chetelton. Also the moiety of Casterne [where is Ilam] of John, Lord of Ockover. Also a fourth part of the manor of Blumenhal of the heirs of Baron Stafford.

John de Ipstones, aged eight years at Easter 20 Ed. i [1292] is son and heir of the said William. His marriage belongs to the King.

Herald and Genealogist,
Vol. vi, p. 43.

"Erdeswick, in his Survey of Staffordshire (ed. 1844, p. 139), noticing a place called 'Cresswell' in that county, says it was anciently possessed by a race of gentlemen of the same name, and that it afterwards came as he supposed by descent to John de Withers, who called himself Ipstones. That John de Withers, alias Ipstones, had issue Alice, wife of Ranulf Brereton. . . . In 1375-8 we meet with John de Ipstones Miles, 'alias Sir John de Withers al' Ips.,' who was living in Cresswell temp. Edward III, his father having married the daughter and heir of Sir Henry Cresswell. He was the father of William (1398-1400) whose daughter Alice carried the manor temp. Henry VII to Ranulph Brereton."

Erdeswick, Staffordshire,
Ed. 1844, p. 139.

"This John de Ipstones, alias Sir John de Withers al Ips', was knight of the shire for Stafford, and was slain (1394) on his way up to Parliament."

It is evident from the above extracts from Erdeswick and from ancient documents that there was an intimate connection between the Wither and Ipstones families in Staffordshire in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, and it is significant that Burke's General Armory describes the Ipstones Arms as "argent, a chevron between three crescents gules," i.e., the same as the Wither arms.

WITHER OF HEREFORDSHIRE.

(A.D. 1255—1385.)

The references to Herefordshire Withers are comparatively few. There are three undated deeds concerning land and rent in Hereford. To one of these, by which Adam Seym granted land to the monks of Dore, William Wither was a witness. In another he granted certain land in the town of Hereford, "where meat was sold," to Alice, late the wife of Roco, son of Mael.

By the third undated deed, Denise, widow of Henry, son of Ralph, released to William Wyther all her right in a rent which her late husband sold to the said William, issuing from land in the street where meat was hereford. In the latter half of the reign of Henry III, A.D. 1255, William Wyther, citizen of Hereford, released to the Nuns of Cornbury two yearly rents issuing from land in Hereford, part lying in the butchers' market and part in Weibrugestret.

The next reference is of a considerably later date, when near the reign of Edward II, A.D. 1326, Thomas Wither of co. Hereford, with others, bailed Thomas de Everyngham out of Newgate prison.

In the beginning of the next reign, 2 Edward III, A.D. 1328, Thomas Wyther and Sybil, his wife, sold to John Saym and Agnes, his wife, a messuage in Hereford.

In the following year, 1329, an inquisition states that Thomas Wyther and Agnes, his wife, had acquired the manor of Kynebalton of William de Ippestanes, and that they held the same from 1324 [17 Edward II] till 1329 [3 Edward III] when it was taken into the king's hands by reason of the disobedience of the said Thomas to the king. In the same year [1329] the king ordered the sheriff of Hereford to restore the manor of Kynebalton to the said Agnes, Thomas Wyther being then dead. [See Wyther of Staffordshire.]

In June 1336 Robert Moryn and Isold, his wife, sold to Richard Wyther of Walinton a messuage and land, and the moiety of a mill in Upledene.

In the reign of Richard II, A.D. 1385, Walter Wyther and Alice, his wife, sold to Leonard Hakeluyte, John Burghulle, clerk, and John Forest, clerk, a messuage, land and rent in Longford and Hompton.

Extract from the will [A.D. 1413] of Leonard Hakeluyt, knight of Brugewat [Bridgewater]:—

"Item lego fabricie ecclie paroch de Lungwardyn in comū Hēford ix ĩi argenti debī ecclie pdicte ex legaēie de Walter Wyther et exēe suor." [See Feet of Fines of Richard II above.]

In 1427 Robertus Wyther is M.P. for Hereford.

In 1492 Richard Wether of London demises money to the poor and to poor prisoners in Hereford. [See complete will, Appendix III.]

A.—Extracts from Domestic State Papers.

(BRITISH MUSEUM.)

A.D. 1514—1534. John Wither, or Withers, Prebendary of Mapesbury, St. Paul's, London, and St. Martin's, Beverley, York; Rector of East Woodhay, Hants; died 1534; the friend and agent of Cardinal Wolsey.

1514.—No. 5334. Thos. [Wolsey] Bp. of Lincoln, Postulate of York. Indenture by which Anthony de Vivaldis, of Genoa, Will. Botry, mercer, and Tho. Raymond, grocer, of London, engage to pay for Wolsey's pallium and the expenses of his promotion in the Court of Rome, 2000 l. to be repaid by John Withers, clk., and 5704 ducats by Ric. Pace and Will. Burbank, resident at Rome, to Lazarus de Grymaldis and Andrea Gentili, Genoese merchants, 18 Aug., 6 Hen. VIII. Signed by Wolsey and Withers. Seal attached. Latin.

1514.—No. 5396. Pace to Wolsey, Sep. 10 (Rome). Has received his letter, dated London, 25 Aug., expressing his desire that 1260 l. should be paid for expediting his bulls. Has not one "ducat of my late Lord's [Cardinal Bambridge] in my hands: nother the bank of Grimaldi's, nother none other had any money of my said Lord's." All the stuff left at Burbank's departure does not amount to the sum required. The cloth that was sent out of England is not esteemed as the colors were not good. Has, however, done his best, and paid into Grimaldi's bank 4000 ducats of gold. To make up the sum will keep certain rich investments and altar cloth, which stuff did cost my late Lord 500 ducats of gold. Has ordered Burbank to present him with one other rich cloth of Arras, and written to Wythers to supply the sum wanting, and of his grace's desire that proper respect should be had "unto your places which be fallen into great decay."

1534.—Vol. VII, No. 105. Gilbert Burton, priest, to Lady Lisle. Mention of "Mr. Withers' house, a residentiary of St. Paul's." Editor's Note.—John Withers, prebendary of Mapesbury in St. Paul's, who died in 1534.

1534.—No. 1223. Sir J. Russell to Cromwell. Whereas it pleased you to write to my lord of York for the advowson of a prebend held by Mr. Wythers in the Collegiate Church of Beverley, for my chaplain, Manchester, and my lord replied that he never intended to give advowson of that or any other thing in his collation, but that you should have the next prebend not much above 40 li., the same prebend is void by the death of Wythers. Though it is somewhat above 40 l., I suppose it will fall within the limits of his promise. I beseech you therefore to remember my chaplain. Amphill, 2 Oct. Signed.

1534.—No. 1252. Thomas Runcorn, priest, to Cromwell. My Lord my master [Bishop Gardiner] has conferred upon me the benefice of Estwodehay, vacant by the death of Master Widders. As he died intestate, much was embezzled. I sequestered the goods, and took an inventory of the goods and debts which I send you. There was a little plate, now in the hands of a brother of Dr. Layton's, by the doctor's command, but by what authority I know not. He will not deliver it. The rest I send you. I would be glad to know your wishes.

1534.—No. 1660. John Wethers, Merchant Taylor, to Cromwell. The Dean of the Arches has commanded him in Cromwell's name to bring to the latter 250 mks. in ready money, and to give to Dr. Leegh the lease of his uncle, Dr. Wether's house,* which done he shall have ministration given him. Cannot raise this sum from his uncle's goods. Is contented that Cromwell shall have the lease to do his uncle's goods. Is contented that Cromwell shall have the lease to do his pleasure with if he will help him to obtain the stuff, plate and money "conveyed" by his servants. Supposes that John Dolman and his uncle's chamberlain, who robbed the house, have as much as 200 or 300 mks. They say some of the money belonged to Sir Robt. Garryte, priest, who was chief of their counsell in all their false doings. They have also conveyed away the will. Asks him to send letters to his uncle's debtors. The corn and cattle at his benefice of Woodhey was sold by Mr. Kyngsmell much under value. Payment of his debts is also demanded. Begs Cromwell to help him. Has got ready the 250 mks. and asks to whom he shall pay it.

1534.—No. 1661. [John] Whythers.* "The value of plate and ready money, late Master Whythers." Ready money, 8s. 1*d.* For the inventory of his goods at his parsonage of Wodhay, 17*l.* 5s. 7*d.* Plate, gilt, 87½ oz. at 4s., parcel-gilt, 10 oz. at 3s. 8*d.*, and white plate, 559 oz. at 3s. 6*d.* Total, 133*l.* 13s. 10*d.*

1535.—No. 234. List of obligations, bills, and papers in the custody of William Body, custodian of the Jewelhouse. "Bill of goods of Dr. Wyther."

1535.—No. 235. "Plate embezzled by Bodye." * * * * "Beguiled Mr. Whalley by his own saying, at the weight of Dr. Whythers' plate," an ale pot, a goblet, a spoon, and a pair of pouch rings. * * * * A standing cup with a cover from Mr. Whythers' plate, * * * * a vestment and amice of Mr. Withers. "Saved in gold that was parted, and rascald of silver that was coined, 1½oz. Item, said to John Whythers that your mastership had the sapphire, the turquoise, the emerald to your use."

* John Wythers, prebendary of St. Paul's, who died in 1534.

1535.—No. 992. John Smyth, of Paules, to Cromwell. I have to advertise you of my brethren's presumptuous proposed answer to your letter for the next advowson of the vicarage of S. Giles, Cripplegate, granted unto you by consent of Mr. Withers, late deceased, long before his death, as Mr. Incent affirmed when he and I were with you touching our church, * * * * * 19 Dec.

Fabian Wither (goldsmith). See Pedigree II.

1537.—Vol. XII, No. 1150. Assay of silver. Jury between the King and Roger Rowlett and Martin Bowes, masters, and the King's coiners, taken in the Star Chamber at Westminster, 8 May, 29 Hen. VIII. List of names among which is "Fabian Wether," crossed out.

1538.—Vol. XIII, No. 1280. The King's Payments. Fabyan Wythers (goldsmith), servant, that gave pomegranads 6s. 8d.

1539.—No. 403. Grants in February, 1539. Grant 20. Fabyan Wythers, goldsmith of London. Licence to export 40 quarters of wheat within the next three months. Westminster, 5 Feb., 30 Hen. VIII.

Vol. CXLIV, 19. Dr. George Wither [Archdeacon of Colchester] to Walsyngham. In favour of the strangers of the Dutch church in Colchester. Advantages of their residence in that town.

JAMES I.—A.D. 1603—1610.

1604.—Vol. VIII (p. 123). Presentation of Thos. Beresford on resignation of Dr. Hen. Withers, to the parsonage of Eynesford, Kent.

1623.—Vol. CXXXVII, No. 27. Chamberlain to Carleton. More feasting and dancing this Christmas than ever. The masque scenes were devised by Inigo Jones, and the masque written by Ben Jonson, but he runs a risk by impersonating Geo. Withers, the poet, as a whipper of the times, which is a dangerous jest. * * * London, 25 Jan.

CHARLES I.—A.D. 1625—1636.

1626.—Vol. XVIII, No. 66. William Wither [of Manydown] to Sec. Conway, Lord Lieut. of Hants, promises that at all times of musters he will be ready to show one light horse with his rider completely armed.

1626.—Vol. XXX, No. 63. Letter from the Council to the Duke of Buckingham. In the form of letter to the Lord Lieutenants of the several counties, apprising them that it is the King's pleasure that if the persons employed to exercise the Trained Bands are willing to stay in England, their allowances from the several counties should be continued. This letter relates to John Withers and Emanuel Healing, who had been employed in that service in the Cinque Ports.

1628.—Vol. XCIII, No. 1. Commission out of the Court of Exchequer to Francis Windebank, George Wither, and two others, to examine witnesses on behalf of John Chamberlain, of Sonning, against Matthew Payne, Henry Soundy, and John Symonds. Westminster, 12 Feb.

Vol. XCIII, No. 52. Commission to Anthony Wither and others to find out all moneys collected by one and one half per cent., or tonnage of shipping, towards the expedition for suppressing the pirates of Algiers. Westminster, 16 Feb.

1628.—Vol. CXII, No. 76. Sec. Conway to Isabel Lady de la Warr, of Middleton (Longparish), Hants. Has received her letter in favour of Mr. Withers for a company. The regiment which her son commanded is disposed of to Sir Henry Whitehead, who must also have a company, but Conway will see if Mr. Withers may not have that company. If not, in honour of her request, he shall have another.*

1628.—Vol. CXVI, No. 42. Sec. Conway to Sir Henry Whitehead. When the Secretary was moved by Lady de la Warr to confer the company in the regiment, which was lately her son's, on Capt. Withers, he forebore to resolve until he had acquainted Sir Henry. Now sends the commission that Capt. Withers may receive it from his hands. 5 Sept.

1629.—Vol. CXLV, No. 57. Grant to Henry Withers, the King's servant, of the benefit of two recognizances forfeited by John Lyvesay, George Chauncey and John Munck, at Hertford Assizes, amounting to 80 l. in all. Westminster, 26 June.

1630.—Vol. CLXXIV, No. 97. Abstract of a commission [from the King] to Anthony Wither [brother of poet] and Samuel Lively to repair into the cos. of Gloucester, Wilts, Oxon, and Somerset, and the several places there where white cloth is usually made, and there to notify the commission, and inquire in a manner therein directed how the statutes for true cloth making are executed. Whitehall, 29 October.

1631.—There is a note of this commission in a list of various letters patent granted during 6 Ch. 1. Vol. clxxxvii, No. 46.

Vol. CCVI, No. 56. Statement of Anthony Wither concerning the opposition he received from Nathaniel Stephens, Justice of the Peace in co. Gloucester, in the performance of his commission to see to the true execution of the statutes for clothing.

No. 57.—Another similar statement of Anthony Wither concerning the similar opposition of Sir John Danvers.

1632.—Vol. CCXV, No. 56. Anthony Wither, one of the Commissioners for reforming cloth-making, to the Council. Report of his proceedings and the

WILL OF RICHARD WETHER, CITIZEN OF LONDON.PROVED 5TH NOVEMBER, 1492. [P.C.C., 114 Doggett.]

I desire to be buried in the parish church of St. Peter "the Power" in the new Aisle before the Altar of St. Katherine there.

I bequeath to the High Altar there for my offerings forgotten 26s. 8d. I have granted £50 to the reparation of the new work of the said church, whereof I have already paid £30.

I will that a priest shall pray for my soul, the souls of my father and mother, and all Christian souls, in the said church, and there to be present and sing at Matins, High Mass, and Evensong, and daily to say his mass at the said Altar of St. Katherine; and every day after mass, he is to say at my tomb de profundis for my soul and the souls aforesaid, and on my burial to cast holy water, and he to have yearly for his salary ten marks.

I will that my obit shall yearly for ten years be kept in the said church,—13s. 4d. to be expended at every obit.

I will that the beadle of my craft shall have 12d. a year to give warning to the wardens and my Fellowship of haberdashers to be at my obit, and each of the said Wardens coming to my obit to have 12d.

I will that yearly there shall be expended at my mansion in the said parish 13s. 4d. for my said Fellowship and other honest people coming to my said obit during the said ten years.

I bequeath to the use of my said craft and Fellowship of Haberdashers my best standing cup silver and gilt, covered.

I will that four of the said Fellowship shall bear my body to my burying, and shall have 3s. 4d. each.

I will that during the said ten years, every Sunday 13 poor men and women, not being common beggars, shall be present during mass at the Altar of St. Katherine, and shall pray at my tomb for my soul and the souls aforesaid, and afterwards shall be rewarded in good beef or mutton value 2d., a penny loaf and a penny in money.

I will that every summer, during the said ten years, two cart loads of coals of charcoal shall be bought, to be given to the poor of the said parish in winter.

I will that every year, during the said ten years, an obit shall be kept for my soul and the souls aforesaid, by the Prior and Convent of the Friars Augustines, in their convent church, and they to have yearly for the same 13s. 4d.

I bequeath 13s. 4d. to the Crutched Friars of the city of London to pray for my soul.

I bequeath 5s. to every house of the poor Lazars next the city of London.

I bequeath 20s. to the "Frirers observaunces" at Greenwich to say one Trentall of masses and Placebo and Dirige for my soul.

I will that within the said ten years there shall be dealt in shirts and smocks of canvas and strong linen cloth for my soul, to the value of £10.

I bequeath 6s. 8d. to the Brotherhood of Papey to sing Placebo and Dirige for my soul within the time of my month's mind in my said parish church.

I will that four orders of Friars shall bring my body to the burying, and sing Placebo and Dirige one after the other within my parish church, and every order to say a trentall of masses within their convent church for my soul and the souls aforesaid; and I bequeath each order for their labour 40s.

I bequeath 10s. for a trentall of masses of St. Gregory to be said for my soul within my parish church.

I will that twenty poor men shall hold my torches and tapers at my burying and month's mind, and each of them is to have a black gown and hood, 12d. in money, and meat and drink. Of which said torches I bequeath four to my parish church, four to the Friars Augustines, two to the Charter House of London, two to the Nuns of Halywell, one to the parish church of All Hallows in the wall of London, one to the church of St. Mary Stanyng, one to the parish church of Newington in Surrey, and one to the Charnel House.

I bequeath to my godchildren 6s. 8d. each.

I will that in every prison in London, Southwark, and the Fleet, 6s. 8d. shall be bestowed in bread among the poor prisoners.

I bequeath to every poor householder in my parish 20d.

I will that there shall be given in alms ten marks at my burying and month's mind, every person to have a penny.

I bequeath £20 to acquit prisoners out of the prisons in London for the debt of 20s. or under, and a like £20 for prisoners at Hertford (sic); and if there is any overplus it shall be given to the poor in the town of Hereford aforesaid.

I bequeath 12 dozen silver spoons, each dozen worth 36s. 8d., to the marriage of poor maidens of good name, whereof six dozen to be given in London, and six dozen in Hereford. The eldest daughter of Johan a Woode shall have a dozen, and Eliz. Takley and her daughter shall have a dozen between them.

I bequeath to Cecily my wife, the residue of my goods.

Executors.—Cecily my wife, William Wordeboys, and Henry Somer. I bequeath to the two latter £5 each. I ordain Wm. Curteys, one of the Customers of the King in the city of London, and I bequeath to him £40.

Witnesses.—Wm. Sutton, Doctor in Divinity, Wm. Barton, priest, and Wm. Camp, notary.

Proved 5 November, 1492, by the three said witnesses, and commission was issued to Cecily relict and executrix, etc.

WILL OF RICHARD BIGG,

FOURTH SON OF RICHARD BIGG, OF HAINES HILL, HURST, AND OF THE LADY PHEBE LEV. DATED 20TH JULY, 1677.

"In the name of God Amen. I Richard Bigg lately Fellow of New College in Oxon being at this time in perfect health and memory doe make constitute and ordayne my Last Will and Testament to be as followes, viz: Imprimis I commend my soule to God that gave itt me in sure and certain hopes of a joyful Resurrection, merited by the death of Jesus Christ my Redeemer. Item I give my body to the ground and I desire that I may be buried in the parish Church of Hurst, it being the place where my father lived many years and was also buried. And I desire that I may lye in that part of the Church where a monument may be raised upon my grave like to that monument which is in the Churchyard of the said place upon the grave of Mr. Maynard. Item I make constitute and ordayne Hugh Hunt, Citizen and Scrivener of London the sole executor of this my last Will and Testament to whom I give during his natural life the full entire revenue, rents and profits of the George Inn in St. George in the Fields: And after his decease to the use of the parish of Hurst, and all my study books, watches and rings whatsoever not otherwise disposed of. Item I give William Barker Esq. one gold ring of 20/- value. Item I give to Mr. Francis Simpson of London, upholsterer, all my goods as Lumber sheets wearing apparrell together with all debts that is due from him to me. Item I will and desire that my buryal may be with all privacy that is possible without any mourning scutcheons or any of the like formality. And I desire that there may not be drunk at my funeral one drop of wine as the usual custom of England is; But that a sermon may be preached at my funeral upon this text viz 'He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord'; and I desire that 10/- maybe given to the Minister for his pains. Item that 40/- maybe laid out for bread to be given to the poor of the said parish according to discretion of the Overseers of the poor of the said parish. I desire that the grave wherein my body is buried may be dug nine or ten feet deep if it may be permitted. Item I desire that every year on th 4th day of Nov. may be preached a sermon in the said parish Church on the above named words viz 'He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord,' the said day being my birthday. Item I give and bequeath 20/- to the preacher of the said sermon every year to be paid unto him for his pains. Item I desire that the overseers of this my Will and Testament may yearly appoint and nominate the Minister or Priest to preach the aforesaid Sermon. Item I constitute ordain and will that the Annual Rents of my three Messuages or Tenements in the parish of St. Giles in the Fields, the said annuities of twenty pounds and except which I have already disposed of, be, according to the discretion of the overseers of the poor and Minister of the said parish of Hurst for the time being, laid out in Bread and every week viz on Sunday mornings be put into a basket appointed for that purpose and set upon my grave stone in the Church during divine service and after divine service is ended to be distributed to the most indigent and houseless poor creatures of the said parish either men women or children. ## APPENDIX IV.

A.—Notes on Parish Registers.

Parish Registers in England were established in consequence of a Royal injunction issued by Thomas Cromwell A.D. 1538, at the command of Henry VIII, who ordered "That every Parson, Vicar or Curate . . . shall for every Church keep one Book or Register, wherein he shall write the day and year of every Wedding, Christening and Burying made within the parish, . . . and also there insert every Person's name that shall be so wedded, christened and buried."

In 1558 an injunction of Elizabeth provided that the incumbent of each parish should annually send to his bishop a transcript of his year's register. Both injunctions were, it seems, generally disregarded, or the early registers have been lost, for a return of the early part of the last century showed that out of about 11,000 parishes in England, only 812 registers began in 1538.

In 1597 the Convocation of Canterbury, with the approval of the Crown under the great Seal, issued an ordinance that parchment register books should be purchased at the charge of each parish, which order has greatly tended to their preservation.

In 1653 a registrar was appointed by Act of Parliament for each parish, but the Registers were, during the Commonwealth, very badly kept, the reason being, no doubt, partly the unsettled nature of that period, and partly, as a note in the Wonston registers says, because "the Registrar deputed had not what was due to him for it." Moreover a Justice of the Peace was substituted for the Rector or Vicar of the parish to perform the marriage ceremony, which was seldom entered in the parish register.

In 1678 an Act was passed called the "Woollen Act," which ordered that "for the encouragement of the woollen manufacturers . . . no corpse should be buried but in woollen" under a penalty of £5. Attached to many burial registers is a list of "affidavits" to the effect that the Act had been carried out. The Act was always unpopular, and was repealed in 1812, but long before that date it had become a dead letter.

In 1753 Lord Hardwick's Marriage Act prescribed a special form of the entry of banns and of marriages, from which date the registers of births, marriages and deaths are usually in separate books, in addition to a Register book for the Publication of Banns of Marriage.

N.B.—For convenience of reference the dates in the following extracts are given at the beginning of each entry in uniform manner, instead of in the varying place of the original registers. The spelling of the names has not been altered.

Extracts from Register Books of Wootton St. Lawrence.

Bigg, Mary.—"Anno Dom<sup>ni</sup> 1674. Mem.—That in the year above written Mrs. Mary Bigg, the relict of Richard Bigg, lately of Haynes Hill, in Hurst, in the co. of Berks, Esq., she being a sojourner at Manydowne did this year give unto our parish church of St. Lawrence, Wotton, a fair carpet for the communion table with a large cushion of velvet, both of a purple colour, and upon both of which the two first letters of her name are embroydered in gold. Ita testor Gulielmus Manning, Vic."

[This lady was the mother of Lovelace Bigg, of Chilton Folliat, Wilts, who married in 1684 Dorothy Wither, of Manydown, grandparents of Lovelace Bigg-Wither, who succeeded to the Manydown estates in 1789.]

Wither, Mary.—"Anno Dom. 1689. At Easter, in the year above written, Mrs. Mary Wither, now of Manydowne, the relict of William Wither, late of Manydown, Esq., and mother to William Wither, the young gentleman and heir of Manydowne, now living [he was then aged 11], gave a fair silver flagon to the parish church of St. Lawrence, Wotton. Ita testor Guilielmus Manning, Vicar."

[This lady was Mary, daughter of George Wither, of Winchester, who married in 1673 William Wither (iii), of Manydown. By her will dated 30th August, 1699, she gave "a handsome velvet cushion for the pulpit in Wootton Church in the roome of that which my dear Husband gave suitable to the pulpit Cloath, and the same letters put on this as was on that, only dated according to the year it shall be brought in." She died the next year.]

Wither, Elizabeth.—"The Exors. of Elizabeth [née Nicol], the relict of William Wither, Esquire, in pursuance of her last will and testament dated May 31st, 1735, gave a handsome silver Patten and Chalice for the Communion Table of the Parish Church of St. Lawrence, Wotton, Nov. 3rd, 1735. Tho: Fenton, Vicar."

"The said Mrs. Wither gave likewise in her will the sum of a hundred pounds for putting poor children to apprenticeships, and appointed her two sisters, Mrs. Judith Gounter and Mrs. Frances Nicol, together with the Vicar of this Parish, to be Trustees for the disposal of the said hundred pounds, with which the following persons were accordingly apprenticed:—

N.B.—On N.E. wall behind the altar of Romsey Abbey Church is a tablet in memory of Godwin Withers, died Nov. 21, 1829, aged 43 years, and of his widow, Mary Elizabeth, died 1886, aged 90, and of their children, Seward, Margaret, Gustave, Josiah and Godwin drowned at sea.

C.—Holt and North Walsham, Co. Norfolk.

The registers and Churchyard monuments of Holt are full of the name Wither or Withers.

There are none of the name living in Holt now (1907), but the demolished "Church House" was the home of a Withers family within the memory of present parishioners. New Street in Holt was originally called "Withers Street."

The present Rector (Rev. L. B. Radford), to whom I am indebted for the following information, is writing a history of the parish.

There are also many monumental inscriptions to members of the family of Wither(s) in North Walsham Church (see below), where the arms are the same as Wither of Manydown with slight differences.

I have appended some further references to Norfolk Withers taken from Blomfield's History of Norfolk and Dew's Monumental Inscriptions.

The Holt Registers begin in 1557.
